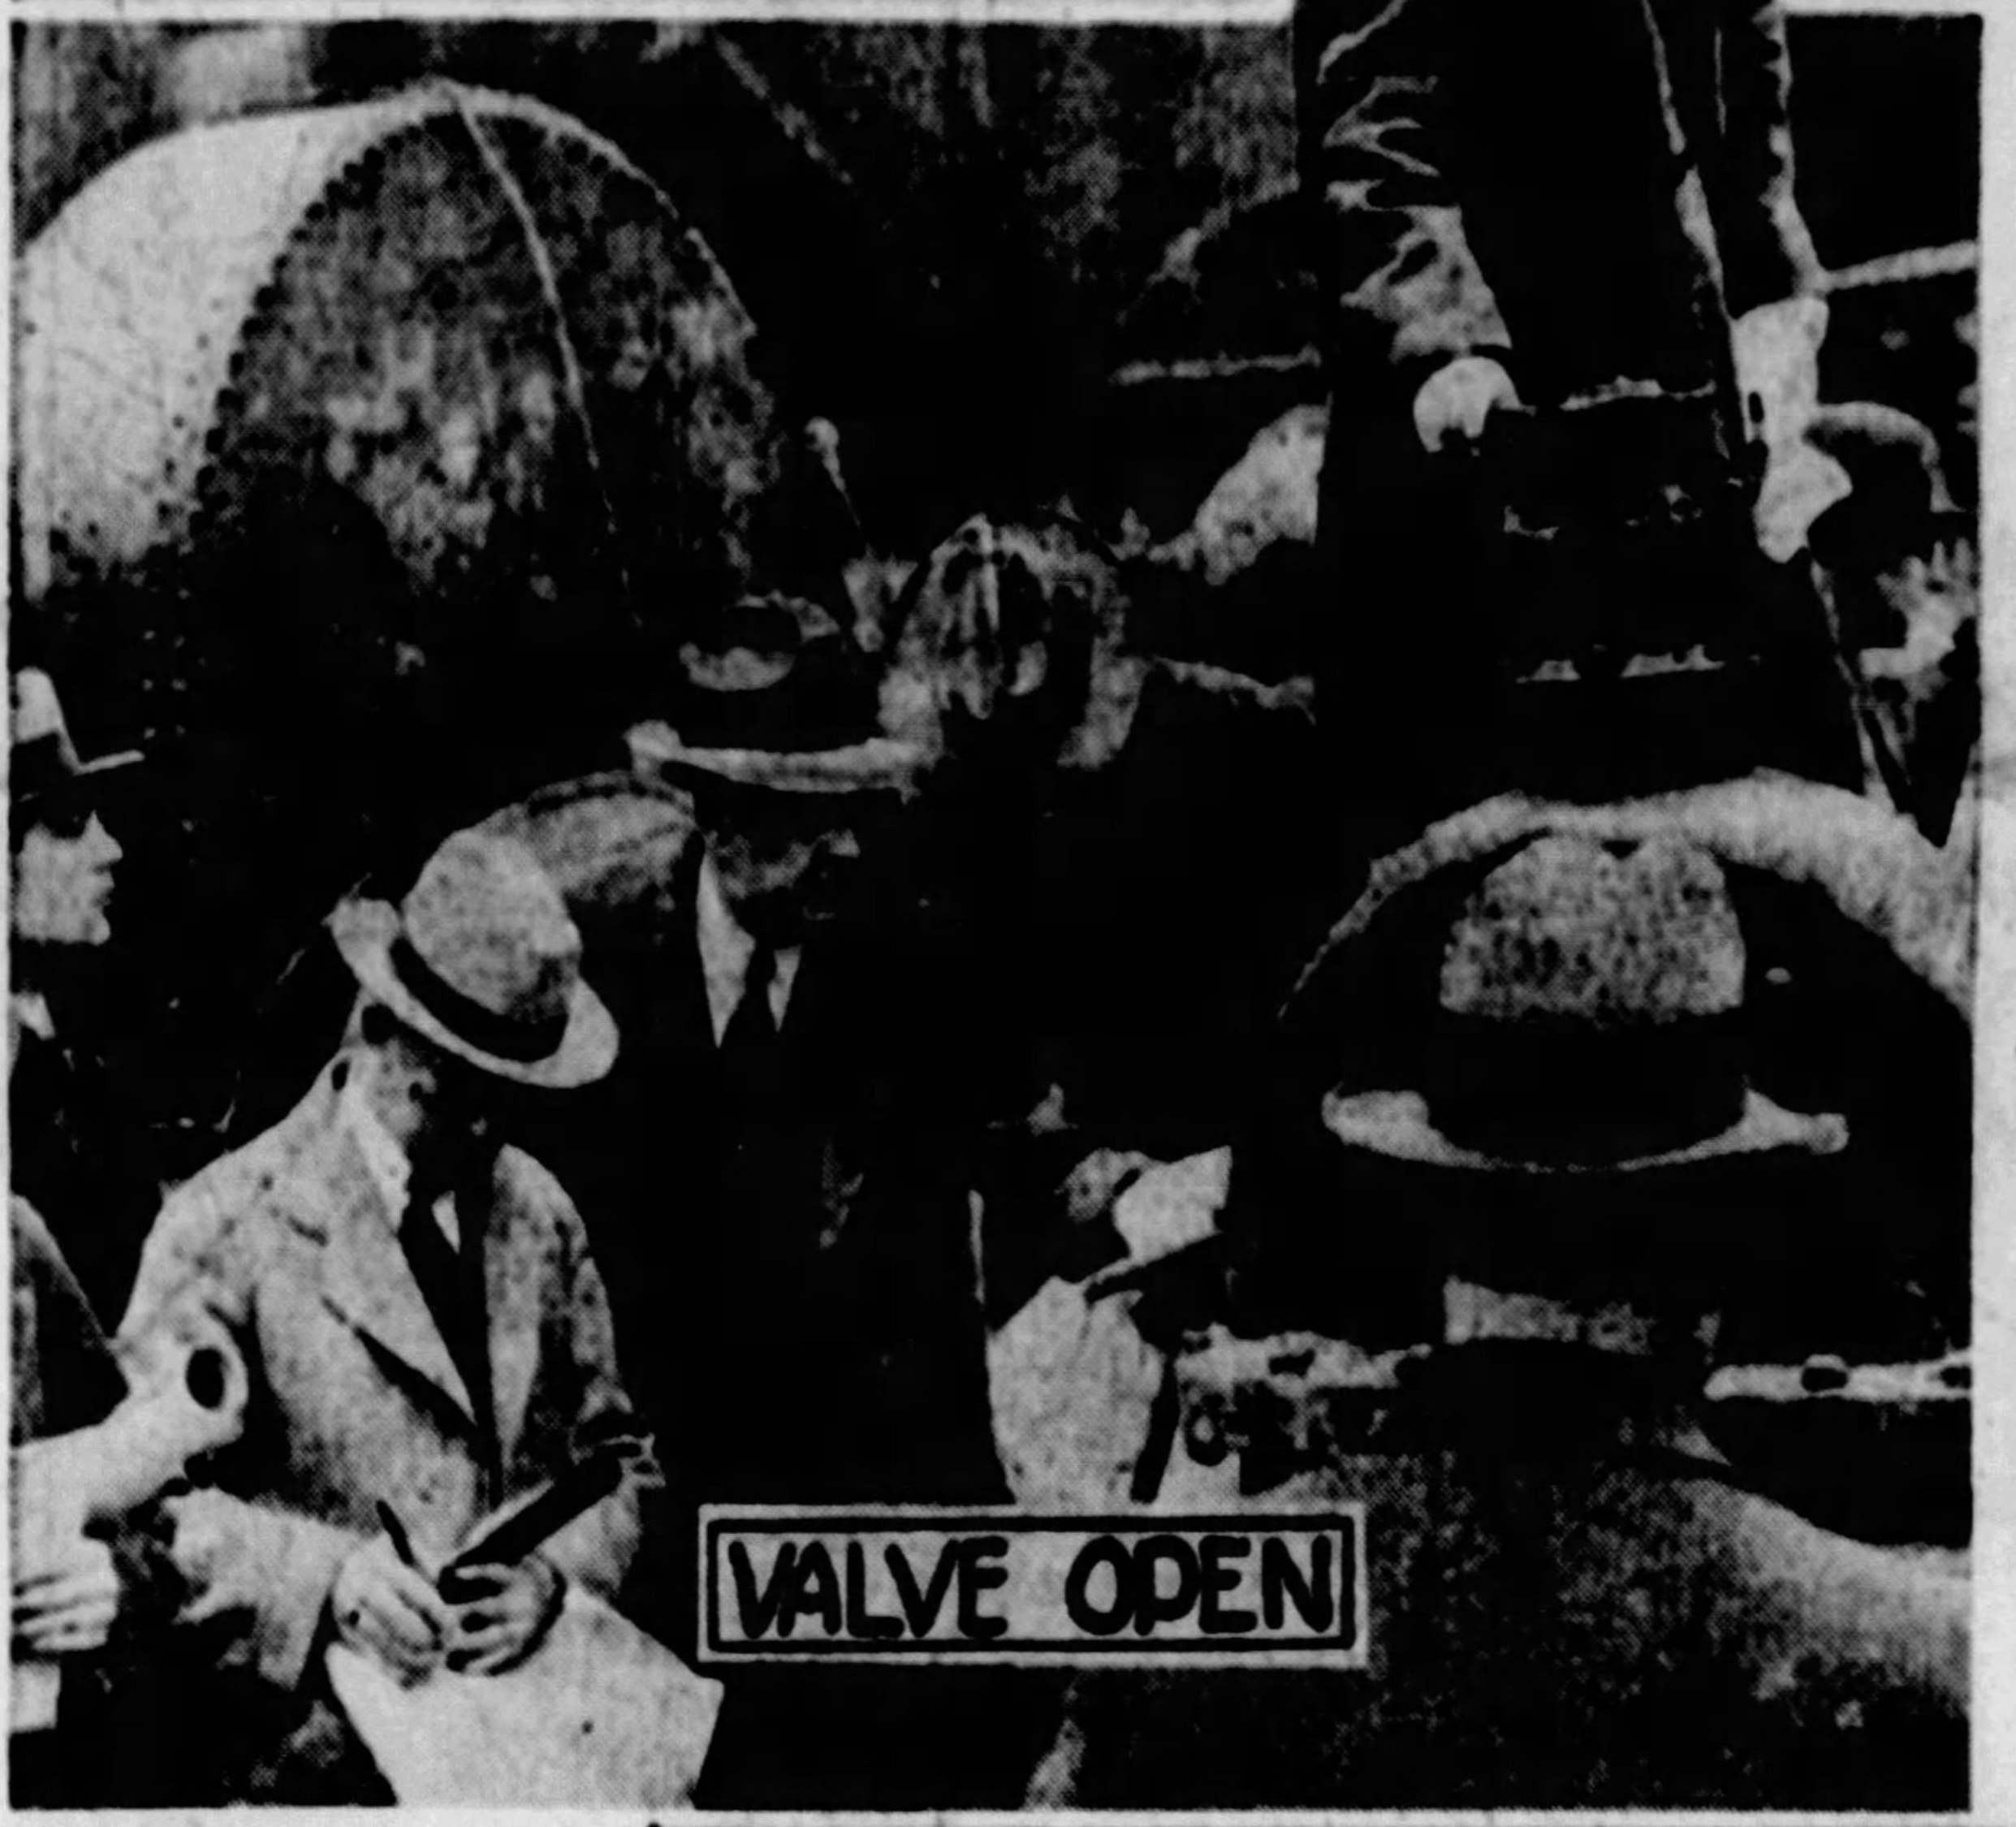
BUNGLE HUNT



SEEK EXPLOSION CAUSE

State and government officials, Coroner W. J. McGregor and Equitable Gas Company engineers this morning tested valves which controlled the flow of gas and air at the scene of last week's disastrous Manchester gas tank explosion. The upper photograph shows the general layout of blowers in the pump house next to the tank which blew up, wrecking two others and spreading death and destruction for miles. In the lower picture are a group of engineers and officials studying one of the big valves which controlled the big tank. Maurice Scharff, chief engineer of the Philadelphia Company, is standing atop one of the blowers directing the valve check.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The lookout station of the Marine Department of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce reported that Capt. Giles was sighted over the Farallone Islands, 30 miles out at 7:50 a. m.

By International News Service

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—A man-made bird was winging westward today in another attempt to conquer the Pacific.

Delayed by adverse weather conditions for the st week, Capt. Frederick A. Giles, British airman, again took to the air at 7:24 this morning. He hopes to be in Hawaii before noon tomorrow.

Giles' first attempt last Saturday was of only 6 minutes duration. He got his heavily laden Hess Bluebird

Insane by Blast, Storms Gas Office

BECOMING suddenly insane, Kirey Kozin, 53, North Side gas-blast victim, created a disturbance in the office of the Equitable Gas Company, Reedsdale street, and heavily manacled, was taken to Allegheny Police Station.

Kozin left his wrecked home at 1241 Ridge avenue, at 8 o'clock this morning and went direct to the gas office, where his ravings attracted Chief Charles Jones, of the Duquesne Light Company's force. He battled with Kozin and finally sent him to the police station charged with disorderly conduct.

Still manacled, Kozin was arraigned before Magistrate E. M. Hough, who held him over for mental examination.

Neighbors said that Kozin, had continued to occupy his wrecked home since the blast. It has neither doors nor windows. A cot without covers, a bare table and a coffee pot were the only articles of furniture. A bank book showed Kozin has $700 on deposit in a bank. He also had some Russian certificates.

FAIL TO HALT ACT

Members of the Homestead Ministerial Association, attempting today to prevent further appearances of "Peaches" Browning at a Homestead theater, were thwarted at every turn. When they called at the office of Burgess J. J. Cavanaugh they were told the borough's chief magistrate was at Harrisburg, and it was suggested that they call upon the president of Council.

Divorce Husband Offered to Pay For Denied

Collusion has been committed in the husband's promise to pay for the divorce proceedings, Judge John A. Evans ruled today in Common Pleas Court in refusing a divorce decree to Anna Briggs, 40, of Duquesne, who had sued John A. Briggs, druggist, on grounds of desertion.

Judge Evans made his ruling after Briggs had admitted that he had promised to defray the costs.

FOUR coal miners killed, twenty wounded, including women and members of the state police, in the Colorado coal strike. The National Guard is sent and the Governor declares martial law.

The richest country in the world should find some better way of settling strikes than shooting coal miners or shooting state police.

Compulsory arbitration is difficult, but not impossible. It works successfully in some other countries.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE talked with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, about soft coal labor troubles in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio. Labor men charge that railroads are united "to depress prices of coal for fuel purposes."

GOVERNMENT might in certain cases affecting public welfare, fix prices of the product and the labor that produces it.

There was no hesitation about fixing the wheat prices during the war, a fixing process that cost the farmers about $2 on every bushel that they might have got and didn't get on every bushel.

THE much discussed "companionate" marriage of a young man of 20 with the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. Haldeman-Julius is not as new as it seemed. After marriage each will live at home to solve problems of housekeeping.

RUTH AND JUDD LOSE APPEAL; MUST DIE

By International News Service

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder and her suitor, Henry Judd Gray, convicted of killing Mrs. Snyder's husband, Albert Snyder, Queens county art editor, lost their appeal for a new trial in a decision handed down this afternoon by the Court of Appeals, New York state's highest tribunal.

The last hope the condemned pair now have of evading the electric chair at Sing Sing is Gov. Al Smith. It is expected the governor will be asked to commute the death sentence of Mrs. Snyder and Gray to life imprisonment.

The decision of the court was unanimous.

CHAIN SHOP TREASURER MISSING

George J. Vogel, Jr., of 423 North School street, Avalon, treasurer of Vogel Brothers, proprietors of a chain of meat and grocery stores in Pittsburgh, has been missing since Sunday, November 13. His brother, William H. Vogel, president of the firm, said today he suspected foul play.

About the time that George Vogel disapepared letters from him were received by a number of persons, in which he said he had been threatened by blackmailers, whom he named. The accused were summoned before Clyde Edeburn, captain of detectives, and questioned. They denied the charge.

Express Co. Indicted

An indictment that may have an important bearing on railroad transportation of fruits, vegetables and other perishable commodities today was returned by the Federal grand jury here against the Fruit Growers Express Company, a Delaware corporation, with main offices in Washington and a branch office in Twenty-first street, Pittsburgh, charging the express company with falsifying records of ice placed in refrigerator cars containing perishable goods consigned to this city, and with other irregularities.

The grand jury, spending more than a day in its investigation, returned a

IRENE CASTLE

Protesting the use of tail sets and other training equipment used to prepare show horses for exhibition, Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, once America's foremost exponent of the dance, sent a letter to a Chicago newspaper which resulted today in an investigation of the practices as the annual Chicago Horse Show opened. Mrs. McLaughlin described tail sets, devices used to arch show horses' tails into that peculiar loop effect, as "hideous instruments of torture which produce only a caricature of what nature meant a horse to be."

DEMAND FOR VOTING MACHINE GROWS

Hubert F. Shearer, custodian in the registration commissioner's office, who, at the request of Charles C. McGovern, county controller, has been demonstrating voting machines in various parts of the state, reported today that there is a widespread demand in Pennsylvania for the use of these devices to insure honest elections and a quick, accurate, inexpensive count of the ballots.

Shearer was in Lycoming county last week, where he showed the machine and its method of operation to the delegates at the seventh annual convention of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, to the members of the Rotary Club and the Business Exchange Club of Williamsport, and other organizations. On this trip more than 1,000 men and women operated the machine as they would if voting.

Controller McGovern, Shearer said, is having voting machines shown to the people of Pennsylvania for no other reason than in the hope that through the use of these devices crookedness may be eliminated from elections. McGovern and his associates are footing the bill for the demonstration. The manufacturer of the machine has offered several times to send one of his own employes to demonstrate it, but the offer was declined, that there might be no suspicion of a commercial motive as the actuating force behind the appeal that is being made to Pennsylvanians.

Mrs. Lulu Mosby had a voting machine at Harrisburg during the last session of the Legislature. More recently, Shearer has been showing it to civic societies and trade bodies. It has been displayed

A Mexican Misstatement

In a statement issued on November 16, the Mexican Foreign Office, through its embassy in Washington, charged that the selfsame documents, now being published by the Hearst newspapers, were offered for sale for $25,000 to the Mexican consulate in Los Angeles on August 24 last.

The embassy described these documents as forgeries and claimed that, without attempting to discover the purport of the documents, the purchase offer had been refused.

This statement issued by the Mexican government is a deliberate falsehood and can be proved to be such.

On the date mentioned—August 24, 1927—these original documents were in the possession of Hearst executives in New York City.

As a matter of fact, these documents had been in the possession of the Hearst newspapers since June last!

The fact that these documents were in New York—and not in Los Angeles—on August 24 was known to William Randolph Hearst personally and to not fewer than seven of his executives.

The Mexican government's claims that the documents are not authentic will be effectively disposed of before the Sun-Telegraph completes this series of articles.

Tomorrow the Sun-Telegraph will reveal how the Mexican government interfered in the internal affairs of England in its efforts to promote bolshevism.

Turks Here For Own Finale

NORTH SIDE EXPLOSION PREVENTED BY FIREMEN

THE GOOSE HANGS LOW

What's sauce for the turkey, so it seems, is also sauce for the goose. Geese rivalled gobblers as the day's best sellers at the wharf markets. Here's a heavyweight champion weighing in for the last time.

TURKEY FOR CLAIRTON

Mrs. Sidney Light came all the way from Clairton to meet the demand which she is certain will be made on the Light hospitality Thursday. She chose a bird whose forefathers were good enough for the early arrivals on the Mayflower.

BEARING THE GRUNT

This gentleman selects a young porker, famous for its squealing capacity and satisfying to strong appetites. Pork fanciers, refusing to recognize the turkey, insisted there was nothing quite like a young porker. This is one little pig that went to market and won't come back.

TO BE, OR—

These four gobblers spent a cold day in a chilling pen, shunning all buyers and wondering whether they were destined to rise with the dawn come Friday morning. It seems it was a turk who first said, "Ah! life is uncertain at its best."

WEINBERG PUTS UP BOND

Abraham Weinberg, head of the Northwestern Detective Agency, of New York, and "star" investigator for the Citizens League, returned to Pittsburgh yesterday, posted bond for one criminal charge against him, was arrested on a warrant charging perjury, and then was forced to submit to being finger-printed and photographed by police before he had arranged sufficient bond for his liberty.

Sol Rosenberg, another league investigator is expected to arrive in the city today to furnish bond. He, Weinberg and W. L. King, former secretary of the league, were named in an indictment returned by the grand jury a few days ago, in which the three are charged with conspiracy to indict. King has not yet been located, although warrants are out for him.

Upon his arrival in the city, Weinberg immediately went to the office of the District Attorney where he posted [illegible] bond for his release but [illegible] rushed to the Bertillion [illegible] printed and photographed. [illegible] protests. Later he was [illegible] a warrant charging perjury, preferred by C. R. Wilson, of the Lyceum Building. He posted bond of $1,000.

The perjury charge is in connection with information made before Justice of the Peace George B. Shields of Wilkinsburg, last summer in which Wilson, with George Jaffe, proprietor of the Academy Theater and Samuel Korman were charged with conspiracy to violate gambling laws by arranging to open a booking office in Lyceum Building. Wilson is a rental agent for the building.

THANKSGIVING, 1927

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

UNDER the guidance and watchful care of a Divine and beneficent Providence this country has been carried safely through another year. Almighty God has continued to bestow upon us the light of His countenance, and we have prospered. Not alone have we enjoyed material success, but we have advanced in wisdom and in spiritual understanding. The products of our fields and our factories and of our manifold activities have been maintained on a high level. We have gained in knowledge of the higher values of life. There has been advancement in our physical well-being. We have increased our desire for the things that minister to the mind and to the soul. We have raised the mental and moral standards of life.

We have had the blessings of peace and of honorable and friendly relations with our sister nations throughout the world. Disasters visiting certain of our States have touched the heart of a sympathetic nation, which has responded generously out of its abundance. In continuing to remember those in affliction we should rejoice in our ability to give them relief.

Now that these twelve months are drawing to a close, it is fitting that, as a nation, and as individuals, in accordance with time-honored and sacred custom, we should consider the manifold blessings granted to us. While in gratitude we rejoice, we should humbly pray that we may be worthy of a continuation of Divine favor.

Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do hereby set apart and designate Thursday, the twenty-fourth day of November, next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and recommend and urge that on that day our people lay aside their usual tasks, and by the family fireside and in their accustomed places of public worship give thanks to Him who holds us all in the hollow of His hand.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this twenty-sixth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and fifty-second, biplane into the air without difficulty but upon encountering a soupy fog over the ocean returned to the flying field.

BRITON ON 2D ATTEMPT

If the British aviator reaches Hawaii, he plans to continue his flight to New Zealand, via Pacific points, making the last jump from Australia.

Once off the runway, Capt. Giles seemed to experience great difficulty in attaining altitude. His maximum altitude before he disappeared from view, six minutes after the takeoff, had been not more than 200 feet.

Near the completion of his circle the plane lost fully one-third of this altitude and it seemed for a moment as though the Hess Bluebird was going to be compelled to land.

After he completed his circle he headed to the north, toward San Francisco proper. He cleared a small hill that intervened between the airport and the city by not more than 40 feet and then disappeared in a northwesterly direction in the smoky haze that hung over the industrial section of San Francisco.

The airman slept at the field all night, arose at 4:30 a. m. and ordered the mechanics to tun up the motor of his plane.

A small crowd of mechanics an hour before dawn swarmed over his little Hess Bluebird plane, putting on the last-minute touches. The plane was poised at the head of the runway in readiness for the take-off hours before the flight began.

Meteorological experts were at the field, taking readings with special instruments to gauge the wind. A red flare was sent up, attached to a balloon with a known ascension speed. The experts checked the velocity of the wind by this means.

Weather conditions for the hop-off seemed almost ideal. A gentle breeze in a northwesterly direction was noted.

A low mist bank was hanging over the horizon toward the West. The runway was smooth and hard, despite recent rains.

As Giles settled himself in the cockpit, he looked around casually, smiled down at the group of friends beneath him on the ground, and said:

"Well, you'll hear from me in a day or so."

Capt. Giles' food supply for his 2,400-mile hop included four sandwiches, one pint of milk and 19 cans of concentrated United States Army emergency rations, which would be sufficient, it was estimated, to sustain life for three weeks.

In the cockpit of the Hess Bluebird plane, pasted in the line of vision of the aviator, was a snapshot photograph of Miss Wanda Hess, for whom the plane was named The Wanda. Miss Hess is a sister of the designer of the ship.

When questioned by reporters as to whether he was her fiance, the pilot only smiled enigmatically and said:

"Wait, we'll see."

'PEACHES' GIVES TAME SHOW

and a day in the federal penitentiary, Atlanta, Ga., and the borough clerk had no further suggestions for the crusading ministers. He added:

"It doesn't look as if 'Peaches' show is going to have a record-breaking run and her house will be 'dark' before Kline gets back."

"Peaches" is a "flop."

Her manager came out and told the audience so before she appeared on the stage last night. "She can't act and doesn't pretend that she can," he said.

The audience agreed with him.

SHOW NEEDS GANDER

He said nothing about the well-known African honking gander. "Peaches" needed it to add a bit of comedy to her otherwise very circumspect and conventional behavior on the stage.

That manager, by the way, looks so much like "Peaches" lamented husband that he felt called upon to open his remarks with the statement: "I am not Mr. Browning."

"Daddy" Browning's Cinderella Girl's appearance and conduct could not but win the approbation of any church member. If the Homestead ministers who are planning to seek an injunction or something had attended the show at any of her three appearances yesterday, they must have given her a vote of confidence for uplifting the morals of the stage—in appearance at least.

"Peaches" wore gowns that reached to her ankles except right in front. The first one was a black satin evening gown, with crocheted roses around the waist. The other was white silk, which almost swept the floor. In this last one she did a dance with a boy who helps in her "act," while in the first she did a talking song which ended up:

If I ever get married again,
I'll stay away from millionaire men.

FIREMEN PREVENT BLAST

Prompt action by firemen probably prevented an explosion on the North Side today when, with chemicals, they extinguished a blaze in the cab of a filled gasoline tank truck at Perrysville avenue and Vinceton street. The district is residential.

When the flooring of the cab caught fire Charles Thaner, 35, of Chestnut street, the driver, made a futile effort to quell the flames with rags. A pedestrian turned in an alarm from box 274.

Firemen of Engine Company No. 54, eight blocks away, sped to the scene and soon had the flames subdued. Had the tank become overheated, they said, an explosion would have occurred.

Today

while the bride continues her work in high school and then in college, and the young man continues studying at the University of Kansas.

If the marriage doesn't turn out to be perfect, the plan is to arrange for a divorce.

THAT is looking farther ahead than young people generally care to look. Life, marriage and other things may not be perfect, but the young think, hope and believe that they are.

And THINKING, HOPING and BELIEVING gradually build up what is worth while in life.

THE big Dupont Company went on a $10 dividend basis yesterday. Stockholders got their regular dividends on the $10 basis, amounting to $6,654,045, and as an extra, $11,312,146 dividend on General Motors stock, owned by Dupont.

THIS emphasizes the dominating position of General Motors Company in the automobile world.

One hundred and fifty-three automobile manufacturers produced in October 221,292 cars. Of these General Motors sold 150,833, almost 70 per cent of the total output.

SOON will appear the new Ford car, and then will come automobile production on a greater scale. Mr. Bernstein, who recently settled a law suit with Henry Ford, has had a long talk with Ford and saw the new car. He described it as a "small Lincoln."

THERE are various ways of dealing with a jury in our democracy. High finance hires private detectives to trail each juror and report which one is "open to reason" or interested in an "automobile as long as a city block."

IN Chicago, the simpler way is to warn the jury that convicting an accused man, important in underworld crime, means a bomb thrown in your window or a blackjack on your head.

Eight witnesses testified that they saw a certain individual kill a junkman who had refused to obey gang orders. One juror wanted to convict, but voted for acquittal when the eleven others warned him that to do so was to endanger his life and his family. The accused gangster having shown justice "where it got off," walked out of prison, "free and vindicated."

WILLIAM C. HOVERTER, just elected city treasurer of Reading, Pa., on the Socialist ticket, will not escape criticism by any "regular" politician. His job is worth $20,000 a year, and he accepts only $6,000, saying: "Where the average citizen finds it hard to make ends meet, an official should not get $20,000 a year."

That is no way to make Socialism popular with practical politicians.

THE Italian King called Mussolini to power when the Facisti marched on Rome, but has never adopted the Fascist salute. When people cheer him the King uses the regulation military salute, avoiding the Fascist salute, which requires the arm held out straight with great vigor.

The Italian King lives in fortunate safer days. Poor Louis the Sixteenth of France put the cockade of the revolution in his hat, but even that didn't save the head under the hat.

THE price of cotton went up violently as the estimate of the crop went down below 13,000,000 bales yesterday. The rising price is good news for the South and the whole country. But it is a pity that cotton men must depend on the boll weevil or a Mississippi flood for decent prices.

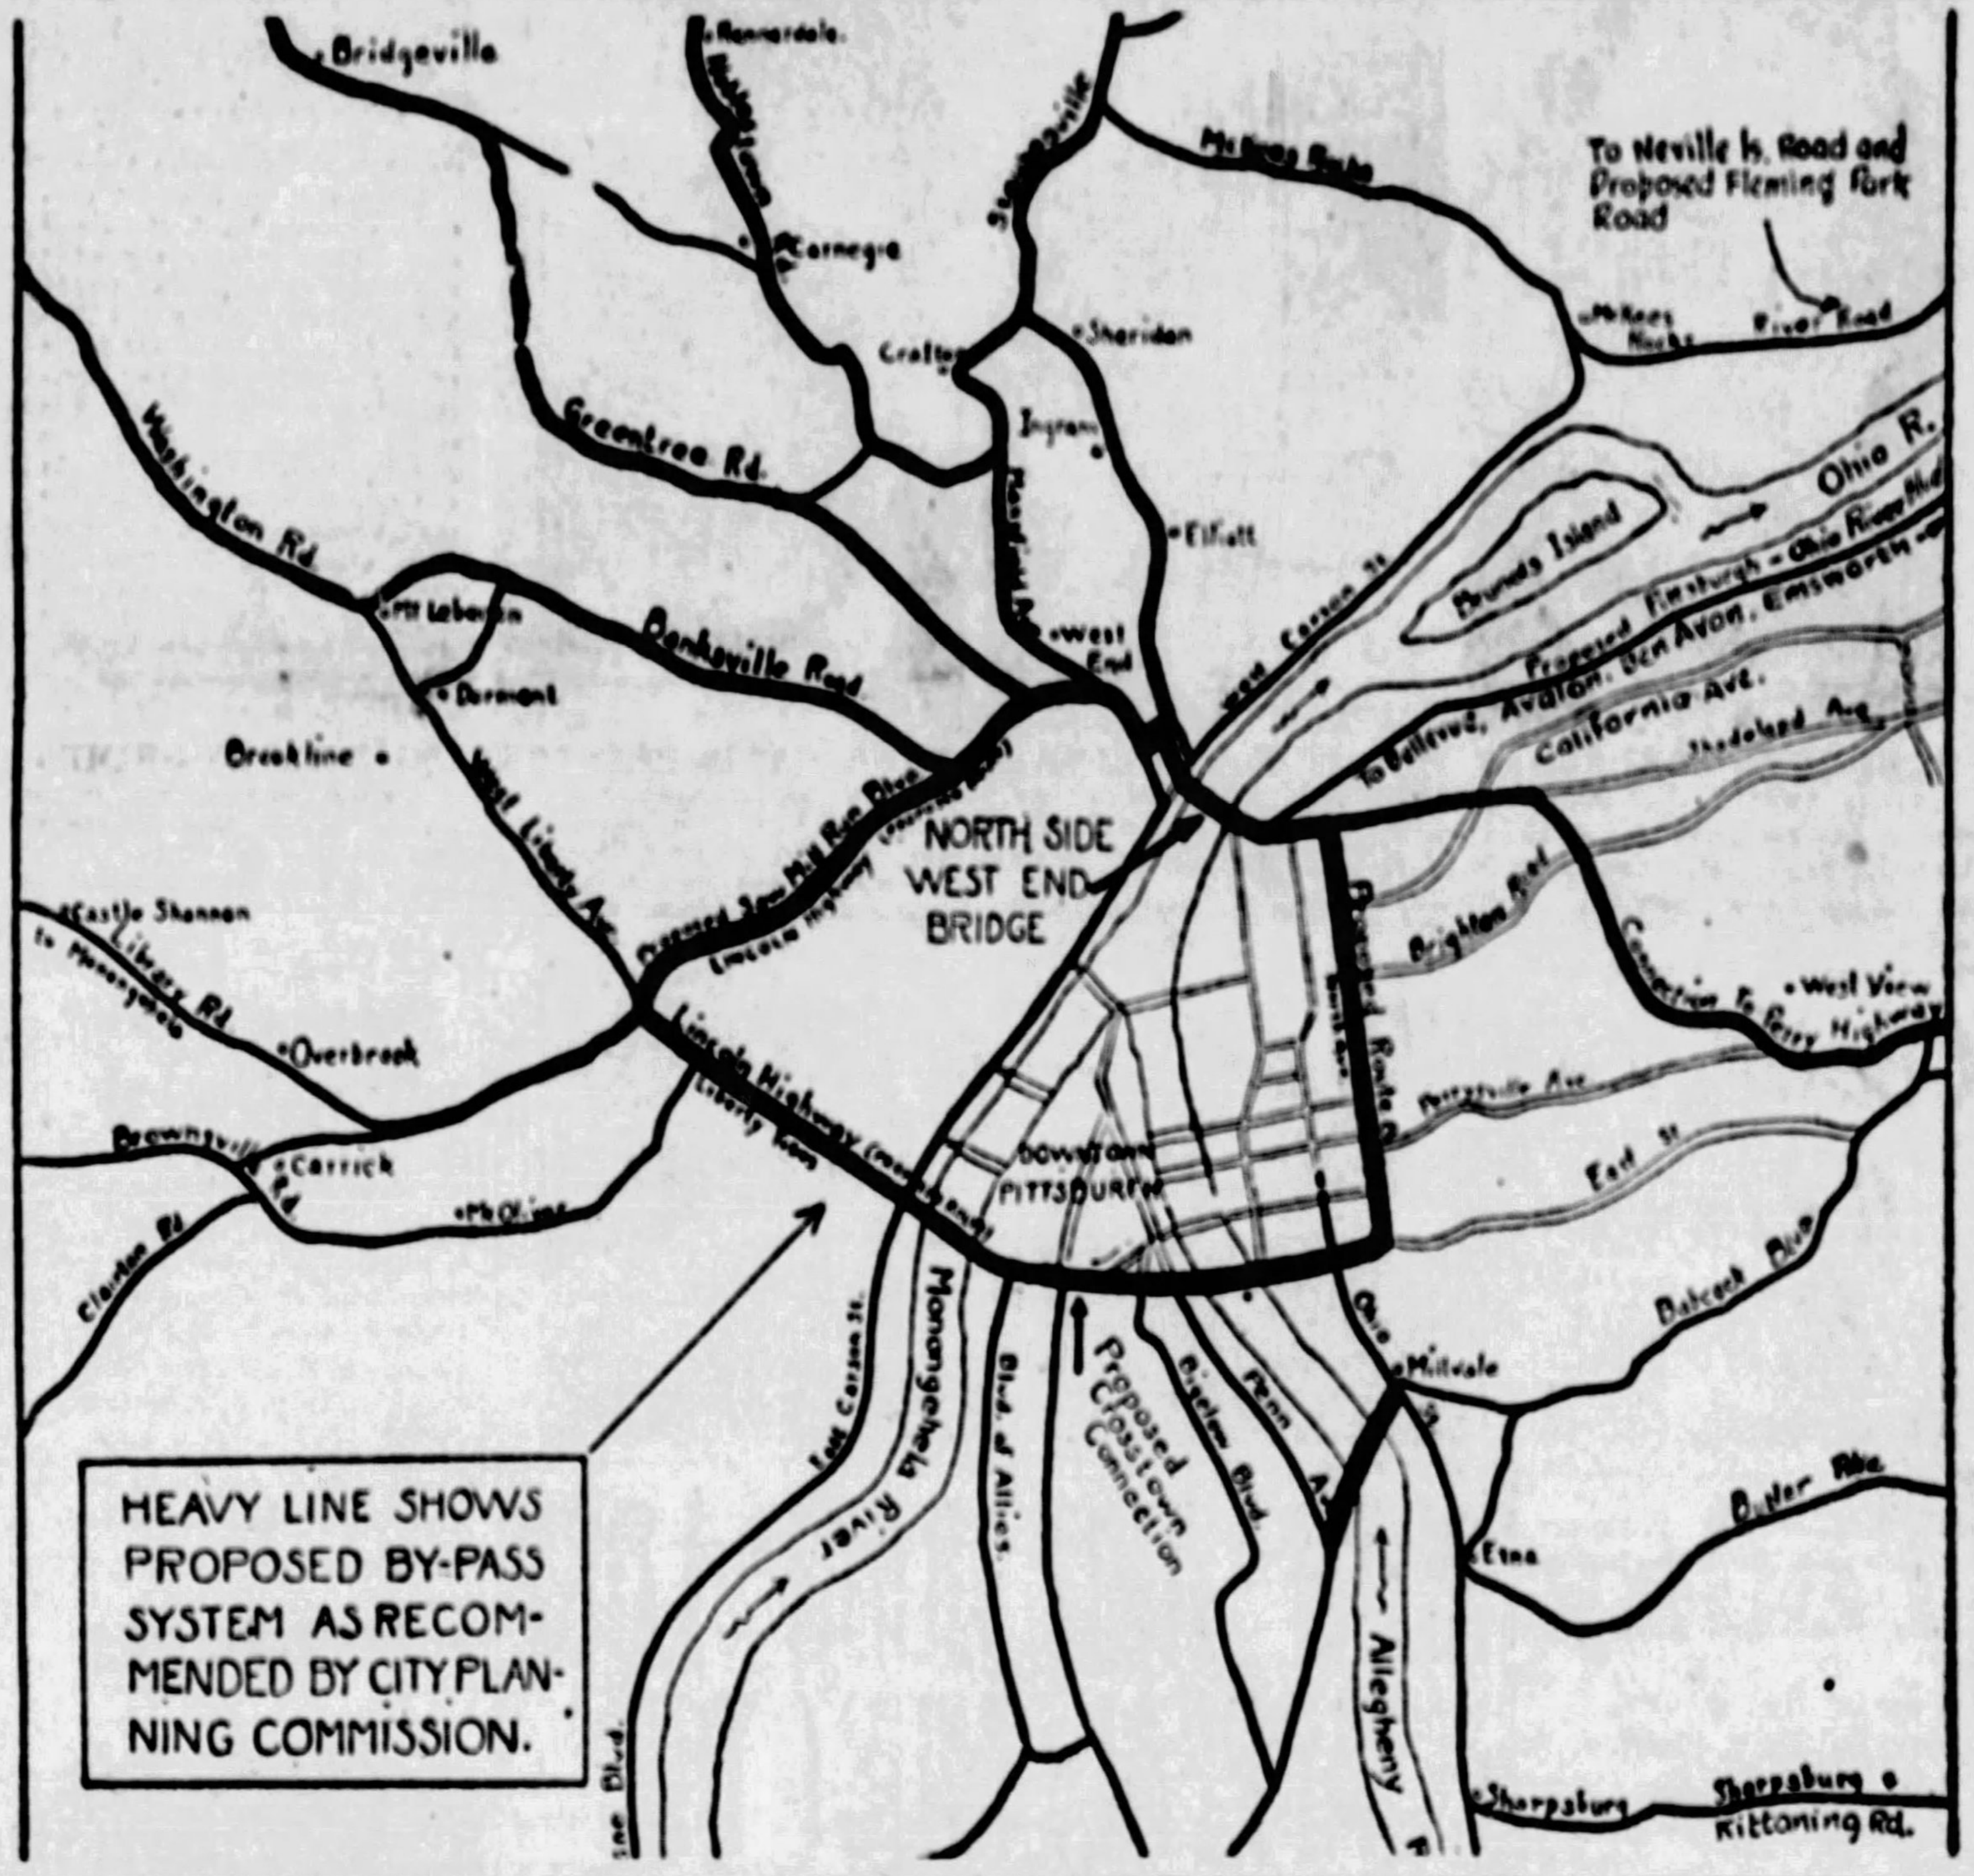
BRIDGE PROPOSED -:- AS TRAFFIC RELIEF



HEAVY LINE SHOWS PROPOSED BY-PASS SYSTEM AS RECOMMENDED BY CITY PLANNING COMMISSION.

TO PETITION COUNTY FOR WEST END BRIDGE

Supported by petitions and resolutions of indorsement from trade and civic bodies representing 60,000 citizens, advocates of the North Side-West End bridge across the Ohio River, will go before the county commissioners in a few days and ask that the project be included in the items to be paid for with the proceeds of the proposed bond issue to be voted on in January. The bridge, including the approaches, ramp and tunnel, would cost, it is estimated, not more than $3,000,000.

In support of the request to be presented to the commissioners, the backers of the scheme will submit petitions signed by leading business men of Pittsburgh and the outlying districts. Among the petitions is one signed by principal merchants and bankers of the Golden Triangle, a second signed by commission merchants in the Penn avenue district, and a third signed by practically every storekeeper and business man on the North Side.

The resolutions commending the project come from 30 civic and trade bodies on the North Side and in the southwestern part of Allegheny county, including the West End, Ingram, Crafton, Carnegie, Bridgeville and Oakdale. Several labor organizations, including the Central Trades Council, have gone on record as favoring the bridge. Speeches are being made nightly in support of the plan.

It has the indorsement of the City Planning Commission, the Citizens' Committee on City Plan, and the Traffic Flow Commission. It is contended that the North Side-West End bridge would open a route which would enable thousands of tourists and haulers of freight to pass through the less-thronged but newly-paved streets of the city, and thus help to relieve the congestion in the downtown business district.

The bridge would be a link in the by-pass system through which tourists over the Lincoln Highway, the William Penn Highway, the Perry Highway and other much used arteries of traffic, who are merely passing through Pittsburgh and have no occasion to stop here, would be afforded an opportunity to escape the crowded streets.

The Chartiers Board of Trade plans to lay before the county commissioners shortly a proposal for a bridge to extend from Liberty avenue, with ramps to Water street and Penn avenue, across the Monongahela River to a tunnel to be bored through Mount Washington to the Banksville road. The project also calls for a boulevard up McCartney's Hollow to the Noblestown road. The estimated cost is $6,000,000.

A resolution indorsing the plan was adopted by the organization last night and a committee composed of Harry Bastow, secretary of the Allied Boards of Trade; J. A. McCartney, president of the Chartiers board; Dr. R. R. Bryen and C. E. Vickery appointed to submit it to the commissioners.

The proposed Ferry street bridge was condemned as uneconomical.

Sinclair, Burns Cited

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate; two his business associates, and three officials of the Burns detective agency, including William J. Burns, were cited today by Justice Frederic L. Siddons to appear before him on December 5 and show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court.

The citations were issued because of the revelations that Burns' private detectives kept the jurors in the trial of Sinclair and Albert B. Fall under "improper surveillance," it having been shown that from the outset of the trial a staff of Burns agents trailed the jurors and delved deeply into their private lives and affairs.

Urge $600,000 Jail Change

PRISON ALTERATIONS MAY FOLLOW ESCAPE

Drastic alteration to the interior of the county jail, costing more than $600,000, is one of the recommendations made by the State Welfare Department, as a sequel to inspection of the institution last month, Judge James R. Macfarlane, president of the Allegheny County Board of Prison Inspectors, Monday received a letter from the Welfare Department containing a report of the inspection, with recommendations for improvements.

Following receipt of the letter, Judge Macfarlane called a special meeting of the board for tomorrow to take immediate action.

RAP OLD CELL BLOCKS

Two cell blocks must go, the Welfare Department directed. J. E. Baldi, prison inspector of the department, severely criticized the absence of facilities in these two sections, the juvenile cell block, which houses all male prisoners under age, and in the "short time" cell block, where prisoners are incarcerated for brief periods.

These two departments were built when the jail was constructed in 1886. The diagonal and center cell blocks, built 25 years ago, although more or less antiquated, may remain, the Welfare Department ruled.

In ordering the two cell blocks rebuilt, the prison inspector took into consideration the rapidly increasing number of prisoners confined. When the jail was first built, fewer than 100 prisoners were incarcerated. This number has increased until, according to Warden John McNeil, 19,000 persons have entered this year. By rebuilding the juvenile and "short time" cell blocks the capacity of the jail will be increased, as well as its sanitation improved.

LIKELY TO MANAGE SENATOR'S FIGHT

HARRISBURG, Nov, 22.—(AP.)—Col, Eric Fisher Wood last night announced his resignation as chairman of the executive committee of the Republican State Committee subject to its acceptance by W, L, Mellon, chairman of the state committee,

The resignation was offered, Col. Wood said, in order that he might be free to give his best efforts towards the success of United States Senator David A. Reed if he announces his candidacy for re-election. This was taken to mean that Col. Wood would manage the Reed campaign.

The announcement of Col. Wood's plans was made at a testimonial dinner tendered him in the Penn-Harris Hotel here tonight, More than 1,000 Republican leaders were present.

Senator Reed made no reference to his probable candidacy for re-election, but reasserted his pledge that he would fight to the last ditch for the seating of Senator-elect William S. Vare. He declared the question was far bigger than the personalities of either Mr. Vare or himself and that it was one of the "greatest crises of the American Constitution."

"This contest," he said, "will develop whether 10,000,000 people are competent to decide who shall represent them or whether it shall be left with the 94 other Senators who happen to be in office. It is not a question of Senator Vare or me, it is a question that goes right to the heart of the Constitution and the rights of the people.

"I believe that when the question is brought home to the other Senators and when they are reminded of their administration of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, it will bring them to sober thought. I believe that Senator Vare will be seated."

true bill containing 75 counts against the defendant corporation. The bill contains 178 pages and was the most voluminous indictment ever returned in the district court. The first 50 counts charge falsification of icing reports by the express company, which has a contract with the Pennsylvania Railroad and many other railroads to keep the refrigerator cars iced until they reach their destination. Fifteen other counts charge falsification of freight bills and 10 counts charge aiding, abetting and procuring of falsification of freight bills.

The action was brought by United States District Attorney John D. Meyer under the Interstate Commerce act, following an investigation for many months directed by Claude De S. Thomas, of Washington, a special agent of the commission. Attorneys William H. Bonneville and William J. Flood, counsel for the commission, and appointed special assistants to Attorney Meyer, spent much time in preparing the bill of complaint, which was presented before the grand jury by Assistant United States District Attorney Raymond D. Evans. The latter called as witnesses a number of employes and former employes of the defendant concern. The bill sets forth that Fruit Growers' Express Company made a contract May 1, 1925, with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for the icing and re-icing of the railroad company's refrigeration cars from the point of shipment to the destination.

The first 50 counts, alleging false icing records, charge that in many instances there was between 1,000 to 2,000 pounds less ice placed in the bunkers of the cars than showed in the reports of the express company to the railroad.

Illegal Imprisonment Of Miner Decried

Is the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania powerless to rectify the mistakes of its courts by which its citizens are deprived of their liberty?

This question will be answered in the hue and cry set up as a result of the illegal term of imprisonment imposed on Joe Sarappa, a Westmoreland county coal miner, who is looking for his old job in Mt, Pleasant mines, after being released from the Westmoreland Penitentiary, where he was held six years beyond his legal sentence,

Attorney Paul K. McCormick, of Greensburg, who discovered that an error in the courts in a Blackhand murder case had resulted in sentencing Sarappa 10 to 12 years, instead of two to four years, declared today every possible means would be used to obtain redress for the man. Sarappa was sentenced as an accessory by a visiting judge sitting on the Westmoreland county bench at a time when prejudice ran high against the defendants, and now it is the general belief that the man was innocent.

"While there is no law under which Sarappa may obtain compensation and a special act of the Legislature to reimburse him would be unconstitutional," said Attorney McCormick, "it is hoped that some means may be found whereby this act of injustice may be righted."

WIFE KEPT UP HOME

The people of Mt. Pleasant, who regarded Sarappa as a dangerous member of a blood-thirsty Blackhand gang at the time of his arrest in 1919, changed their attitude when Sarappa's wife brought the released prisoner to the little home she has maintained through the eight years of his imprisonment. They joined in welcoming the man who used his small wages from the penitentiary wearing room in assisting his wife and children, and now that prejudice has died down they believe his story that he had no part in the Blackhand agitation.

Throughout Western Pennsylvania since the publication of Sarappa's misfortune in the Sun-Telegraph, sympathy has been expressed for him and there has been some sharp criti-

NEWLYWEDS, BABE NEAR DEATH BY GAS

YOUNG MOTHER

Mrs. Ethel Winter, 18, 1227 Marvista street, North Side, nine-day mother, is near death from carbon-monoxide fumes

BROKE DOWN DOOR

John Kubiski, left, who lives above the Winter home, broke open door at instigation of Mrs. Henry Winter, 1233 Columbus avenue, mother of the husband, who rapped and no response at her son's home early today. Mrs. Winter is holding nine-day old Robert J. Winter, who, although in same room with parents, is suffering no ill effects.

HUSBAND

Bert C. Winter, 26, the husband, also was seriously poisoned by the gas fumes, but was reported by physicians as recovering rapidly.

"DADDY" BROWNING DANCES ON WHILE PEACHES DANCES HERE

CINDERELLA MAN AVERAGES FIVE PARTIES EACH NIGHT

While Frances "Peaches" Heenan Browning does her stuuff over small-time vaudeville, appearing this week in Homestead, her "Cinderella Man," Edward W. Browning, proves himself just a glutton for punishment. His front page divorce from "Peaches" doesn't seem to have cramped his style. He's out to learn all the latest steps in dancing. He studies from six to eight hours a day at it, too, in the Arthur Murray Studios with Marjorie West, instructress. The facial expressions are Miss West's own idea, not the photographer's. After Daddy gets through with his lesson he attends from three to five parties a night and dances some more. Youth, as the sage once said, must have its flings. Peaches doesn't care where he dances—or with whom, she says.

THAW WINS SUIT OVER $100

Walter Hyams & Company of New York lost its suit for $100 against Harry K. Thaw, in a decision handed down today by Judge D. M. Miller of County Court.

The New York concern averred Thaw owed for newspaper clipping service rendered in 1925, but Thaw's attorneys claimed the company did not live up to the terms of the contract.

Judge Miller did not hand down an opinion in the case, merely returning the papers marked "for the defendant."

ARMSTRONG IS ABLE TO RETURN TO DESK

After an illness that kept him from the office for several weeks, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong was back at his desk yesterday. Mr. Armstrong showed signs of his sickness but nevertheless he worked hard in catching up with the great amount of work that has been awaiting him since before the general election. He gave out a short interview in which he thanked the voters who re-elected him for another term.

Will Warns Cal to Burn "Them Papers"

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 22.—Say, did you read what Rupert Hughes dug up in George Washington's diary? I was so ashamed I sat up all night reading it.

WILL ROGERS

This should be a lesson to presidents to either behave themselves or not keep a diary. Can you imagine 100 years hence some future Rupert Hughes pouncing on Calvin's diary? What would that generation think of us? Calvin, burn them papers.

Yours for the suppression of scandal.

WILL ROGERS.

YOUTH IN SLEEP ROLLS OVER AND SUFFOCATES

WEST NEWTON, Pa., Nov. 22.—Believed to have suffocated when he rolled over on his face in his sleep, the lifeless body of Clarence E. Olsen, 19, was found by members of his family in his home near here.

FARQUHAR LOSES HIS APPEAL

MUST TRANSFER PLYMOUTH OIL SHARES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Jerome G. Farquhar, of Pittsburgh, was refused a review by the Supreme Court yesterday in the case in which the lower Federal courts directed the Plymouth Oil Company to transfer to William M. Henderson, of Pittsburgh, 50,000 shares of its stock held in Farquhar's name.

Henderson and three associates purchased about 104,440 shares of Plymouth stock for $145,000 from Farquhar in 1924 and 1925, claiming that Farquhar had represented that the company had outstanding only 250,000 shares. When a meeting of the company developed that it had over 1,000,000 shares they demanded that Farquhar deliver to them 250,000 additional shares. He delivered to them 50,000 shares, claiming he did so under threats of prosecution on charges of obtaining money by false pretense. Subsequently he was arrested upon complaint of Henderson and his associates who sought to compel him to deliver the additional 200,000 shares.

When the grand jury refused to indict him he directed the oil company not to transfer to Henderson the 50,000 shares. Henderson instituted successful proceedings in the Federal courts of Pennsylvania to require the company to transfer the stock.

MONKEYS FROWN ON FILMS

MIXED AUDIENCES

There is little danger that when you sink into a seat in your favorite movie house, your immediate neighbor will be the Ringtailed Monkey or Capuchin from South America, or the Macacus Rhesus from India. When the new movie, "The Gorilla" was shown to an audience of monkeys and scientists at Highland Park zoo the scientists were deeply interested, but the monkeys quite ignored the proceedings. Inset shows the Cercopithecus Callitrichus exhibiting disdain.

VOTE MACHINE DEMAND

at a number of hotels and churches as well.

The activities of McGovern and his associates are independent of those of the company which makes the machine. This company had one of its representatives here last month to demonstrate the device to the Civic Club of Allegheny County at its annual dinner, and is expected to send a man here again in January to show the machine to classes in civics in the public schools.

"Pennsylvanians are keenly interested in voting machines," said Shearer. "Great enthusiasm has been shown wherever we have demonstrated the device. Almost the only persons that express opposition to it are professional politicians of the type that dominate 'the Strip.' They are against the voting machine because it prevents cheating. Unless the whole election board is crooked there can be no fraud when the citizens' preferences are indicated by the use of this appliance. Furthermore, by the use of voting machines the cost of elections is cut at least 40 per cent.

"Voting machines are now being used in New York, Connecticut, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Washington and California. Millions of voters are using them, and the reports from all of these states indicate that the people are well satisfied with the change in the method of casting their ballots.

"The voting, when done by the use of a machine, is effected with greater facility as well as with greater speed than under the system which is now followed in Pennsylvania. Every vote is secret; spoiled and defective ballots are impossible; the count is absolutely correct, and it is possible to announce the returns as soon as the polls close. There are no questionable ballots to cause disputes, and the count remains on the machine for reference. In short, the advantages are so numerous that wherever they have been directed to the attention of the people the proposal to adopt them has met with favor.

"We are very hopeful on that account that the citizens of Pennsylvania will approve at the election next year the proposal that will come before them to amend the State Constitution to pave the way for legislation authorizing the use of voting machines. The professional politicians are the people that we have to buck in working for this improvement. Some of the politicians are not hostile, but the Strip type are, because there is no chance with voting machines to juggle ballots unless every member of the election board is a crook.

"A number of disinterested persons are now engaged in the campaign for the adoption of voting machines in Pennsylvania. They are working without pay, giving generously of their time. They will be content, and seek no other reward, if their efforts keep corruption out of elections in this state."

SCREECH OWL TRYING TO PREY ON CANARIES SHOT

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 22—Crashing against the window pane in an endeavor to get at two canaries in the home of R. M. Patterson, South Connellsville, a screech owl attracted the attention of Mr. Patterson. He shot the owl.

ALCOHOL VICTIM FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN STREET

An unidentified young man, about 21, was found unconscious on the sidewalk in front of 321 First avenue, early this morning. He was removed to the Allegheny General Hospital, where it was said he is suffering from alcoholism.

TURKEYS

From the Cold Northwest

THE pick of the flocks! Dry picked, grain fed, with thick-meated breasts—Hens and Toms! The plumpest Thanksgiving stock it is possible to obtain. The same kind of turkeys that enabled us to sell over thirty tons last Christmas.

Climate is the determining factor in turkey quality. Cold climates, with their early frosts, drive the turkeys into the barnyard in time for the corn feeding that adds so much fat and flavor to their flesh. Turkeys in warm climates roam the woods until late in the fall and are then muscular rather than plump and meaty. You would readily notice the difference if you had a turkey from each section before you.

OPPENHEIM, COLLINS CO. EMPLOYES MAKE MERRY

Pep and gayety prevailed in the large auditorium of Oppenheim, Collins & Company, 525-529 Penn avenue, last night as employes of the store participated in the annual masquerade ball, card party and dance, sponsored by the Welfare Association of the Oppenheim, Collins Company. Original and snappy costumes predominated. Prizes were awarded to the employe wearing the best costume in addition to winners of the card games and the best dancers. Yellow and black decorations prevailed in the dance room. The committee in charge of the affair was composed of G. C. Murphy, W. E. Weber, Ralph Armstrong, Miss Margaret McCance, Miss Anna Jacobson, Miss Mary Meehan, Miss Freda Bruggemeyer and Miss Marie McDermott.

Invents Waterproof Leather Sole

BENJAMIN W. KLEIN, founder, Klein's Rapid Shoe Repair Co.

Mr. Klein considers his invention, Klein's waterproof sole, his greatest achievement, because it is an indispensable benefit to mankind.

Wet feet are the most common cause of colds, which often develop into grippe, influenza and other serious ailments. By perfecting his waterproof sole Mr. Klein has eliminated much of the danger of colds and has made it possible for man, woman and child to be outdoors in the most severe wet weather, without getting their feet wet.

Genuine Klein Waterproof Soles can be attached to any pair of shoes, new or old, and are obtainable only at Klein Stores. Be sure to look for the name K-L-E-I-N on the window.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

Boys and Girls Win Sun-Tele Readers

High power salesmen! That's what the boys and girls of the Sun-Tele Bird House Club are nothing else but.

Setting out to sell New Reader subscriptions to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph three weeks ago, hundreds of them attained unusual success.

Now, stimulated further by 28 cash bonuses, to be given in addition to the 50-cent commission for each order, they are hitting the high spots—and subscriptions to the new giant of Pittsburgh newspaperdom are flowing in at a fine rate.

Before the additional prize awards were announced, many of the boys and girls were assured of a comfortable spending amount for Christmas presents. As it is now, many of the boys and girls will be able to buy themselves bicycles and other articles.

The list of prizes is on the comic page. Look them over. And don't forget to write or call the manager, Bird House Club, for more blanks when needed.

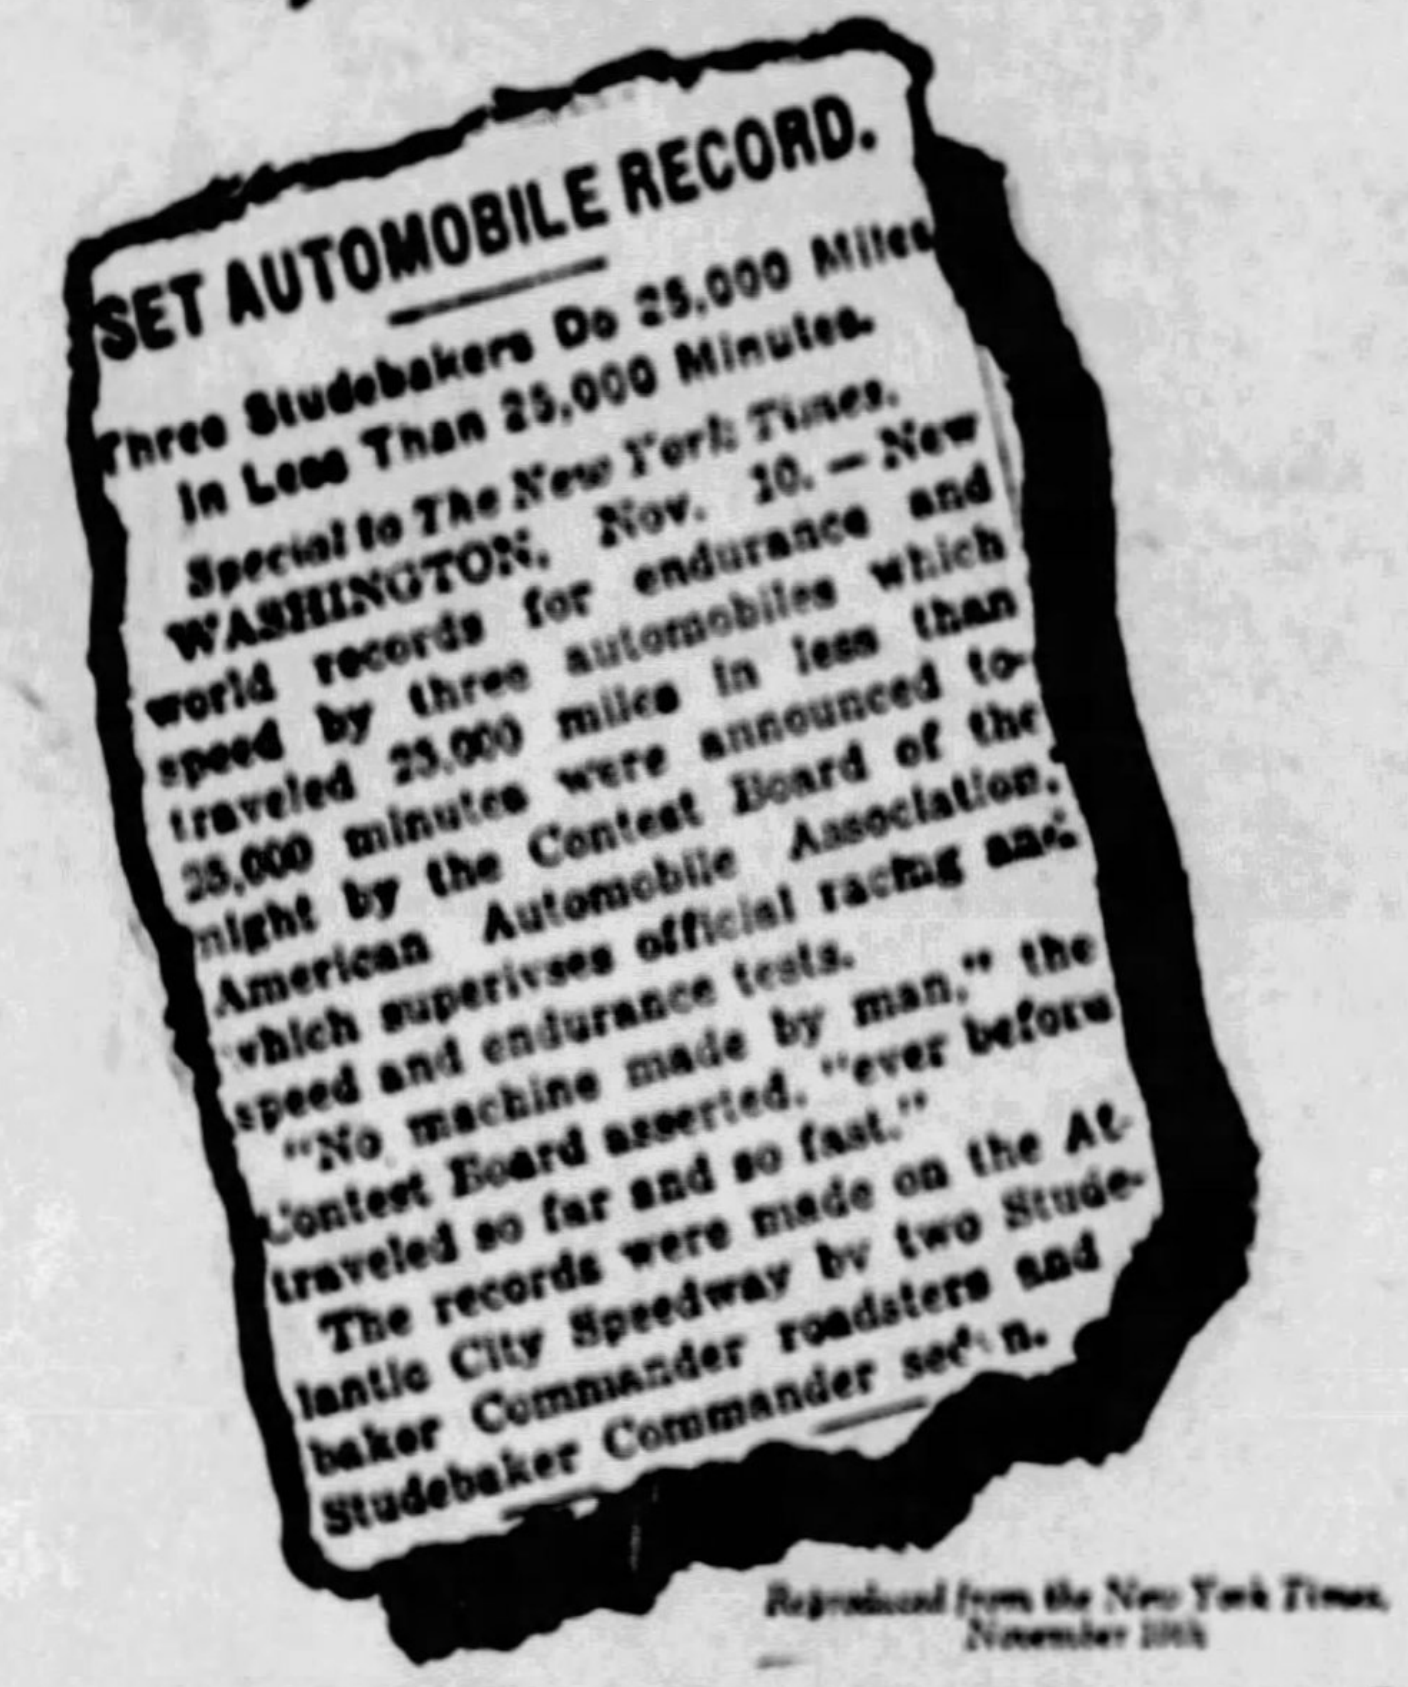
25,000 MILES in less than 23,000 MINUTES



SET AUTOMOBILE RECORD.

Three Studebakers Do 25,000 Miles in Less Than 25,000 Minutes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—New world records for endurance and speed by three automobiles which traveled 25,000 miles in less than 25,000 minutes were announced tonight by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, which supervises official racing and speed and endurance tests.

"No machine made by man," the Contest Board asserted, "ever before traveled so far and so fast."

The records were made on the Atlantic City Speedway by two Studebaker Commander roadsters and Studebaker Commander sedan.

Reproduced from the New York Times, November 10th

"Sno" Boots From Sweden

Coming from the rather frigid Scandinavian peninsula, these aristocrats of the galosh family, introduced to Pittsburgh women by Horne's, are trimmed with bands of coney fur. Made of fine, felt-lined fabric, which for all its warmth is surprisingly light of weight.

They are designed for both carriage wear and walking, and come in black, beige, gray and brown. $15.00.

—Horne's, Second Floor—

A Long Leather Coat

And a Sports-Model Car

—that is a smart and logical unification, because both are in the spirit of youth, and also because a leather coat approaches a fur one in the matter of warmth for open-car driving.

Long leather coats for general town and country service—$35.00 to $85.00. Short ones, for winter sports and trotteur wear — $17.50 to $45.00.

Both types in The Sportswear Shop's large collection—in brown, black, navy blue, green and wine.

—Horne's, Second Floor—

Scarfs—for Gifts

For one never has too many of them. Our Scarf department has more bright colors than ever, in smart designs, and with new style notes.

Sura scarfs, of smooth, heavy silk, smartly sportslike, in 31-inch squares. Rich reds, browns, oranges in lovely plaids. $1.95.

Silk triangles, lovely quality; brightly colored batik effects, $1.00.

Scarfs for the little ones, hand-painted in cunning designs; flower to match; set, $1.00.

—Horne's, Main Floor—

A Slenderizing Bloomer

No Elastic!
Cut on the Bias!

An entirely new idea in bloomer tailoring.

Material cut on the bias. Result: Excess fullness eliminated, no seams at the back or crotch to pull away, fits the figure with a smoothness otherwise impossible.

No elastic. Result: Relieves bunchiness at the waist. Bloomer leg finished with cuff but if you prefer you can have the same style with elastic at the knee.

In flesh or white crepe de chine and sized according to waist measure, 26 to 34. Priced $3.95 and $5.00.

—Horne's, Third Floor—

Hoover Aprons

Special

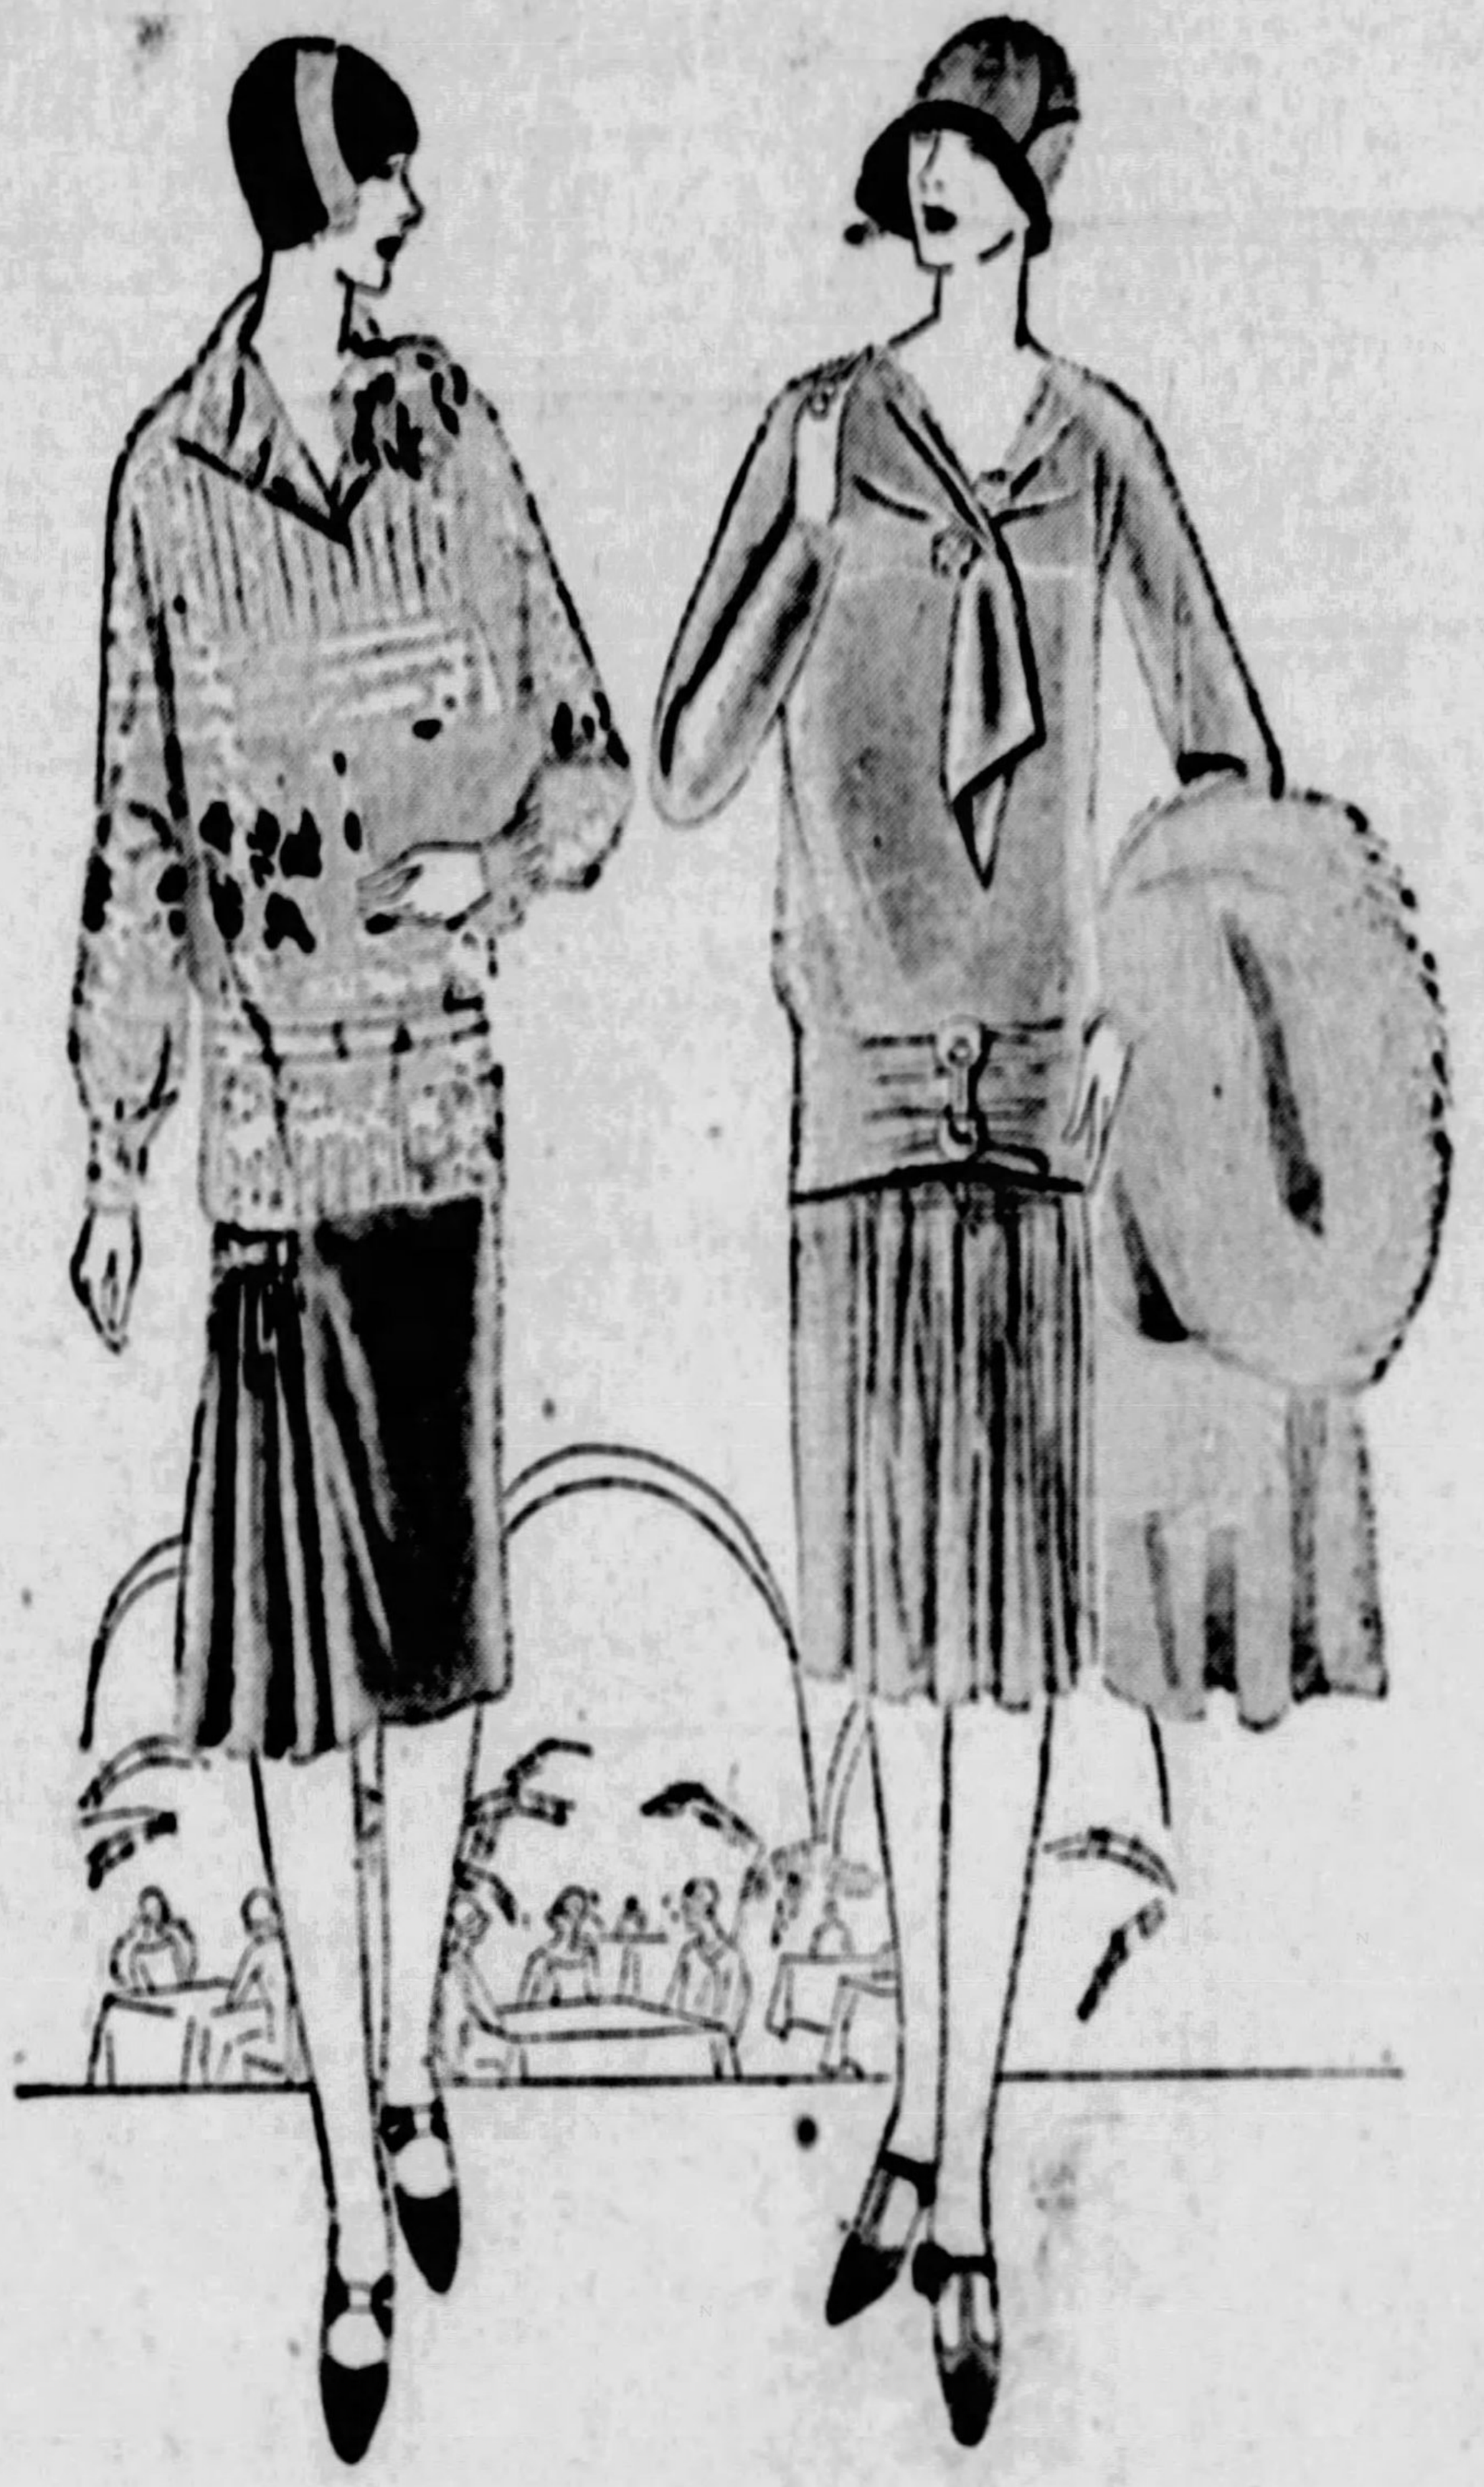
Broadcloth, white, rose, peach and orchid; long or short collar and elbow-length sleeves. Sizes 36 to 46.

—Horne's, Third Floor—



Misses' Teatime Frocks Include Paris Models

A BLOUSE of lame in gold with exotic colorings, combined with a graceful, side draped skirt of black velvet, the whole bearing a French label—that is one of the items of interest in this collection of fine afternoon frocks, at $49.50 to $85.00.

Other dresses are entirely of transparent velvet or costume-weight velvet, many having unusual necklines finished with jeweled pins or inserts of fine lace. In black, navy blue, Patou's "No. 2," cedar shade and brown.

Some are individual models. See them without delay.

Raccoon Coats

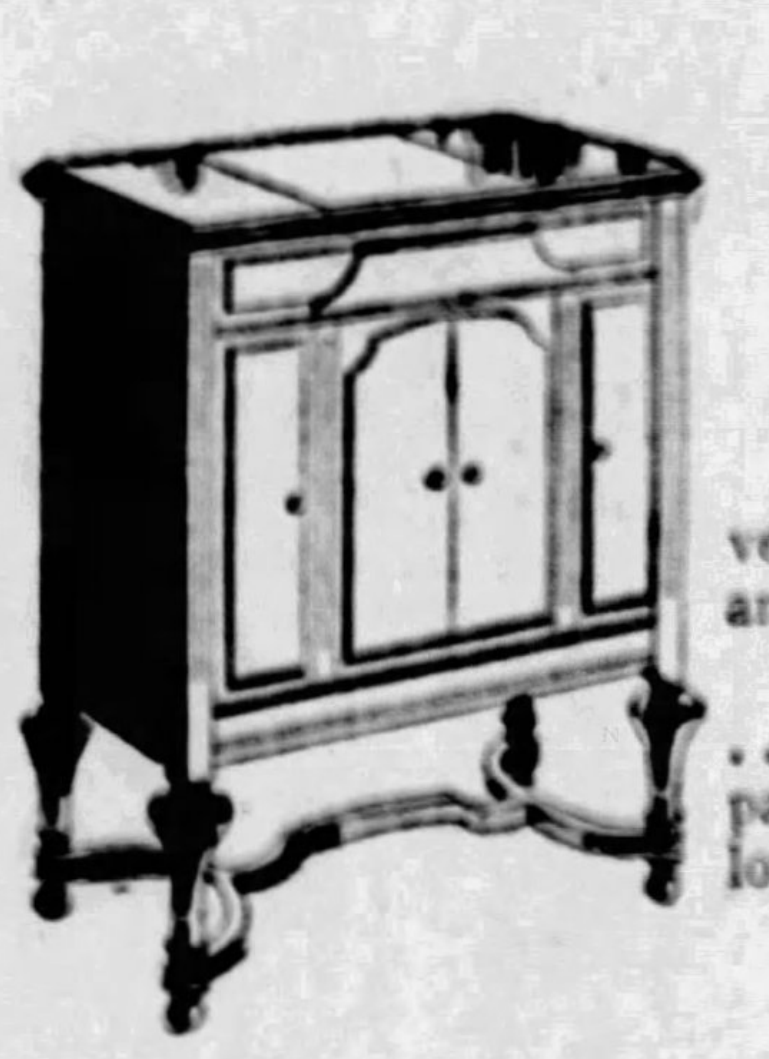
Distinguished By Full-Furred Pelts

Superiority in a raccoon coat is indicated by pelts which are full-furred, and beautifully marked by nature.

Horne raccoon coats are made of just such pelts, being sports-type coats which must be made to stand the rigors to which such a coat is sure to be subjected.

There are models with Johnny collars, shawl collars, and the face-framing mushroom collars—in sizes for both misses and women. $350 to $425.

—Horne's, Second Floor—



A New Model Orthophonic Victrola

An impressive Spanish style cabinet . . . mahogany veneered, with two-tone, blended finish of exquisite appearance.

The Orthophonic principle brings out the finest in a record . . . reproducing, when you like, the music of the great artists, past and present. The rich, full tones are a delight to music lovers, $165.00.

Convenient Payments

—Horne's, Balcony—

Chanel's Diamants

NEW! Chic! Flashing their dazzling, light-catching radiance on the smartest wrists, throats, and gowns. Literally and figuratively speaking—a brilliant success!

Necklaces—in different lengths, discs of various sizes, $5.00 to $20.00.

Bracelets—in round crystals, $3.50 to $12.50; baguette cut, $7.50.

Earrings—button style, $1.75; drop style, $2.00 to $5.00.

Pins—for hat or dress, including shower style, $2.00 to $12.00.

Buckles—in varied shapes, $8.50 to $20.00.

Resplendent Evening Bags

POUCHES and envelopes—every one imported — with the splendor of another land and another time interpreted by modern excellence of workmanship.

Silk or velvet richly strewn with pearls (simulated) and rhinestones, encrusted with Beauvais, gold, or silver embroidery — frames set with rhinestones and simulated pearls to harmonize.

Colors include luscious honey beige . . . rose coral . . . gold . . . white, $10.00 to $67.50.

Also adorable little rhinestone and pearl encrusted bags for girls of "deb," or "sub-deb" age, $5.00 up.

Lined Leather Gloves for Women

Driving, viewing the Thanksgiving game, winter sports on the horizon—all will be infinitely more enjoyable when fortified with warm, snug gloves. Horne's is showing just such gloves, lined throughout in wool or fur.

Wool-lined capeskin with strap-fastening and lined with an inner knitted wool glove, making it a two-in-one. English tan. $5.50.

Seamless wool-lined capeskin in slip-on style. Side-opening. Tan and brown. $5.50.

Seamless wool-lined mocha in slip-on or one-clasp styles. Beaver and gray. $5.50.

Seamless wool-lined capeskin in slip-on style with fur cuff that can be worn up or down. Brown. $5.50.

Lamb's wool-lined horsehide with stout strap-wrist fastening. Black and brown. $6.00.

Full fur-lined capeskin in gauntlet effect with strap. The cuff is fur-edged and the fur is plucked. Sand and tan. $7.50 and $8.00. Fur-lined mochas in brown. $10.50.

Full fur-lined capeskin with deep gauntlet cuff, furred partially on the outside as well. Leather-encased elastic at the wrist insures a snug fit. Deep brown. $20.00.

—Horne's, Main Floor—

Warm Steamer Rugs

For the Thanksgiving Game

Beginning with a plaid Rug at $5.00, with a gradual range of prices up to a beautiful soft, warm Cashmere Rug at $50.00, there is the widest kind of a selection here.

The Toy Music Section...

Where "tinkles" and "plunks" and "squeaks" sound out merrily next to "booms" and "toots" and "bangs." For the ambitious young musician's happiness there are:

Pianos, in great variety—from a wee upright with six keys to a Baby Grand with 22 keys—black and white; 50c to $22.50.

Victrolas—from small Bingolas to cabinet style; $1.95 to $6.00. Records at $1.00 for book of four.

Drums with calf or sheepskin heads, and sticks; 85c to set at $22.50.

Horns, cornets, trombones, French horns, clear-toned, $3.95 to $6.00.

Other horns, 50c to $2.50.

Violins with bow and resin, $1.00 to $2.25.

Metallophones, Zellophones, and accordions, as well as ukuleles, banjo ukes—priced from 50c to $7.00.

A child's feeling for and appreciation of music may be fostered and trained by the music he hears in childhood. Our large and varied section provides toy musical instruments for the youngster that are well made, with clear tones, and are in many cases accompanied by instruction sheets of real value.

WINTER UNMOVED AS CHAIR'S SHADOW GLOWERS

DOOM'S COMING FINDS SLAYER CAREFREE

Although he has less than a month to live, providing further respite is denied him, Raymond Winter, former street car conductor, convicted of first degree murder in connection with the brutal slaying of Helen Sabo, 7, and her brother, Alexander, 5, of near Mollenauer, gives little thought to his impending doom.

The children's bodies were found in a shallow stream in a field near the Charleroi street car line on a summer afternoon in 1925. Inseparable companions, the children, even in death, were together. A rock had been used to crush their heads.

When Winter was granted his second respite last Thursday by Gov. John S. Fisher, Warden John McNeil, of the county jail, called the doomed man's attention to the stay. Winter smiled; then pouted. He broke into a laugh. "Gee whizz, what is the idea? I am tired of this place," Winter said. "Why don't they get it over with? What is the delay?" ?

Winter, according to jail officials and prisoners, is happy and carefree. He has become popular among the prisoners, and on every occasion entertains them by "sleight-of-hand" tricks. Warden McNeil says that Winter is a magician of no mean ability, and that he has mystified more than one inmate of the jail by his legerdemain.

Monday was visiting day at the jail. The doomed man's mother visited him. She brought a basket filled with fruit, pies and cakes. With eyes tear-dimmed his mother talked through the closely screened bars of the "bull pen." Throughout the visit, Winter wore a broad smile, and seemed to be at ease.

"Bye, bye, I'll see you again," Winter, who on January 9 may forfeit his life, called to his mother as she slowly left the jail.

"He is an unusual character," Warden McNeil said. "The thought that he is to die in less than a month doesn't seem to worry him." The warden related that Winter for the past week has been brushing up on sleight-of-hand tricks to "spring" on the jail prisoners Thanksgiving Day. A vaudeville program will be given on that day for the prisoners. Winter volunteered his services.

"I have some dandies up my sleeve, and will knock them silly when I pull them Thursday," Winter told the warden.

Evans.

Other districts are being organized, according to Miss Leitch, and the names of the chairmen will be announced within the next few days.

Of the 114 districts in the county, 12 are included in the city mail sale. Four methods are used by the districts in their war on tuberculosis—nursing service, medical inspection, dental clinics, including oral hygience, and open air schools.

ALABAMA BANK CASHIER ADMITS EMBEZZLEMENT

BESSEMER, Ala., Nov. 22.—Confessing he had embezzled more than $8,500 from the Bessemer Trust and Savings Bank, John M. Egan, cashier, was arrested and placed under $10,000 bond. Egan had been an official of the bank five years.

MOVE HERE FOR COMMUNITY CHEST

The organization of the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh on a plan similar to the "community chest" funds in Cleveland, Cincinnati and other cities, was recommended at a meeting of the Committee of Fifty in the William Penn Hotel yesterday when the matter was voted for acceptance by the philanthropic and social agencies of this district. The plan provides for the joint financing of all social welfare agencies accepted for membership, through a single mammoth county-wide drive for funds to be conducted once a year.

A sub-committee, of which William S. Moorhead is chairman, presented an exhaustive report on the situation and the outline of a plan of organization. William B. Schiller, chairman of the Committee of Fifty, announced that the sub-committee's report had been adopted and that the supporters of the movement were now proceeding to have the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh incorporated.

"The majority of the large donors in the community and more than half of the important social agencies have approved of the welfare fund," added Schiller, "and it appears that work covering more than two years will be successfully consummated."

SURVEY SUPPORTS PLAN

A survey, on which the plan is based, was conducted by W. F. Maxwell, formerly director of the Harrisburg Welfare Federation, who was employed for the purpose by the Committee of Fifty in November, 1925. Maxwell's report points out that more adequate financing and more widespread support are essential to progress and holds that interested contributors are entitled to the benefits of a more logical plan for the support of vital activities. The welfare fund idea, he maintains, would provide both.

Under the plan, every agency would be notified of the minimum requirements for admission and given an invitation to participate. Those signifying their desire to do so then would be examined by the Committee of Fifty, and if approved, be permitted membership in the "fund."

Membership would not preclude the right of any agency to self-government and self-control, although each would have to submit full data covering organization, management, aims, accomplishments, personnel, records, equipment and financial facts; agree to conduct no campaigns for funds outside of the annual "welfare fund" drive; have an active and responsible governing board meeting at least once a month except during vacation periods; have an annual audit of its accounts made public; and keep adequate records and a competent personnel.

Two persons from each agency accepted would be named as delegates of the organization to serve on the "welfare fund" council for one year. Civic organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce and certain selected service clubs, would have one delegate on the council and the Committee of Fifty would appoint a number of persons as delegates-at-large equal to the number of agencies included in the original group.

An executive committee, composed of 21 persons elected by the council, with the chairman of the budget, finance, campaign and publicity committees, serving as ex-officio members, would be the governing body of the fund, their decisions, however, being appealable to the council. The budget, finance, campaign, and publicity committees would be appointed by the executive committee.

In the annual campaign for funds, contributors, under the plan, would be permitted to designate particular agencies to which they wished their gift to go, it being understood, that designations in excess of the amount determined necessary for that particular agency by the budget committee, should go into the general fund. Endowments of any agencies, under the plan, would be taken into consideration in making up the budget.

It is planned to incorporate the fund under the laws of Pennsylvania. The new organization would make use of the present Social Service Exchange, members being compelled to clear all cases through it.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF POLICEMAN ON TRIAL

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 22.—Only four jurors had been selected last night for the trial of Roy Wenrich, 21, of West Brownsville, who is accused of having slain Coal and Iron Policeman Louis A. Knapp, at the Vesta No. 6, last February 7, it being alleged that he was one of the three bootleggers who opened fire on Officers Knapp and Paul R. Fix when the latter surprised them in the act of delivering a five-gallon can of whisky.

The commonwealth was thrown off its stride for a few minutes yesterday when Judge Erwin Cummins ruled that Roy Wenrich could not be tried for the slaying of both officers. District Attorney Howard W. Hughes and first assistan held a conference and finally decided to try him for the killing of Policeman Knapp.

Robert Wenrich, 19, brother of Roy, is also, held on a charge of murder and the action of District Attorney Howard W. Hughes in accusing Roy of slaying Knapp indicated that the younger brother will be accused of having killed Fox. Progress made thus far in the selection of a jury indicates that it will probably be Wednesday before the taking of testimony is started.

With Common Pleas Court scheduled for next Monday, it is likely that precedent will be cast aside and court held Thanksgiving Day. The jurors selected when court adjourned yesterday were James M. Kelso, Canonsburg; James M. Paxton, Chartiers township; John R. Stephenson, Hanover township, and Mrs. W. W. Hixon, Monongahela. The commonwealth will strive for a first degree verdict in the case.

Tony Lucetti, third man wanted for the murder has never been apprehended, though every effort has been made to locate him.

Grandmother Knew

there was nothing so good for congestion and colds as mustard. But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered.

Musterole gives the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Gently rub it in. See how quickly the pain disappears.

Try Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

"SPRINKLING" PASTOR IS BLACKLISTED

CHURCH SESSION ACTION RENEWS STRIFE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 22.—Blacklisting of the Rev. Andrew B. Lemke, "sprinkling" parson of the Tower Hill Christian Church, by fellow ministers and church organizations has caused the dying embers of controversy to burst into flame again.

Ministers of the Christian churches of Fayette and adjoining counties in session here late yesterday passed resolutions which mean the barring of the Rev. Lemke and his church, to which he has clung although officially ousted, from the ministerial association and recommending that all ties be severed between Tower Hill and the Western Pennsylvania Christian Missionary Society and the United Christian Missionary Society of St. Louis, the church's national missionary and benevolence agency.

The Rev. J. L. Jones, pastor of the Central Christian Church of Uniontown, leader of the local conservative forces opposing the Rev. Lemke, presided at yesterday's meeting.

The resolutions adopted set forth that the names of "Andrew B. Lemke and the church at Tower Hill of which he is pastor shall be stricken from the rolls and records of the Ministerial Association of the Christian Churches of Fayette and adjoining counties and that similar action be taken by the next county convention, by the state board of the Western Pennsylvania Christian Missionary Society and by the United Christian Missionary Society."

The resolutions approve the changing of the name of the church to the First Christian Church of Republic and in rejecting the "open membership" policy proposed by Andrew B. Lemke, whom its has subsequently discharged from its pastorate."

The Rev. Lemke is preparing a broadside against the action to be printed in the church papers of his congregation.

SIMPLE HOME MIXTURE DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It in 5 Minutes.

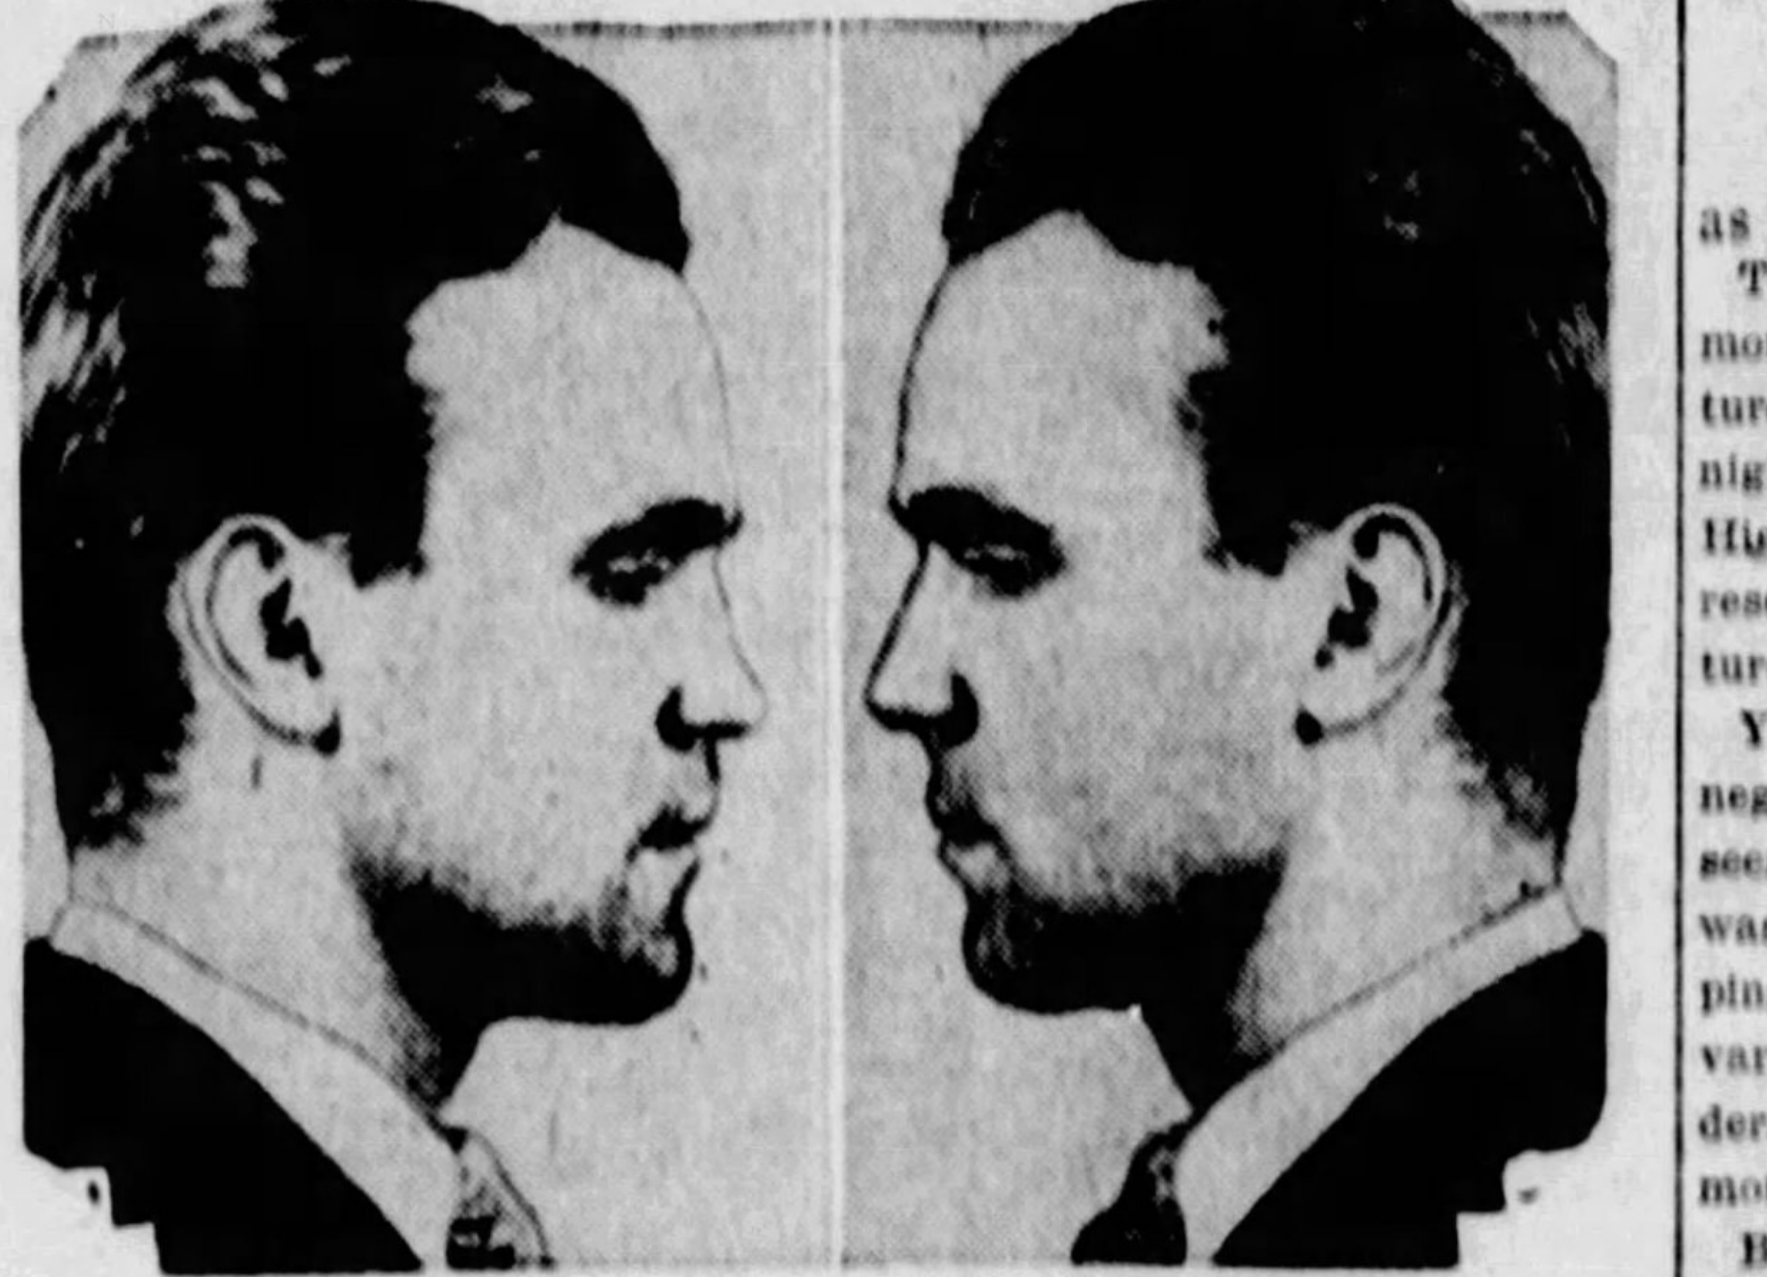
Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded, or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well-known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine, and a small box of Barbo Compound, shake it and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores as trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly, this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.

For Colds, Grip or Influenza and as a Preventive, take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. A Safe and Proven Remedy. Look for signature of E. W. Grove on the box. 30c.—Advertisement.

TRIMS FACE TO TRIM LAW



HAROLD WHITAKER

After he escaped from the Los Angeles county jail, Harold Whitaker, police said, had his face re-modelled to foil re-arrest. It didn't work. New York authorities nabbed him despite the straightened nose and trimmed upper lip and chin shown in the photograph at the right.

THREE HURT IN TRIPLE CRASH

Two persons were hurt when a hit-and-run Negro driver precipitated a three-car crash in Butler street at Fifty-fifth street today.

Harry Wilson, 632 Pitcairn place, suffered a cut hand and a wrenched back and Fred Dietz, 24, of 702 Gross street, a cab driver, suffered lacerations when the Negro's car, crashing into the cab, forced it against Wilson's auto. Wilson's chauffeur, William A. Moffitt, escaped injury.

"Mug" in "Rogues' Gallery," He's On "Force"

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—A policeman served on the Spokane police force for five years while his picture hung in the "rogues' gallery" it was revealed here today with suspension of Patrolman Thomas Bernard.

In charges filed with the civil service commission here, it is stated that when Bernard joined the Spokane force he was a fugitive from Portland, Ore., under the name of C. H. Thomas, that his picture was hanging in the identification bureau here all the time and that he kept knowledge of the Portland indictment against him from Spokane authorities. He recently went to Portland to face the charge.

WINTERS NAMED RIVERS AND HARBORS DELEGATE

Councilman Daniel Winters has been named a delegate of the Chamber of Commerce to the twenty-third annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress at Washington, December 7 to 9. He was notified of his appointment in a letter received today from T. P. Gaylord, president of the commerce body.

Movies for Monkeys "Flop" at Zoo

The monkey is not quite ready for the moving picture, ready as the moving picture may be for the monkey.

To a hand-picked audience of the monkey four hundred the new picture, "The Gorilla," was shown last night in the Darwin wing of the Highland Park zoo by interested representatives of First National Pictures and the Grand Theater.

Young scientists from Pitt and Carnegie Tech were there, and they seemed to like the picture. The story was that of a monstrous gorilla skipping from here to there and invariably executing a successful murder. The gorilla resembled a swollen monkey.

But were the monkeys interested? The monkeys were not interested. As the first sub-title was flashed on a makeshift screen the Cebus Capucinus of South America, more commonly known as the ringtailed monkey, emitted a screeching howl that reached the distant fourth tee of the Oakmont golf course—and settled back to an evening of quiet.

His (it may be her) colleagues, took their cue from the Cebus Capucinus and refused to lend an eye to the goings-on. Before the first murder had been committed, they were high-hatting the activities, and ere the last slaying had been accomplished the young Macacus Hemestrinus of East India, known to the lay mind merely as the pigtailed monkey, had actually retired for the night.

H. L. Royster, keeper of secrets for First National, admitted that the test, so far as the monkeys were concerned, was a dismal failure.

"In the next test," he promised, "we shall make a hero of a monkey. We shall portray the Sooty Mangabee (Cercopithecus Sabaeus) of West Africa as the daring hero who rescues the bank president's daughter from the kidnapers in the last reel. They'll tear up their trees when they see that."

The elite audience included the Macacus Rhesus of India, Cercopithecus Calatrichus of West Africa, Macaqus Lymomulous of India, Chacma baboon of Africa, Cynocephacis Sphinx of West Africa, Cercopithecus Calitrichus and Do Not Disturb or Feed the Animals.

Here's what the Studebaker Corporation thinks of AMOCO products

OF AMERICA
SOUTH BEND, IND., U.S.A.
October 29, 1927.

The American Oil Company,
Baltimore, Maryland.

Gentlemen:-

Since Mr. Harry Hartz wired you recently about the records established by The Commander in running twenty-four hours at an average speed of 75.42 miles per hour, we have set up some new records for cars costing $1400.00 and under and also for cars listing under $1000.00.

In all three of these 24 hour runs, your Amoco Gas and Amoco Motor Oils were used exclusively.

Two Studebaker Dictator closed models were run for 24 hours each at an average speed of over 61 miles per hour, and the two closed model Erskine Sixes, after a night of high winds and rain finished their 24 hour grind at an average speed in excess of 53 miles per hour.

As stated above, your Amoco Gas and Amoco Motor Oils were used exclusively in these three tests and we feel indeed free to state that we were well satisfied with the quality of your products as they measure up fully to all that is claimed for them. At the conclusion of these tests, the six motors were torn down under the supervision of the Technical Committee of the American Automobile Association and found to be in perfect condition.

It has been a pleasure to cooperate with you in these tests and we thoroughly appreciate your many courtesies.

Very truly yours,
THE STUDEBAKER CORPORATION

YOU'VE read or heard about the record-breaking performances of Studebaker and Erskine cars at the Atlantic City Speedway. Here's a letter from Mr. H. E. Jordan of the Studebaker Corporation of America, who was in charge of the several runs. You'll notice that AMOCO-GAS and AMOCO Motor Oils were used exclusively—and that the Studebaker representative is well satisfied with the quality of AMOCO products.

Burglar Keeps Work All Among Friends

Fiction is strange, but—

Mrs. William J. Beilharz, 126 North Whitfield street, telephoned her good friend, Mrs. J. G. Matthews, 5456 Penn avenue, today.

"We were robbed during the night," Mrs. Beilharz said.

"So were we," Mrs. Matthews answered.

At the Beilharz home the burglar opened the door to the bedroom of William Beilharz, Jr., 6.

"Hello," William spoke cheerfully enough. The burglar closed the door, took his leave and $5 and a pair of Mr. Beilharz's trousers.

At the Matthews home the intruder entered the bedroom of Mrs. Matthews. Through half-closed eyelids she watched him, afraid, she explained, to cry out lest he shoot. The gentleman departed with two watches and $12.

DEATH ROLL

James G. Nevin.

James G. Nevin, 42, for 19 years in law partnership with his father, James M. Nevin, in Pittsburgh and Elizabeth, died yesterday in his home in Forward township. He was born in Elizabeth, September 20, 1885. He was graduated from Elizabeth High School in 1902 and three years later from Westminster College with the degree of bachelor of arts. In 1908 he was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh law school. He was a member of the Phi Rho Phi fraternity at Westminster and later, when it became a chapter of Theta Upsilon Omega, he continued his affiliation. He was a member of the Allegheny County Bar Association and was a trustee of the First United Presbyterian Church, Elizabeth. In 1910 Mr. Nevin married Mary Olive Sloss of New Wilmington. Besides his widow, he leaves five children, James G., Jr.; Eleanor, Marie, Ruth and Doris Nevin; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Nevin; five sisters, Mrs. R. C. McKelvey, Mrs. Homer M. Lowry, Mrs. Robert E. Wolfe and the Misses Norma and Millicent Nevin, and one brother, David MacDill Nevin.

Mrs. Frank F. Wiles.

Mrs. Catheryne Louis Kolling Wiles, 43, wife of Frank K. Wiles, died at 2 o'clock yesterday morning in her home, 511 East street, North Side. She was a member of the First United Presbyterian Church; Daughters of America, Allegheny Council No. 19, and Dames of Malta, Allegheny Sisterhood No. 8.

Besides her husband she leaves a daughter, Miss Gertrude Wiles; three brothers, John Ernest and Gustave De Grange, and a sister, Mrs. Anna Hellerman, all of Pittsburgh.

"Show Boat," a Huge Spectacle, Both Tuneful and Colorful, Scores Triumph at the Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL

EDNA FERBER'S popular story, "Show Boat," turned into a musical play with a production of the first magnitude, brought its cargo of romance and humor into the Nixon Theater last night—and the passengers were delighted, to put it mildly. Only superlatives will serve in writing of this performance. Not in years has the like been offered to a Pittsburgh audience—music that is music, comedy that is comedy, sentiment that is sentiment, and everything in its place. Usually a musical play is a hodge-podge of incongruous episodes strung upon a silly plot. Here Miss Ferber's fine story has been followed faithfully, except for a few deaths spared us at the close. And this story has been made the vehicle of a tuneful and colorful presentation of life along the Mississippi, among the actor folk—life pulsating with joy and sorrow, expressed in dances and songs.

GEORGE SEIBEL

"Show Boat" might be called a fashion show of two generations, for it portrays the sartorial evolution of American dress from 1890 to 1927. It might be called a commentary upon American music, for it bridges the years from the sentimental ballad to jazz. But first and foremost it is a play with a heart interest running all through it, with a rich vein of humor bubbling over in every scene, and so magnificently staged that it marks an epoch in productions of this kind. There are eight scenes in the first act, eleven in the second, and some of them are as heavy and elaborate as anything ever seen here. The auditorium of the "Cotton Blossom" with a performance going on, the Midway Plaisance of the Chicago World's Fair, the Trocadero Restaurant, the convent scene and the levee at Natchez are masterpieces from Joseph Urban's master hand.

But these are mere incidents in a production that is almost perfect in every detail. Jerome Kern has never produced better music than the score for "Show Boat." And it is sung marvelously well. There is Jules Bledsoe, with a voice like black velvet, who sings "Old Man River" in unforgettable fashion. Norma Terris as Magnolia is sweet to look upon and sings delightfully. Howard Marsh as Ravenal radiates romance and has a fine voice. But Charles Winninger as the father of Magnolia carries off the honors for richly human comedy, never overdone, delicious as ripe watermelon. Everyone in the cast can sing, everyone can dance, and everyone gets a chance. The colored jubilee singers and dancers particularly are remarkable.

Edna May Oliver, Eva Puck, Sam White, Francis X. Mahoney, Aunt Jemima, Jack Daley, Robert Farley, little Eleanor Shaw, and an unnamed team in an Apache dance, all call for high praise. But when one begins to praise anything in this performance of "Show Boat" the praise will "roll on ever," like the Mississippi in Joe's song. For this is a production such as is seldom seen—a book well put together, music that is music, comedy that is comedy, sentiment that is sentiment, and everything in its place. When "Show Boat" lands in New York, that blase city ought to surrender without parley. Meanwhile Pittsburghers are fortunate to see this glorious entertainment before the people of Gotham get a chance. It is the event of the season.

"COLLEGE" IS CURRENT CAMERAPHONE PICTURE

"College," starring Buster Keaton, is the current attraction in the Cameraphone. In this production the frozen-faced comedian presents his comedy antics in a college atmosphere of athletic events and campus and fraternity activities. A thrilling boat race climaxes the plot. The leading feminine role is carried by Ann Cornwall. News pictures and a short comedy also are on the bill.

Here's The Way
To Clear "Off-Color" Teeth
That Foremost Dentists Advise

Please Accept 10-Day Tube and Make This Remarkable Dental Test

NOW dull, dingy, "off-color" teeth are restored to dazzling whiteness in a new way. Ugly teeth soon will disappear.

Famous movie stars use this way before going on a scene. That's why movie smiles glisten so. Leading dentists urge it widely. For it protects the teeth and firms tender gums.

It works by removing a dingy film that forms on your teeth, and dulls them by absorbing discolorations from food, smoking, etc. A slippery film you can feel with your tongue; and that invites germ growth, decayed teeth and gum troubles.

Old-type dentifrices failed to remove it successfully. That's why brushing thus far failed you.

Beneath it are the teeth you envy in others. Remove it, for your own sake. One's whole appearance changes as clear, white teeth come.

MAGIC MARVELS IN DAVIS

Hardeen, brother of the late Houdini, presented almost half an hour of magic and illusions in the Davis Theater yesterday, with a fine array of glittering apparatus; he was assisted by wriggling bunnies and fluttering doves, with a talkative hen thrown in. Hardeen, who bears considerable resemblance to his brother, is quite expert at sleights with coins and cards, and his patter is very entertaining, while the showier stage illusions worked to perfection in dazzling and mystifying the audience. Next to Hardeen the best thing on the program was May Usher, one of the many sisters of Fannie Brice, whose "Hollywood" and "Nize Baby" songs are especially good. Dewey Barto and George Mann also caused uproarious laughter by their rough-and-tumble act—their anatomies must be rubber and their joints ball-bearing. A bit of Irish romance was added to the bill by Robert Reilly, who has six people in his pleasant company and sings songs of the Emerald Isle with charm and humor. Something new was shown by Harry Carlton, who rolls up a staircase with Josephine Chapelle standing on his outstretched hands. And Montana, all in white like a cowboy angel, played a banjo instead of a harp. The photoplay feature is "The Gay Retreat," in which McNamara and Cohen, comedians of "What Price Glory," have a series of laughable war adventures. There is also a color film, "Memories," that is very romantically appealing.

ACADEMY OFFERS 'HIGH FLYERS'

"High Flyers," this week's burlesque in the Academy, is a Mutual attraction. Heading the fun-makers is Mike Sacks, with his drolleries. Frances Farr is the prima donna. Her songs, "The Greatest Nation on Earth" and "Everyody Loves My Boy," are well rendered. Betty June Lee, soubret, pleased with her songs and specialties. Thelma Benton is well received. A scene in which the girls of the chorus appear in the costumes of various nations and is presented with spectacular effects, is a feature. "The Poker Hounds" and "A Night Out of Town" are comedy skits. "Pep" Bedford, in new dances, and the Wee Wee girls, in a medley of stepping, are added features.

Lloyd Ibach Tops Sheridan Bill

Lloyd Ibach and "His Lady Friends" headline the Sheridan Square vaudeville this week in a variety presentation, "Scenes for the Eye and Sounds for the Ear." Max Cooper and Julius Clifton, comedians, offer "Stage Struck." The Two Blossoms sing and dance. Frank Shields, another performer on the bill, may not be a cowboy but he knows his lariat. Hite and Reflow, assisted by Warren Boyed, give a comedy act, "Their Back Alley." The photoplay feature is "The Gay Retreat." It features the two "What Price Glory" comedians, Sammy Cohen and Ted McNamara, and is another of those so-called war comedies. Short features on the bill include the news reel and an organlogue.

ADOLPHE MENJOU FILM ON SCREEN IN OLYMPIC

Adolphe Menjou's newest photoplay, "A Gentleman of Paris," is being presented as the photoplay feature in the Olympic. Menjou is seen as a gay rogue of the Parisian boulevards, who finds himself in various feminine entanglements. The cast includes Shirley O'Hara and Arlette Marchal. The Vitaphone bill offers John Barclay, comic opera singer; the Freeman Sisters, songsters, and "The Diplomats," syncopators. News pictures are on the bill.

RED GRANGE RIDES MOTOR CARS ON CAMEO SCREEN

Red Grange, the widely heralded "phantom of the gridiron," has turned to the automobile race track—that is, in the movies. Grange is starred in "The Racing Romeo," current Cameo attraction. In the picture Grange wins a motor car race and, of course, the girl. The cast includes Jobyna Ralston, Walter Hiers and Warren Rogers. Another issue of the "Collegian" series and news pictures also are shown.

"Play's the Thing" -:- But Actors -:- Make the Play

HOWARD MARSH, for instance, helps to make "Show Boat," Nixon attraction, the biggest thing Florenz Ziegfeld has done.

A FEW of the girls of "Show Boat" as they stepped off th train to step into their stepping in the new Ziegfeld show.

GERMAINE GIROUX, another proof that the player makes the play, is a member of "The Spider" company, which has opened another week in the Pitt theater.

FRANCES WILLIAMS is additional evidence in the argument now before the court of public opinion. She's in "Scandals," Alvin bill.

WALTER FEHL IN ALDINE

It is an interesting bill of vaudeville that the Aldine is offering on its stage this week. Raymond and Caverly, in an old-time dialect act, win lots of laughs. Walter Fehl has introduced novel and original material in his orchestra presentation. Also he introduces, so it seems to us, just a bit too much of the Fehl personality. But the music is good. There is a dancer, too, Estelle Dennies, who adds much to the Fehl show-off. Neilson and Warden create a lot of fun with telephone banter, and their singing and stepping. Boardman and Rowland please in operatic and popular song numbers. The Ploetz boys, brothers, and their sister show class in what is called "Classic Buffoonery." "The Bugle Call" is the photoplay feature. In it Jackie Coogan is seen as the orphaned son of a frontier cavalry officer. Joe Gerlach sings "Lonely Melody," in connection with the overture offering.

Alice Terry Star On Screen of Penn

With "The Garden of Allah" on the screen and a varied stage bill including Don Albert and his Penn Stage Orchestra, the Penn this week presents a program that meets with hearty approval. Alice Terry is the star of "The Garden of Allah," a Rex Ingram picture in which Ivan Petrovich as the young monk who goes to the desert and finds there a girl whom fate has placed in circumstances as strange as his own. There are some wonderful views in this picture as well as an engrossing mystery story. Mr. Albert and his orchestra perform in an elaborate stage setting and in addition to giving a jazz rendition of "The Miserere" play accompaniments for various specialties. Rome and Dunn sing pleasingly and Lyndon and Farman give a burlesque of an Apache dance that is very well done. Depace plays the mandolin in a manner that makes him a favorite and Bert Darrell gives an unusual tap-dance delineation of "The Poet and the Peasant." Eight girls also give an exhibition of stepping and Dick Leibert imparts a Thanksgiving flavor to his organ selections.

"Miss America" Featured in Grand

"The Gorilla" is the screen feature in the Grand this week and "Miss America" is the attraction on the stage. "The Gorilla" is funnier as a picture than as a play. "Miss America," who is Lois Delander, appears in a little revue in which she has the support of Hutchinson and Ross. There is much interest in the appearance of the young woman who won the Atlantic City beauty contest. In "The Gorilla" Charlie Murray and Fred Kelsey appear as the dumbbell detectives who blunder into the solution of the mystery in which the play is centered and screen treatment of the plot affords comedy not possible on the stage, one such scene being the gorilla following Murray about when he is looking for the counterfeit of the animal. An Our Gang comedy, "The Tired Business Man," news of the day in pictures, and a featured overture by the Grand orchestra, directed by David Broudy, complete the program.

"SPANISH NIGHT" CARD THANKSGIVING PROGRAM

The program called "Spanish Night" is scheduled in Carnegie Music Hall on Thanksgiving evening as the second number of the Bortz DeLuxe Concert Series. Doris Niles and a group of dancers, with an orchestra and a Spanish tenor will give the program. Doris Niles was the prima ballerina at the Capitol Theater of New York for six seasons.

John McCormack is to sing in Syria Mosque Thursday evening, December 1 in the Bortz series.

Gorgeousness and Talent Well Combined in Alvin, Where Bill Is "Scandals"

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

GORGEOUSNESS, talent in comedy, skill in dancing, tunefulness in music and beauty in the maidens who make up the ensembles are combined in the huge human bouquet that is staged under the title of George White's "Scandals," presented in the Alvin last night at the first performance of the Thanksgiving week bill. "Scandals" is almost the ultimate in entertainment of the review type, the production being of a magnitude that makes big sounding adjectives appear small. Let your imagination run riot and you will not visualize anything more elaborate in the way of brilliance of scene nor completeness of elements that make "Scandals" an eye-filling spectacle of many-hued pageantry.

For the comedy there are a brigade of funsters headed by Willie Howard, an "acting" comedian of rare talent. Willie has the faculty of making the fun dramatic and of making the drama funny and he gives his talent full play in "Scandals." For the dancing there is Ann Pennington, she of the dimpled knees and twinkling toes, and Tom Patricola and the Williams Sisters and John Wells and Buster West, the latter a marvel at eccentric stepping. For the songs there are Harry Richman, Eugene Howard, Frances Williams and a quartet, James Carty, Harry Morrissey, Fred Lyon and Arthur Cardinal. The singing and dancing of the chorus also is a strong feature of the show.

Willie and Eugene Howard appeared as a team in their introductory appearance, parodying classic and light opera selections as they vocally and comically explained their absence from the "Passing Show" and their affiliation with "Scandals," the number winning much laughter and applause. Both appeared in succeeding comedy skits, one of the most amusing of which was "The Feud" in which the Pincus clan was all but wiped out by the McGuires, Willie finally exterminating the last of the foe by tricky play. His "Phoney Talk" with Frances Williams gives a lesson in how to carry on a telephone conversation with a sweetie in the presence of the wife without being detected but it didn't turn out well, so it probably will not be tried much off the stage.

Miss Pennington made her initial appearance in an exposition of "The Black Bottom," after which she and Tom Patricola gave a wild exhibition of the same dance, the number being completed with a third phase in which Miss Pennington danced against a background of stepping girls on three wide stairs extending across the stage. Buster West, appearing in special dancing number with John Wells, gave a dancing exhibition that "stopped the show," in the parlance of the stage.

Spectacular features were numerous, one of the more elaborate being "The Triumph of Women" in which beautiful girls representing Mme. Sans Gene, DuBarry, Lucretia Borgia, Cleopatra, Eve and other charmers as they never were, being too heavily draped for Eve and far too scantily for the other characters. Other tableaux included "The Birth of the Blues," finale of the first act, one of the most beautifully gorgeous scenes ever presented, and "My Jewels," sung by Rose Perfect, with the girls appearing as various gems and as decorations in the draperies.

This description is but a sketchy outline of "Scandals," which is far too extensive to permit detailed account of all its many features. A final word—it is one of the best shows of its type ever presented here.

COMEDY, MUSIC IN HARRIS

The vaudeville in the Harris this week is topped by a miniature musical show, "Companee Attention," in which a company of eight performers offer entertaining song, dance and comedy. There are several rather elaborate scenic effects to this presentation. Harry Meyers and Johnny Pedro, comedians, top the cast. "Hook and Ladder No. 9," a melodrama with lots of firemen, fires and much of the usual movie thrill-stunts, is the photoplay feature. It has to do with a girl, who is loved by two fire fighters. Another stage feature is the skit, "Kalamboor," offered by Sam Dayton and Olive Rancy. This gets the laughs. Osborne and Picone are a couple of girls who sing and dance. Neil McKinley chatters and sings. Valdo Meers and Valdo offer an eccentric vaudeville performance. An Aesop Fable, a film comedy, the news reel and an organlogue also are on the bill.

The best show the Gayety has had this season is on view in that theater billed as "A Perfect 36," a Columbia burlesque that contains entertaining intervals of comedy and song, good dancing and a chorus of girls who are comely and pleasing performers. Steve Mills is a funny, grotesque comedian. Billy Fields does his drolleries in the standardized facial makeup of a tramp and in various costumes. Eddie Green, third of the group of comics, appearing in blackface. All are capable, Fields reaching the height of his fun in a restaurant scene. These three and Andy McCann also sing as a comedy quartet that wins laughs. The principal women, Belle and Sally McCann, Frances Norton and Frances Ryer, make friends. In two acts, "A Perfect 36" shows itself in a number of scenes that are quite elaborate and very well staged.

"THE SPIDER" OPENS SECOND WEEK IN PITT

"The Spider" opened the second week of its engagement in the Pitt last night, giving another large audience the thrill that comes with an unusual presentation on the stage. "The Spider" is a novel mixture of comedy and melodrama presented in an entirely new way. William Courtenay is the featured player, his role being that of a magician who solves a murder mystery in his own way.

NO INTENSE SUFFERING EXHIBITED BY MINERS

BRIDGEVILLE WOMAN DIES FROM INJURIES

Mrs. Esther Morrow, 74, of Bridgeville, died in Mercy Hospital today from a fractured thigh suffered from a fall in her home November 8.

Strikers Face Winter With Confidence

The striking Western Pennsylvania miners may be destitute, but there has been no intense suffering thus far and prospects are they will spend a relatively comfortable winter.

This was the impression gathered at Russellton today a reporter, accompanied by Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, visited the community where the miners are living in barracks constructed by the union. Approximately 155 families are in the barracks, and 250 others have made their home in halls, churches and private dwellings.

The barracks, single story affairs 20 feet wide and 120 feet long, are constructed of single boards and lined with tar paper. Each structure contains 20 rooms 10 feet wide and 12 feet long. Each row is built on posts and is raised off the ground.

Each family of six or less is given two rooms as their "home." A family of 12 or less rates three rooms, while more than that, particularly if there are grown children, warrant a four-room "house."

There are no bathrooms in the barracks. Water is obtained from three wells and a spring. Sanitation facilities have been provided a short distance from the living quarters.

But the miners and their families appear not to be mindful of the time they have been unemployed. All have been out of work eight months and many have been on strike two years or more.

Little children, playing about the temporary houses, are full of smiles and appear to be cheerful. John Rajnic, president of the union at Russellton, said the miners do not worry over the outcome of the strike.

"The miner is different from the average man," said Rajnic. "When times are good, the miner is happy and spends his money freely. When times are bad, he is just as happy if he only makes an occasional dollar."

The men, however, are keenly interested in strike conditions throughout the nation. One of the first questions asked Murray on arrival here was an inquiry into general conditions.

The miners place every confidence in their leaders and display their faith by seldom grumbling over their method of living or questioning the procedure toward the ending of the strike, Murray explained.

BUCKET BRIGADE OF WOMEN HALTS FIRE

When the automobile of I. A. Hughes caught fire yesterday in his garage, 967 Industry street, several women, who had formed a bucket brigade, extinguished the fire. The fire was out when firemen arrived.

FIREBUG BEING SOUGHT IN BLAZE AT LOVETT

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 22.—A firebug, blamed for a $2,500 blaze at the Knepper garage at Lovett, is being sought by state police. A machine belonging to the state police was among the automobiles damaged.

IMPRISONMENT DECRIED

cism of conditions which make possible errors of the courts which result in depriving innocent persons of their liberty. Some of these comments follow:

THE REV. JAMES COX, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church:

"Deplorable as this matter is, it is a great thing that the law has admitted its mistake. The defendant, with wealth and influence, hires lawyers to pick flaws in the laws as well as to guard his interests, but this poor devil did not get even the protection the law provided. Ideal justice deals with rich and poor alike, and it is a question if this would have happened in the case of a wealthy defendant. The community of Westmoreland county should raise a fund to reimburse this man, and at the same time keep a vigilant eye on its courts."

MRS. W. B. SCHILLER:

"When I read about this regretable case I deplored it, and it would seem that the learned members of the bar could make enlightening comment upon it."

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SAMUEL H. GARDNER:

"The conviction of an innocent person or a mistake by the courts which deprives a defendant of his liberty for longer than the legal term belong to the category of those unfortunate conditions for which the state has provided no remedy. This case admonishes us again that too much care cannot be exercised in the handling of criminal trials."

MISS HELEN GRIMES, representative in the Pennsylvania Legislature from the Twelfth Allegheny county district:

"It seems that nothing can be done toward reimbursing this man for the six years of the miscarriage of justice. A profound knowledge of the law, and not politics, should be the basis for the election or appointment of judges. The custom of inviting "visinig judges" I believe is a dangerous precedent. Too often jurists from remote district, sit in cases involving a strange environment and they cannot suppress their prejudices. This whole affair reveals lamentable conditions in our judicial system."

JOSEPH STADTFELD, president of the Allegheny County Bar Association:

"It is unfortunate, but the state is powerless to remedy this error. No human institution is infallible, and even the courts make mistakes."

FRANK DAVIS PRESTON, Western Pennsylvania representative Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania:

"The prisoner has no means of redress, but the state, under the law, can make provision for his family. It appears that in this the commonwealth was derelict in its duty, for the man's wife maintained her aged mother, her two small children and herself. It is unfortunate that a man who has been robbed of his liberty cannot be compensated, but his family must not be neglected."

ONE-MAN CLUB RAIDED SECOND TIME IN WEEK

For the second time within a week Capt. Charles Cahill last night raided a one-man club at 529 Sixth avenue and confiscated two slot machines. The alleged proprietor, Hugh O'Hara, was arrested on a charge of keeping a disorderly house.

Frequent Attacks Of Indigestion

May Mean That Ulcers Are Beginning to Form

Watch these attacks of indigestion—especially if they are becoming more frequent. Don't let ordinary "stomach trouble" lead to chronic acidity or ulcers.

To treat indigestion safely two things must be done—and at once. The harmful, gas-forming food-fermenting acid must be neutralized and the delicate stomach lining protected. Bi-nesia does both and complete relief from pain comes at once. Bi-nesia is a corrective, not a drug, and is not only perfectly harmless to take but gives full protection against serious possibilities. Get a large 50 cent package of tablets or powder of any druggist today and treat your indigestion the safe way.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Brilliant Social Season of Debuts, Dances and Parties Retains Its Scintillation

DESPITE the whirl of social events of yesterday, ranging from a charity ball, a debutante party to a theater party, the gayety and importance of social events will not lessen for a moment; for today is to be no less attractive.

The leading event of today is the "coming-out" tea of Mary Currier Lewis, daughter of the James Edward Lewis, of Aylesboro avenue, which her mother is giving this afternoon in the Lewis home. Assisting the hostess and honor guest in receiving is the former's sister, Mrs. Raymond Willey.

The debutante is wearing Nattier blue velvet, embroidered in silver-lined crystal beads, and is carrying a shower bouquet of pink roses, lavender orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Lewis' gown is coral crepe Moravia, trimmed with coral velvet, with the skirt draped and the long sleeves trimmed with soft velvet bows. She a shoulder corsage of lavender orchids. Brown transparent velvet is worn by Mrs. Willey. A shoulder corsage of yellow rosebuds harmonizes with the gown.

The large tea table is centered with an arrangement of yellow roses, lavender orchids, white bouvardia and mauve lace flower. Yellow chrysanthemums in standards and vases are used throughout the home and the enclosed porch, the walls of which are hung with smilax and grapevines.

Assisting Mrs. Lewis are Mrs. Samuel Davis Foster, Mrs. G. Greer Coolidge, Mrs. Charles H. Kline, Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, Mrs. William F. Bickel, Mrs. Dwight Winter, Mrs. Benno Janssen, Mrs. Rebekah McCutcheon Dallmeyer, Miss Margaret Stewart, Mrs. O. M. Reif and Mrs. M. S. Dennis.

The debutante has as aides Marjorie Babcock, Anne Louise Marshall, Virginia Louise Johnston, Mary Mellon McClung, Margaret Brainard, Frances Fitzgerald, Nan Bunton and Janet McKinney, debutantes of this season; Betty Charters, of Bigelow boulevard, and Caroline and Margaret Simpler, of Columbus, O., who are guests in the Lewis home. The two out-of-town aides were classmates of the debutante at the Mary Lyon School at Swarthmore. Later Mary attended the Spence School in New York.

Mrs. Samuel Davis Foster, of Marlborough street, will give a luncheon in the Pittsburgh Country Club, December 5, in honor of Mary Lewis, and on a December date not yet decided upon, Mrs. Willey will entertain with a tea dance in the Longue Vue Country Club for her niece.

An event of double interest will be the dinner dance Oscar H. Babcock will give tonight in the Longue Vue Country Club in honor of his son and daughter-in-law, the junior Oscar H. Babcocks, who were married in June, and his debutante niece, Marjorie Babcock, daughter of Fred H. Babcock, of Fifth and Negley avenues. The junior Mrs. Babcock will be remembered as Anica B. Robinson, daughter of William A. Robinson III.

Last night Marjorie was guest of honor at a theater party and dance given by the James Holland Hammonds of the Hotel Schenley. They entertained 50 guests at the Nixon Theater and 150 more at a ball in the Hotel Schenley after the show.

The receiving party, standing in a corner of the ballroom before a background of palms and cibotium ferns, consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Hammond, the debutante and her father. Mrs. Hammond wore orchid velvet and the honor guest black velvet over silver cloth, ornamented with crystal embroidery, which outlined the decolletage, crossed the front of the bodice and ended in a large bowknot, holding the side drapery of the skirt in place.

Assisting Mrs. Hammond with the lucky number dance was her daughter, Mrs. Edward Alexander Pitcairn, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Sidney Hammond. Supper was served in the large room at the Forbes street end of the ballroom.

Here the small tables held pink glass vases of pink roses, pink snapdragon and bouvardia, and pink candles in crystal holders. One large buffet table had a silver vase of pink chrysanthemums. Palms and cibotium ferns were used with standards of yellow chrysanthemums in the foyer at the Fifth avenue end of the ballroom.

And still another notable event for the social world is planned for this month. The Stage and Play Society will give its opening performance at 8:30 the evening of November 28 in the Carnegie Music Hall when members will present three one-act plays, "Auction," by Holland Hudson; "When the Whirlwind Blows," and "Our Kind," by Louise Saunders.

Never have I seen the annual Christmas sale of the Women's Industrial Exchange so well attended as was the one held yesterday in the marquee the R. B. Mellons erected for the ceremonies attending the wedding of their daughter, Sarah. One of the rooms in the marquee was reserved for tea, and the ballroom was divided by vine decorated lattice work. On one side bridge was played. And there were 250 players. On the other side tables were arranged in a hollow square. Here were arranged many of the articles for sale, all of which were made by women of the city who are compelled to earn money and yet are not able to leave their homes. The exchange is operated, as you know, by a group of 50 managers, society women, who give their services. Besides the many tables on which were displayed fancy work, infants' wear, negliges, pillows and all types of novelties, there was a table where cakes and cookies were sold, which seemed to be most popular.

A room was reserved for the display of toys children would like, and here also was seen a Jack Horner pie, filled with toys instead of plums. Later in the afternoon there was a Punch and Judy show for the youngsters.

In addition to bridge an event of interest of the afternoon was a display of negliges, with Mary Louise Johnson, Anne King Scott, Florence Carroll, Juliet Lea Hillman, Anne Louise Marshall, Marjorie Babcock and Mary Childs, all debutantes of this season, serving as models.

Last night a dinner dance concluded the program for the sale, with hundreds more attending the event, including many of the younger set.

Now that Mrs. Frank E. Rutan, of Sewickley, has decided to bring out her daughter, Elizabeth, the number of the debutantes of the season has grown to 29. Mrs. Rutan and her daughter, Martha, will give a tea-dance on Saturday afternoon, December 17, in the Allegheny Country Club to present Elizabeth to society.

Mrs. Galen C. Hartman, of Kentucky avenue, will give a tea in the Twentieth Century Club from 4 to 6 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, December 6. And the guests of honor will be Mrs. Harold Boyd Hershman and Mrs. Lowell Briggs Page.

Miss Virginia Luty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Netzer Lutty, and James R. Cowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kent Cowan, of White Plains, N. Y., were married Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, Thorn street, Sewickley, with the Rev. Dr. Dwight L. Myers, pastor of the Sewickley Methodist Episcopal Church of Sewickley, officiating. Mrs. Francis Elwood Luty, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and Marjorie and Priscilla Luty, nieces of the bride, were flower girls.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Phyllis L. Newlands, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Newlands of Lincoln avenue, Edgewood, and Harold F. Latham of New Britain, Conn., and Pittsburgh, which is to be solemnized at the First United Brethren Church of Wilkinsburg on Thursday evening, December 8, by the Rev. Earl C. Weaver.

Miss Newlands has asked Miss Dorothy E. Latham of New Britain, Conn., sister of the bridegroom, to be maid of honor; Miss Marguerite McGregor, her cousin, to be bridesmaid, and Shirley Jean Krick, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard V. Krick of Wilkinsburg, to be flower girl.

Howard V. Krick of Wilkinsburg will be Latham's best man, and the ushers will be D. H. Newlands of Edgewood, brother of the bride; Howard E. Wilson, Clifford Brown and J. Ray Baldridge.

DR. RICHEY ADDRESSES COUNTY FEDERATION

"Christmas baskets are very wonderful, but we must remember that every family needs three meals 365 days in the year. It is not charity they want but that thing that will make it possible for them to earn those three meals every day in the year. Education of the right kind is the only cure for poverty, the mother of crime," said Dr. J. B. Richey, superintendent of McKeesport schools in his talk before the Allegheny County Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday. Dr. Richey's talk, which was on "Vocational Education," concerned itself chiefly with the 50 per cent of school pupils who can't learn readily from books, but who have ability, if it can only be discovered. Dr. Richey spoke of the new trade school for which McKeesport has just voted the larger part of a $1,500,000 bond issue. In it every pupil will be taught a trade, if it is only bricklaying.

The meeting was held in the Duquesne Carnegie Library, with the Duquesne Women's Civic Club as the hostess club. Mrs. R. B. Perry, county president, was in the chair for the morning session and Mrs. E. L. Thomassen presided in the afternoon, following luncheon, which was served in the Methodist Church by the Ladies' Aid Society.

Mrs. R. W. Johnston, chairman of international relations in the State Federation, and Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, state vice president at large, were the morning speakers. Mrs. Diehl spoke on "Club Evolution," a talk in which she showed the difference between the first club women and the club wamon of today who "is well awake to the fact that her first duty is in her home, but who knows that self-improvement as well as the advancement of her community is another obligation." Mrs. Johnston reported an address given by Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead. Mrs. Perry also spoke, pointing out the value of federation.

A second speaker in the afternoon was Mrs. Laura Holland McDonald, who had as her subject, "The Challenge of the Girl Scout Movement." She spoke of scouting from the angles of citizen building, home making, play and service. Music, which was under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Osborne, was furnished by Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols, soprano, and Mrs. Lottie Holbrook, contralto, with Mrs. Osborne accompanying. A tea at the clubrooms of the Civic Club supplemented the sessions.

"History in the Making" is affording the Bellevue Literary Club a season of more than ordinary interest and is so engrossing a topic that it is not to be forgotten even on guest day, which is set for next Tuesday in the Highland Country Club. Dr. N. Andrew N. Cleven, of the University of Pittsburgh, the speaker, will give a summary of "History in the Making," and there will be a worthwhile musical program by Mrs. Ruth Bowers Gibson, violinist, and Cass Ward Whitney, baritone, both well known in Pittsburgh musical and club circles. Mrs. George MacLeod will accompany both.

An exhaustive account of her 16-month trip through Europe was given yesterday by Mrs. Samuel Hamilton, a member of the Woman's Club of Wilkinsburg, at the semi-monthly meeting of the club in the Y. W. C. A. Community House. Mrs. Hamilton gave to the finest detail her impressions of the countries visited, their architecture, people, their food, their habits and distinguishing characteristics, and the wonders and beauties viewed by her and the three young women in her party. The club house committee will sponsor a card party at the Hotel Schenley December 2.

Mrs. J. M. Moore was hostess at her home in Sixth avenue for the Monday Club of Carnegie yesterday afternoon and Mrs. R. M. Wright was leader. Music was by Mrs. O. S. Heck, contralto, accompanied by Mrs. W. W. Andrews, and the papers, which were on Norway and Sweden, were by Mrs. T. Wray Greer, Mrs. U. F. Rohm, Mrs. George McFarland and Mrs. F. C. Tweed.

John Weaver, American poet, critic and playwright, read from his own writings, lyrics, sonnets, poetic editorials and verse, yesterday morning before the Twentieth Century Club, introducing them into a lecture on "The American Language." The American language, while it reflects the mind and spirit of a strong people, has been called in its making "a history of vulgarism," he said.

For its unusualness as well as its interest, Mrs. Henry D. Gilchrist's review of "Jalna," in original rhyme, was the outstanding feature of the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club meeting yesterday afternoon in the Edgeworth Club. The program consisted of other book reviews and book talks and was in charge of the literary department, of which Mrs. James Lyall Stewart is chairman. Tea followed the program.

An unusual feature of the benefit card party to be held at Council House of Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women Tuesday, December 6, will be a waffle luncheon at 1 o'clock.

IAUNCH UNITED PALESTINE APPEAL

With national leaders of the Zionist movement present, the $150,000 campaign of the United States Palestine Appeal in Western Pennsylvania opened at a rally last night in the auditorium of the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association, Bellefield avenue.

Judge William M. Lewis of Philadelphia, one of the speakers termed the Zionist movement the expression of the Jewish will to live.

Mrs. Irma Lindheim of New York, the national president of the Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization of America, explained the work on which the funds to be collected would be spent. She told of conditions in the new Jewish "homeland" as she found them on a recent visit.

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the City Department of Public Welfare and chairman of the women's division of the appeal, traced the growth of the Palestine movement.

Charles A. Rosenbloom presided and introduced the speakers. The local campaign is part of a drive for $7,500,000 in the United States and combines the drives for 1927 and 1928.

NATION'S BOOT MAKERS AVERAGE $25.87 WEEKLY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Men and women who make the nation's boots and shoes were paid average wages of $25.87 a week last year, the Bureau of Labor Statistics announces. This was an increase of 86 per cent over 1912 and reduction of 4 per cent from 1920.

Asks Speeder to Show Speed in Paying Fine

By Universal Service

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 22.—George Washington, 25, and black as the ace of spades, was arraigned before Corporation Judge John F. Onion on a speeding charge.

Said George:

"Jedge, I was just goin' a little fast so I could get to a fillin' station before my gas ran out!"

Said the Judge:

"Well, go a little fast over to the clerk's desk and give him $10 before your money runs out."

KAUFMANN'S

THE STORE OF THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

FIFTH AVENUE ATLANTIC 1000

The Thanksgiving Game

Nor cold, nor rain, nor mud—nor family dinners—shall interfere with the great Thanksgiving game. And because it is a great event, the stadium will flash with dashing sports costumes.

Fur-Collared Tweed Coats......

The correct sports coat is as important as the winning touchdown. (And much more sure!) Great fur collars nearly eclipse sleek felt hats, and throw a challenge to whipping winds. Some of the furs are beaver, wolf, fox. Tweed fabrics favor the indistinct patterns in tans and browns. Some of the fabrics come from English looms. Slim silhouettes are achieved through excellent tailoring. Ready for the exigencies of football weather, or for a brisk dash to an eight o-clock class. And only $59!

(Kaufmann's—Fourth Floor)

Felt Hats Fare Forth............

As desirable as point after touchdown, the little felt hat that tops the tweed sports coat. Smart in its beige-to-brown tones—and impertinently clever in its self trimming that flares at brim or crown, its buckle, its uneven hairline. It fits snugly beneath the fur, collar—Fashion's rule for the Winter season. And have you seen the new pastel shades that sports felts are featuring? Black is ever popular, too. $10 to $30.

(Kaufmann's—Fifth Floor)

Sports Oxfords, Certainly......

She must be clad in swagger befitting the Thanksgiving game from her head . . . to her feet . . . and in the latter case I. Miller proves important. "Millertaire," distinctive, attractive, presents a dress-sports oxford which combines brown suede with genuine brown alligator. Sporty enough to wear to the game . . . smart enough to wear to the hotel afterward. . . Priced $16. And if the day should prove inclement . . . you may still be smartly shod in our newest interpretations of the galoshes . . . erstwhile cumbersome . . . at $3 to 5.50. Onanoff Boots of wool jersey are 4.50. Cap'n Kid Boots are $5.

(Kaufmann's—Fifth Floor)

Silk Scarfs Wave Frantically...

Whipping in the brisk breezes, adding their gayety to the joy of the scene . . . are these silk scarfs, domestic and imported. Tied jauntily beneath a 'coon or pony skin coat are triangles and squares of silk . . . as exultantly youthful as the wearer. Hand painted neckwear . . . softly brilliant . . . or printed with gay colors. Modern as the collegians who wear them . . . Floral or geometrically patterned. Domestic neckwear is priced 1.95 to $5. Imports, 8.50 to $20.

(Kaufmann's—Main Floor)

And a Smart Bag................

Just for its chic appearance, she'll carry this imported handbag to the game . . . and because it fits into her ensemble so well, of course! It conforms to the new S. S. and G. rules for co-eds' accessories . . . Smart, Simple and Geometric . . . for it is designed with an eye on the diagonals of Vionnet. Its frame is of simulated shell, a finer and darker shell than found on our domestic bags. In suede—dull smoke-tan or black. 13.98.

(Kaufmann's—Main Floor)

Mocha Gloves Wave a Greeting...

Hands that smartly clasp the coat, hands that wave greetings . . . across the stands . . . they're clad in mocha gloves, slip-on or one-clasp style. A little heavier than suede . . . a little more serviceable for everyday, and correct for many occasions, mocha gloves meet the requirements of co-ed clothes budgets . . . colors will blend with her ensemble, soft grey and smart mode. Slip-on style, 5.00 pair. One-clasp, 3.95.

(Kaufmann's—Main Floor)

Mums for the Game..

The very spirit of November and the Thanksgiving game, glorious mums will be worn by happy co-eds. Violets and the very new fruit boutonnieres are favored, too. 39c to $3.

REMUS' GUN HAND IS MURDER TRIAL PUZZLE

Hopes and Arguments Of Sisters

CHICAGO POLICE "GET" FIRST IN WAR ON GANGS

SECOND NEWS SECTION THE SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS FEATURES
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1927

STROLLING HOME!

After their work in office and factory, Ann, smaller and more sensible, and Georgie, flashy, prettier, make their way to their room in Mrs. O'Leary's boarding house. And somehow — the one name, Bill Warren—isn't mentioned. They are "The Lovelorn," and the story woven around them starts Friday in the Sun-Telegraph.

A NEEDED LECTURE

Ann and Georgie, sitting in their room before the mirror, are arguing. Ann is telling her sister to be careful of the company she keeps; is warning the dashing, well-poised girl to select her friends for worth-not looks or automobiles. Begin "The Lovelorn," a romantic serial by Beatrice Fairfax Friday in the Sun-Telegraph.

SLIPPING OUT!

Georgie was ready to meet the thin-mustached artist. She didn't want Ann to know, for she hated Ann's lectures. Read this new, thrilling serial, start it Friday in the Sun-Tele. Pictures posed by Miss Billy and Miss Patsy Irwin, who played last week at the Penn Theater. The motion picture "The Lovelorn" will be there starting December 17.

LEADING JOHN

CAMILLA HORN

Acclaimed Germany's greatest screen actress, Camilla Horn has arrived in New York en route to Hollywood, where she will play leads opposite John Barrymore.

Lye in Rum Plant

A renaturing plant in which lye was used to purify denatured alcohol was reported seized yesterday by prohibition agents in a raid on a building at 5500 Margaretta street, East Liberty. A 100-gallon still, 110 gallons of renatured alcohol, 250 pounds of lye and a large touring car were seized by the agents. Max Goldberg, 232 Ophelia street, was arrested.

Ten gallons of alcohol and 12 pints of whisky were seized in a raid at 2336 Shady avenue. A warrant was sworn for the alleged owner of the liquor.

An automobile, containing five gallons of alcohol, was seized by agents after a chase in Bedford avenue yesterday and Samuel M. Roth, 2423 Milwaukee street, driver of the car, was arrested.

Slain Mine Strikers Declared Unarmed

REMUS' GUN HAND PUZZLE

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COURT HOUSE, CINCINNATI, Nov. 22. — Whether George Remus shot and killed his wife, Imogene, with his right hand or his left hand, became an important point in the trial of Remus for murder when conflicting testimony was read into the record today.

Charles Stevens, chauffeur of the "death taxi" in which Mrs. Remus rode to her doom in Eden Park, testified yesterday that Remus had "reached into his right hand pocket just before the shot was fired."

Today William Smith, a Negro plasterer and eye-witness to the tragedy, testified under cross-examination that Remus held the gun in his left hand.

"The left hand?" asked Attorney Charles H. Elston of the defense.

"Yes, sir."

Smith said he saw Remus put the gun in his pocket after the shooting and walk calmly away. He said he was only a short distance away and he "was sure glad when the man got out of thar. I stayed perfectly still 'till he got away."

The indictment against Remus charges he killed Mrs. Remus with his right hand.

Remus himself said he is left-handed.

Several other witnesses testified during the forenoon, relating details of the tragedy in Eden Park, where Remus had followed his wife, dragged her from a taxi and shot and killed her. She was on her way to court to divorce him.

NEVER SATISFIED!

BOTH RUNAWAYS

It's a funny world. Thelma Erringer, 15, of 268 Emerson street, left, had pretty clothes and a good home. She grew tired. Her home and her school bored her. Anne Brumley, 17, of Ellsworth, Pa., wanted pretty clothes and the advantages of a city school. She wanted life in a city home. Her own home and school bored her. The Missing Persons Bureau of the Pittsburgh Police Department is searching for both girls.

Horses Die, Fireman Burned

Two horses were burned to death, one was rescued, and a fireman was injured when flames swept the stables of the Dusenberry Baking Company, 3200 Forbes street, shortly before 8 o'clock this morning. A second alarm was sounded when it was feared the blaze would endanger the bakery shop and offices of the company.

The injured fireman is W. J. Burns, aide to Chief Henry F. Schwartz. He was burned about the eyes while trying to reach the horses. He was treated on the scene by Dr. D. E. Sable, police and fire surgeon, and returned to duty.

The horses were in the basement of the stable. Above them were three delivery wagons, the stable connecting with the main building. The fire started in the basement and spread rapidly along the roof to the main structure, but the firemen soon brought the blaze under control.

Chief R. L. Smith estimated the damage to the stable and its contents at $7,000, and company officials said their loss to stock on account of smoke would amount to $1,000 or more.

SAY GUARDS WERE NOT MENACED

DENVER, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—With National Guardsmen patrolling the northern Colorado coal fields, where several persons were killed and upwards of a score injured by gunfire yesterday, both state officials and representatives of miners who answered a strike call issued by Industrial Workers of the World five weeks ago, today disclaimed responsibility.

In describing the skirmish at the Columbine mine in Weld county, north of here, representatives of strikers declared six were killed or died of injuries, 21 received gunshot wounds and 14 were arrested.

The state casualty list showed five dead, 20 injured and four alleged strike leaders in jail. In addition, the state claimed all of the score of special officers guarding the mine were injured by stones or clubs.

Frank Palmer, member of the strikers' committee and former publisher of the Denver Labor Advocate, in an address to miners in Weld county declared a machine gun had been used on "defenseless and peaceable miners," and that there was no justification for the shooting.

Mr. Palmer said the state police opened fire when a group of miners made a peaceful attempt to go to the postoffice, located on the mine property. He insisted that there was no intentiton to cause damage to mine works and that none of the workers was armed.

Gov. W. G. Adams declared a state of riot and insurrection existed in Weld and Boulder counties in an order mobilizing part of the National Guard.

27th Blast Body Is Found

Part of a body, believed that of Edward J. Carroll, 454 Third avenue, Freedom, Pa., one of the missing Riter-Conley Company employes, was found today at the base of a tank of which the crew of men were working at the Equitable Gas Company's plant in Manchester when the tank exploded last Monday. A lumber jacket will aid in identification, which, if made, will increase the total number of lead to 27.

Part of another body was found, but it is believed to belong to the corpse of H. H. Norman, 47 Plum street, Fair Oaks, previously identified.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED: HOLD HIM AS DRUNK

J. F. Kane of Youngstown, O., was lodged in the North Side police station charged with drunkenness early this morning after he reported to police that he had been held up and robbed of a gold watch and $20 by two men at Madison avenue and Canal street. Kane said he had met the men at the Fort Wayne station, and they had offered to take him home with them.

POLICE 'GET' 1ST IN WAR ON GANGS

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Twelve hours after Chief of Detectives William O'Connor, of Chicago, issued his drastic decree to kill all gangsters, police riflemen brought down the first victim, Fran' Herbert, chief lieutenant to Joe ltis, master racketeer of the Chicago badlands.

Following the attempt made on the life of Chief O'Connor, by a gangster who pulled a gun upon him in the chief's own office, the "war" command was issued.

Answering a call that two suspicious characters were seen lurking in an alleyway, in a hoodlum neighborhood, Sergt. John Gibbons and his squad rushed to investigate.

The men were ordered to halt. Herbert reached for his waist where a revolver was concealed.

"Get 'em, men, fire low!" yelled Gibbons.

Detective guns blazed.

TAKES DAY OFF TO WED

CONSTANCE HOWARD

Constance Howard, film actress and sister-in-law of Samuel Goldwyn, the producer, took a day off Thursday to get married to Wilson Jones at Los Angeles. Friday Miss Howard returned to her work in a picture at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios there.

The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass at Saint Basil's Cathedral.

The romance is attributed to the screen, the bridegroom falling in love with Miss Howard when he saw her in a picture.

Co-workers of Miss Howard in her present picture gave her a good luck party on location Wednesday.

Miss Howard was on the stage in the East before entering pictures. She is 18.

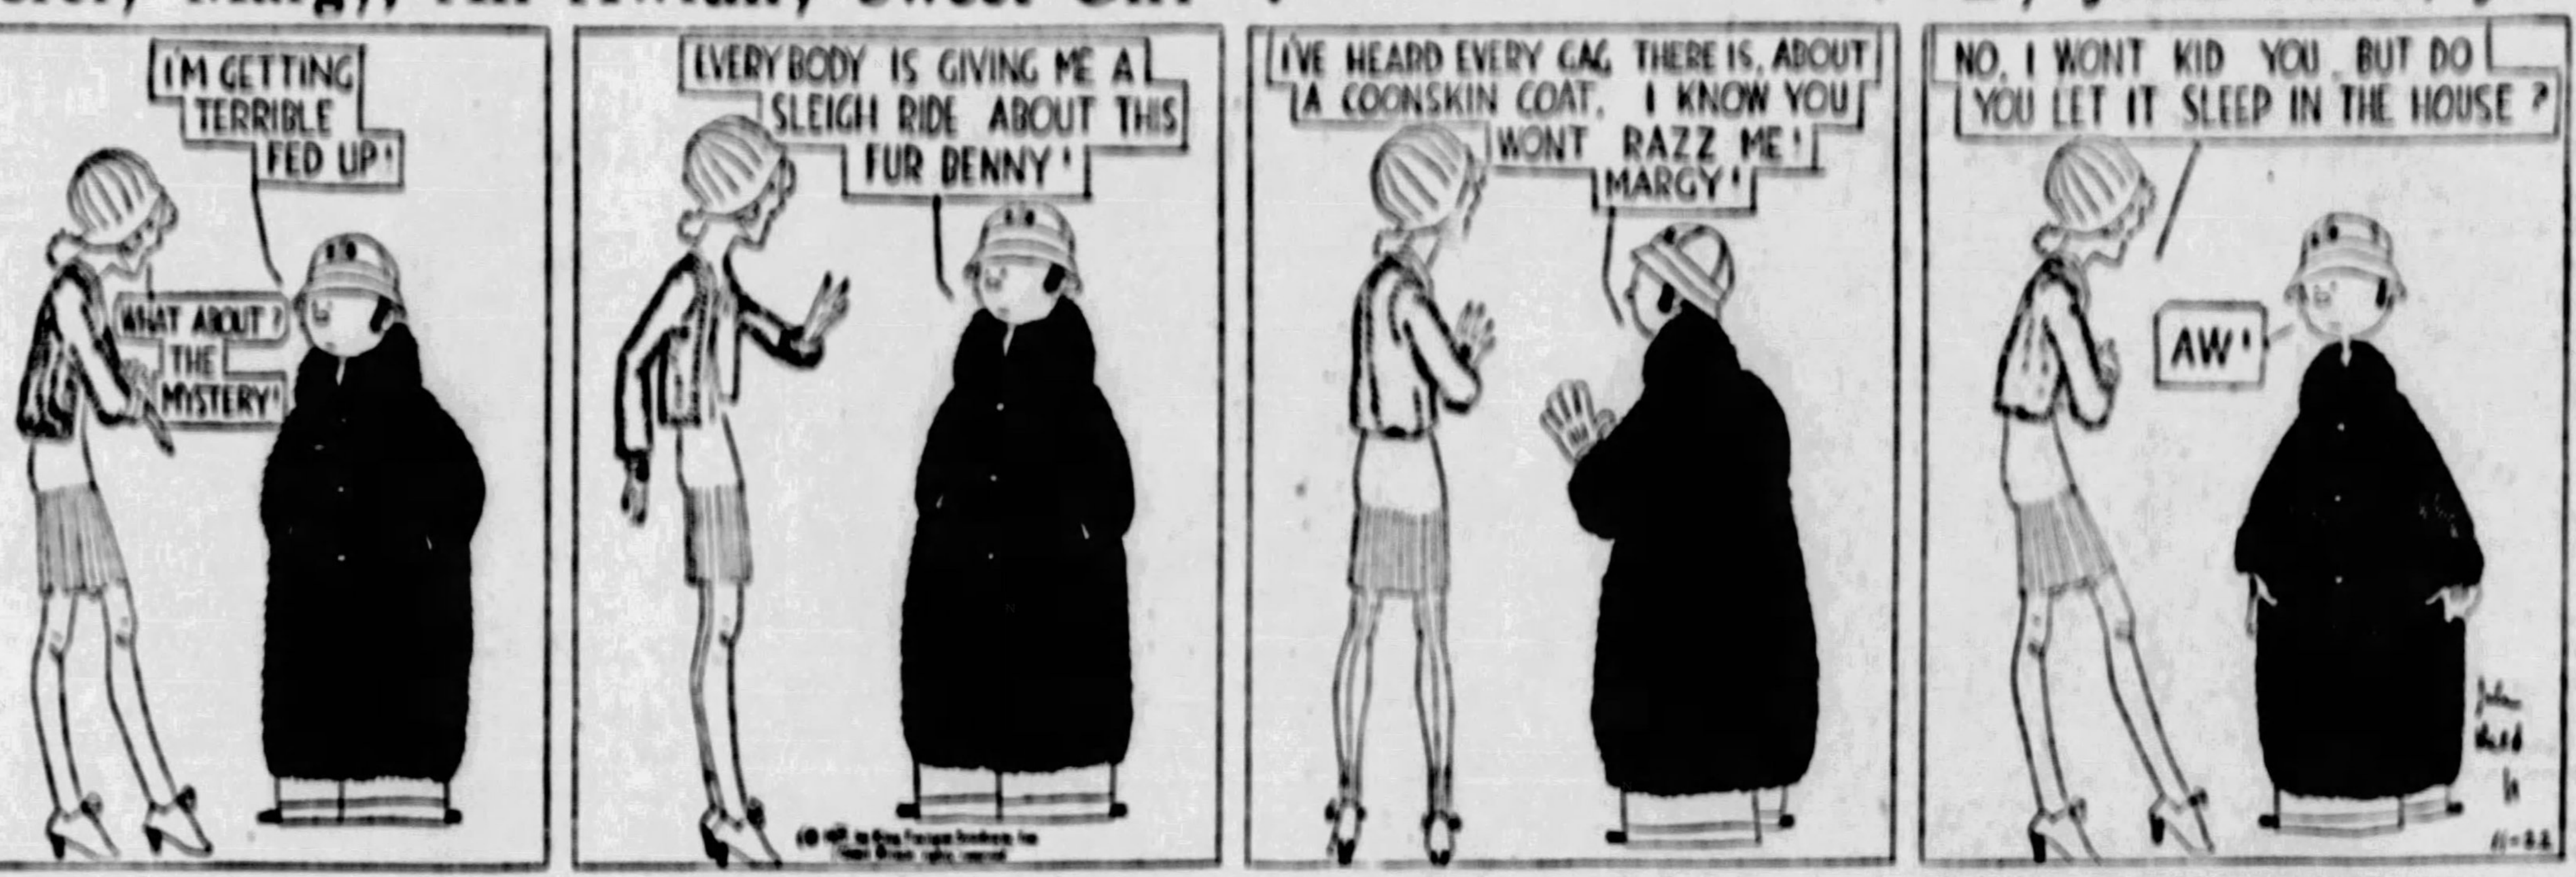
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



I'M GETTING TERRIBLE FED UP!
WHAT ABOUT THE MYSTERY!
EVERYBODY IS GIVING ME A SLEIGH RIDE ABOUT THIS FUR DENNY!
I'VE HEARD EVERY GAG THERE IS, ABOUT A COONSKIN COAT. I KNOW YOU WONT RAZZ ME! MARGY!
NO, I WONT KID YOU, BUT DO YOU LET IT SLEEP IN THE HOUSE?
AW!

"My dear, I'm on the VERGE of colLAPSE—I mean I'm actually WHIPPED down to a NUB at this point because HAVE you seen Allah in this odd fur COAT he has suddenly acQUIRED, my dear? Really, it's the strangest contrivance you've ever beHELD, my dear, and he HONestly looks like NOThing HUman when he puts it ON, my dear, because, ANYways, I think it takes a rather VIRile TYPE of man to get aWAY in a fur COAT, my dear, and I think they look POIsonous on a PINguid type of PIPsqueak like the Allah—I ACtually DO! Well, ANYways, my dear, I HONestly don't see WHY these strange MEN wear all the CLOTHES they do, my dear, because I mean it must feel SIMply FOUL to be sort of BUNdled UP in a lot of unCOUTH raiment the way they practicably always ARE—you know the TYPE, my dear! Because I mean I think people are HEAPS more atTRACtive when they wear fewer CLOTHES, don't you really think they ARE? I mean s'pos'n' a GIRL were to put ON all these odd things that MEN wear, my dear. You'd look like NOThing HUman, no less, and I mean I HONestly think the LESS you WEAR the more apPEAL you have or something—can you BEAR it, my dear? But I mean I ACtually DO!"

IT NEVER PAYS

Carlotta and Margie Hunt Adrien Martin in Hope Of Saving Jerry

THE air was sweet. Margie remembered how long ago she had loved this bleak New England landscape. Had her aunt been another woman, she would have been contented to stay with her perhaps, never left the small village, never had all her adventures, never known Jerry. . . . Yet knowing him paid for so much—that was something nothing could ever take from her, no matter what happened.

A dingy Ford sedan was drawn up at the platform. No other passengers dismounted. The driver came forward, peered at them.

"We want to go to Brenda Lodge—you know where that is, don't you?"

"Brenda Lodge? Lemme see . . . Why, I can't take you there, lady!"

"What do you mean? Why not?"

"Because I can't!"

"See here, if it's money you [illegible]—I'll pay you more than you [illegible] in a season. I'll pay you [illegible]—anything."

The driver shook his head mournfully and rubbed his thick [illegible] hands together.

"It ain't that, Lady. Brenda Lodge is 15 miles down a corduroy trail. Can't get over that [illegible] no car—leastways no car I [illegible] seen."

[illegible] must be some [illegible] drive there, if Joe Griggs ain't drunk and will hire his horse to you."

Carlotta made an impatient gesture. "I don't care how we go. I want to get to Brenda Lodge—as soon as possible. You can take us around to this man you speak of—this livery man."

"But Joe won't take you tonight. Joe wouldn't go out there tonight for a million dollars."

Carlotta looked so exasperated that she seemed to be trying to check a desire to scream. Without another word, she caught Margie's arm, and with her stepped into the Ford.

They rattled down the dark, narrow streets of the village. Here and there someone in a doorway looked at them with the curious glances of country people. Presently with a jerk they drew up before an old grey house, badly in need of paint and repairs. The driver got down. Knocking at the door, he bawled:

"Oh, Joe! . . Joe, there's a party here that wants to see you. Are you drunk, Joe?"

Margie was in the hallway with Carlotta. An immense, sleepy-eyed man with a shock of red hair confronted them. He grinned toothlessly. His face was mottled with tiny veins, and the hallway, the very house, seemed permeated with the odor of rye whisky.

"Nope," the red-haired giant said bluntly. "Can't take nobody. Not nobody! Why, say, in them woods when it's getting dark, you can stumble a horse in just no time at all."

"We've got to—we've got to!" Carlotta pleaded. "I'll pay you anything—a hundred dollars—two hundred!"

"Lady, you don't know what you're saying. I never robbed nobody. My price is $8. You come around in the morning." He made as if to shut the door.

Carlotta looked around helplessly as if seeking invisible aid. Her breath came in short, hard inhalations.

"Please," said Margie, "oh, please, drive us there! You don't know what it means. I—I can't tell you."

And then, worn by the strain, by the long trip, by the terrible anxiety, she suddenly broke down. She tried hard to hold herself back, but she could not, and it was that which saved the day.

The red-haired man opened his eyes. "Lady, you gotta stop that—you gotta! See here, I can't drive you over no corduroy trail at this time of day—it's almost dark already—lady, I can't—oh, gosh, I'll go out and hitch up the horse!"

His last sentence came out with sudden disgust, and so unexpectedly that for a moment Margie thought she had misunderstood. But no, he was actually making ready.

Long before they were even half way to their destination, the heavy darkness had fallen. The old horse pulled its way patiently ahead, and with Joe Griggs in front of them Margie and Carlotta were jounced and shaken with every revolution of the slow moving wheels. The scented gloom hung above and around them. Impossible to see anything. Now and then they would hear the brawling of a mountain stream that came nearer, then faded away. Now and then the sounds of small animals scampering across the dry leaves of the undergrowth.

Margie sat silent. There was not anything to say, there was nothing to do but wait, try to be patient. In another hour they would be at Brenda Lodge, and put their hopes and fears to the test. Carlotta had succeeded with Shevlin, why shouldn't she now succeed with Adrian Martin? Margie dared to hope.

They came through the dark and endless woods to a cleared space.

"It's over the hill there and round a bend," said Joe Griggs. And presently: "Hello, there's a light now. That'll be Pete Ladue, most likely. He takes care of things up here."

Margie followed the direction of his finger. She saw a vague form, a man with a lantern. He was lowering a cross bar against the doors of some outbuilding. Around the bend now she could make out the shape of the lodge itself, a long, low building which must have been erected at this lonely and inaccessible place at an immense cost. But she noticed even then that it was dark.

She was out first, hurrying towards the man with the lantern. She heard Carlotta behind her.

"We want to see Mr. Martin right away," Margie exclaimed.

The man—she saw he was quite an old man—put his hand to his ear. "How?" he asked.

She repeated her words.

"I'm a mite hard of hearing," said the old man. "Jest a mite."

Carlotta screamed the question into his ear.

"Oh!" He looked at her stupidly, then nodded. "Most likely. Yes. Most likely."

At that moment they were joined by the red-haired driver.

"Lady, that ain't the way," he declared. He caught the old man's arm, and roared like a bull into his ear: "Where's Martin?"

A gleam of understanding came into the old man's eyes. He became voluble. "Why, he left yisterday. He got the morning train at Brownsville. Ain't coming back till next year. He's gone to New York to get on a big ship and go abroad."

CHAPTER XLVIII.

AFTERWARDS, when Margie looked back and tried to remember what had happened, it was like remembering the blurred succession of a dream.

She recalled the sharp exclamation Carlotta had given: "What a fool I was—what an utter fool!"

She remembered the furious five minutes in which they had tried to wrest from the old man some further scraps of information, where Adrian Martin had gone, what hotel he would be at. But the old man could tell them nothing except that Martin had planned to leave his train only to board his steamer. He would be on it tonight most likely. What the steamer was, he did not even know, and he was obviously honest.

So Martin had sailed, was already miles away from land! By this long and weary trip they had precluded any possibility of meeting him. Dan Shevlin had thought it out, sent them on a wild goose chase, knowing perfectly well that by the time they had arrived Martin would be gone, and it would be too late to try to see him in New York.

They drove back to the village through the dark woods. As if by a desperate effort Carlotta was trying to keep up Margie's spirits and her own. But the plain truth could not be denied: they had lost their best chance.

That night Margie tried to force sleep in a gloomy country hotel, but sleep would not come. And in the morning, tired and fearful, she had gotten on the junction train and begun the trip of weary miles back to the city.

Carlotta was silent now. She would look out of the window, biting her lip nervously, thinking hard, but there was no sign that she had any confidence in her ability to master Dan Shevlin.

Margie's own thoughts were far away, and they hurt her fiercely. She thought of a boy who was pushing his way through a fever country, in a land of dark rivers, of tropical growth, and poisoned reptilian life. She thought of him, gay, confident, proud. And 48 hours from now an expedition would start from the coast town, swoop and circle till they caught up his trail, and then pursue him stealthily through the jungle, until—but Margie could not complete the dreadful picture.

Something must be done, something still could be done. She thought of Adrian Martin, and gave up hopes forever of reaching him. His departure was probably a secret—Shevlin had seen to that as he saw to everything. No hopes even of reaching him by radio. Yes, it was in Shevlin's hands that Jerry's life lay—he held every string.

Margie no longer thought of appealing to Dan Shevlin. Even in this crisis, she was not blinded by the false hope of touching some chord of mercy or kindness in that ruthless man. But some means might be found of fighting him with his own weapons—Carlotta would help her.

That night they were back in New York, back in Carlotta Brooke's apartment, too utterly wearied to be of any use to themselves or each other.

"Let's sleep, let's get some rest. We've got all of tomorrow," Carlotta said.

All of tomorrow! How swiftly even this agonizing time had passed. By tomorrow night if the message were not sent, Jerry would be doomed!

Margie was up at the first light. Her brain felt racked with pain. She could think of nothing, she could think of no way save one, Shevlin's way.

In the morning Carlotta went out and returned to say she had been to Shevlin's, but found him gone. In the afternoon she went again. Margie waited. Hours later she heard Carlotta returning. Her step was not brisk, and she was not smiling. Instead she looked pale and haggard.

"It's no use," she said. "It's no use. At least we can get the police—tell everything. I'll tell everything I know about him. I can prove he's been a blackmailer, anyway."

"But you," Margie said. "What about you. Won't it—I mean, won't it incriminate you, too?"

To Be Continued.

Every Woman Should Know About This.

It is as much your duty to be attractive as to keep a well-ordered house.

Why shouldn't every girl and woman strive to be attractive? It is not merely vanity; the modest knowledge of pleasant appearance is a mental prop that enhances whatever charms of personality its owner may have.

Let us suggest here, a recently discovered Toilet Accessory known as Mibalm Liquid Vanishing Cream.

Never before has there been offered a toilet preparation which fills such a long-felt want; never have women been so anxious to try a new product and never have they been so well pleased, and acknowledged its superior value over the old style solid vanishing creams.

MIBALM LIQUID VANISHING CREAM is a snow-white lotion, makes an ideal powder base, it is soothing, healing and mildly astringent; you can buy it at all the leading Drug and Department Stores, you can always get it at May's.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

Philip Veritzen's Sudden Interest in Lillian Underwood

MY SPECULATIONS concerning the real reason for the presence of the four employes of Philip Veritzen in his office upon the Sunday morning of our scheduled conference ended abruptly as we reached the street again and Mr. Veritzen solicitously helped me into the limousine, the door of which Otto was holding open. It suddenly penetrated my consciousness that I was to have a whole wonderful day in the country with no qualms of conscience—thanks to Lillian and her promise to accompany me—concerning the propriety of acceding to Mr. Veritzen's plan of having our conference over his work on the balcony of an inn overlooking the Hudson instead of at his office. I think I would have been something more than human if I had not forgotten everything else and frankly reveled in the alluring prospect of the day's outing.

When Mr. Veritzen had given Lillian's address to his chauffeur, and the big car had swung away from the offices, he looked down quizzically at me.

"Puritan conscience all appeased?" he asked, smiling.

I started at the phraseology, all too familiar to me. I had heard it many times from Dicky's lips during our life together, and Lillian also was often wont to use the term. It gave me an eerie, uneasy feeling to hear the words from the lips of my employer. Had he observed me so closely that he knew the inhibitions which my early rigid training had laid upon me, or was his but a chance teasing shot?

Of course there was but one way to treat the query, and that was as if it were the merest trifle of idle banter. Therefore, I answered his smiling query with a little laugh and as nonchalant a reply as I could manage.

"There isn't a twinge left in my system," I told him, and again I saw a spark flame for an instant far back in his brilliant eyes.

"I wish I could be sure of that," he said, then adroitly clipped the audacious phrase short and added a question.

"Isn't Mrs. Underwood working too hard again? She had a bad breakdown you know a few years ago."

I made the mental comment that no one in the world knew more of that catastrophe in Lillian's life than I did. I shuddered involuntarily as I thought of that awful time when Lillian's life hung in the balance for so many days.

"It was terrible," I acquiesced, "and for a long time afterward I shared your fear that she was working too hard. Gradually I began to see, however, that work was medicine for her, and I ceased to worry about it. I believe she is in better health today than she has been in years, and I know that she never has worked so hard as she is doing now."

He looked at me thoughtfully.

"You know her very well, don't you?" he asked.

"She is the best friend I have in the world," I answered truthfully, and was furiously conscious that there was a quaver in my voice. I hate banal emotion, but my nerves were a bit upset from my almost sleepless night, and had not been completely calmed by my nap on the train. Then, too, I often find a little lump in my throat when Lillian's friendship for me is mentioned, and I realize what I owe to her.

"I count her as one of my best friends also," he added, "but I have not seen her as much as I would like during the past few years. And I am most interested and curious to know something concerning her. Do not answer if in the slightest degree you feel that you are violating a confidence, but I should like to know what has become of her husband, Harry Underwood."

Of course! You rarely eat that much for breakfast, but it's hard to resist a second Muffet.

Whole wheat, cooked, drawn out to filmy thinness, an open-textured, lacy ribbon. Wound layer upon layer to muffin size and shape. Baked. Toasted butternut brown. What wonder Muffets are so light, so crisp—like potato chips—crumbling in the mouth!

What wonder they absorb and blend so perfectly with cream and sugar, with fruit juices of all kinds! And yet keep, in every combination, their crunchy individuality, their suggestion of pecans!

Eat Muffets for health, if you like. They've vitamins, calories, bran, easy digestibility. But eat them, first of all—and begin tomorrow morning!—because they're good!

INDICT WOMAN 13 OTHERS FOR MURDER

Fourteen indictments for murder were returned yesterday in Criminal Court by the November grand jury. Mrs. Angeline Bove was indicted for the murder of her husband, Alfonso Bove, Jr., at their home, 7014 Agnew street, September 29, when she was taunted about the "other woman," according to police.

Alvin Hess and Robert Stevens, Homestead boys, were indicted for clubbing to death an unknown white man, 15, on September 7, between Glenwood and Browns Bridge.

James Papello was indicted for murder in connection with the shooting of John E. Rohan, 19-year-old student, of 3723 Atwood street, during primary election rioting at Forbes street and Oakland avenue, September 15. Papello and Irwin Schwartz were indicted as accessories after the fact in the killing of Rohan.

Others indicted for murder were Wilbert Wesson, Joe Sanders, Joe Gonzales, William Kimble, James Johnson, Wade Johnson, Corey Austin, Thomas Teribaj, John Wilkins, Luther Autton and Vincenza Ceccia.

IF YOU HAD ONLY 2 YEARS TO LIVE!

How you would think, try, and spend all you possessed to cheat death, if you were told by some able physician you had but two years to live! Yet there are many readers of this paper who will not be alive two years hence. Why? Because they are going to neglect to properly cleanse their bowels and systems of the dangerous disease-producing poison wastes that bring on System Poisoning—professionally called Toxemia. And when their bowels don't act, they take some useless laxative water or cathartic pills that never reach the deadly bacteria that cling to intestinal lining, are absorbed by the blood and distributed throughout the system, to cause rheumatism and other destructive maladies.

But if you will take PARTOLA, the internal antiseptic and laxative, your chances are better. This pleasant system cleanser gets right at the poison wastes and toxins, drives them out, leaves you clean inside, ends constipation and, when taken regularly, helps digestion, improves health, encourages long life and preserves strength and energy. PARTOLA helps to keep your blood red by fighting off the poisons. All good druggists sell regular box 30¢, double size 50¢.

Thompson Quits Phils

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—(INS.) Fresco Thompson, the scrappy second baseman of the Phillies, has retired from baseball, according to word reaching here today from the star's home at St. Louis. The reports have it that Thompson has purchased a big share in the J. C. Penny chain-store company and will go into the business with his father, who plays a prominent part in the organization.

Officials of the Pittsburgh club were not inclined to credit the report of Thompson's intended retirement from baseball when informed of the rumor today. They are of the opinion that his annual earnings in baseball are larger than they could be in any other line, and expressed the belief that Fresco will be found in diamond togs when the 1928 season opens.

Thompson, who was tried by the Pirates in 1925 and sent back to the minors, has been mentioned as one of the second basemen for whom the Pittsburgh club might dicker during

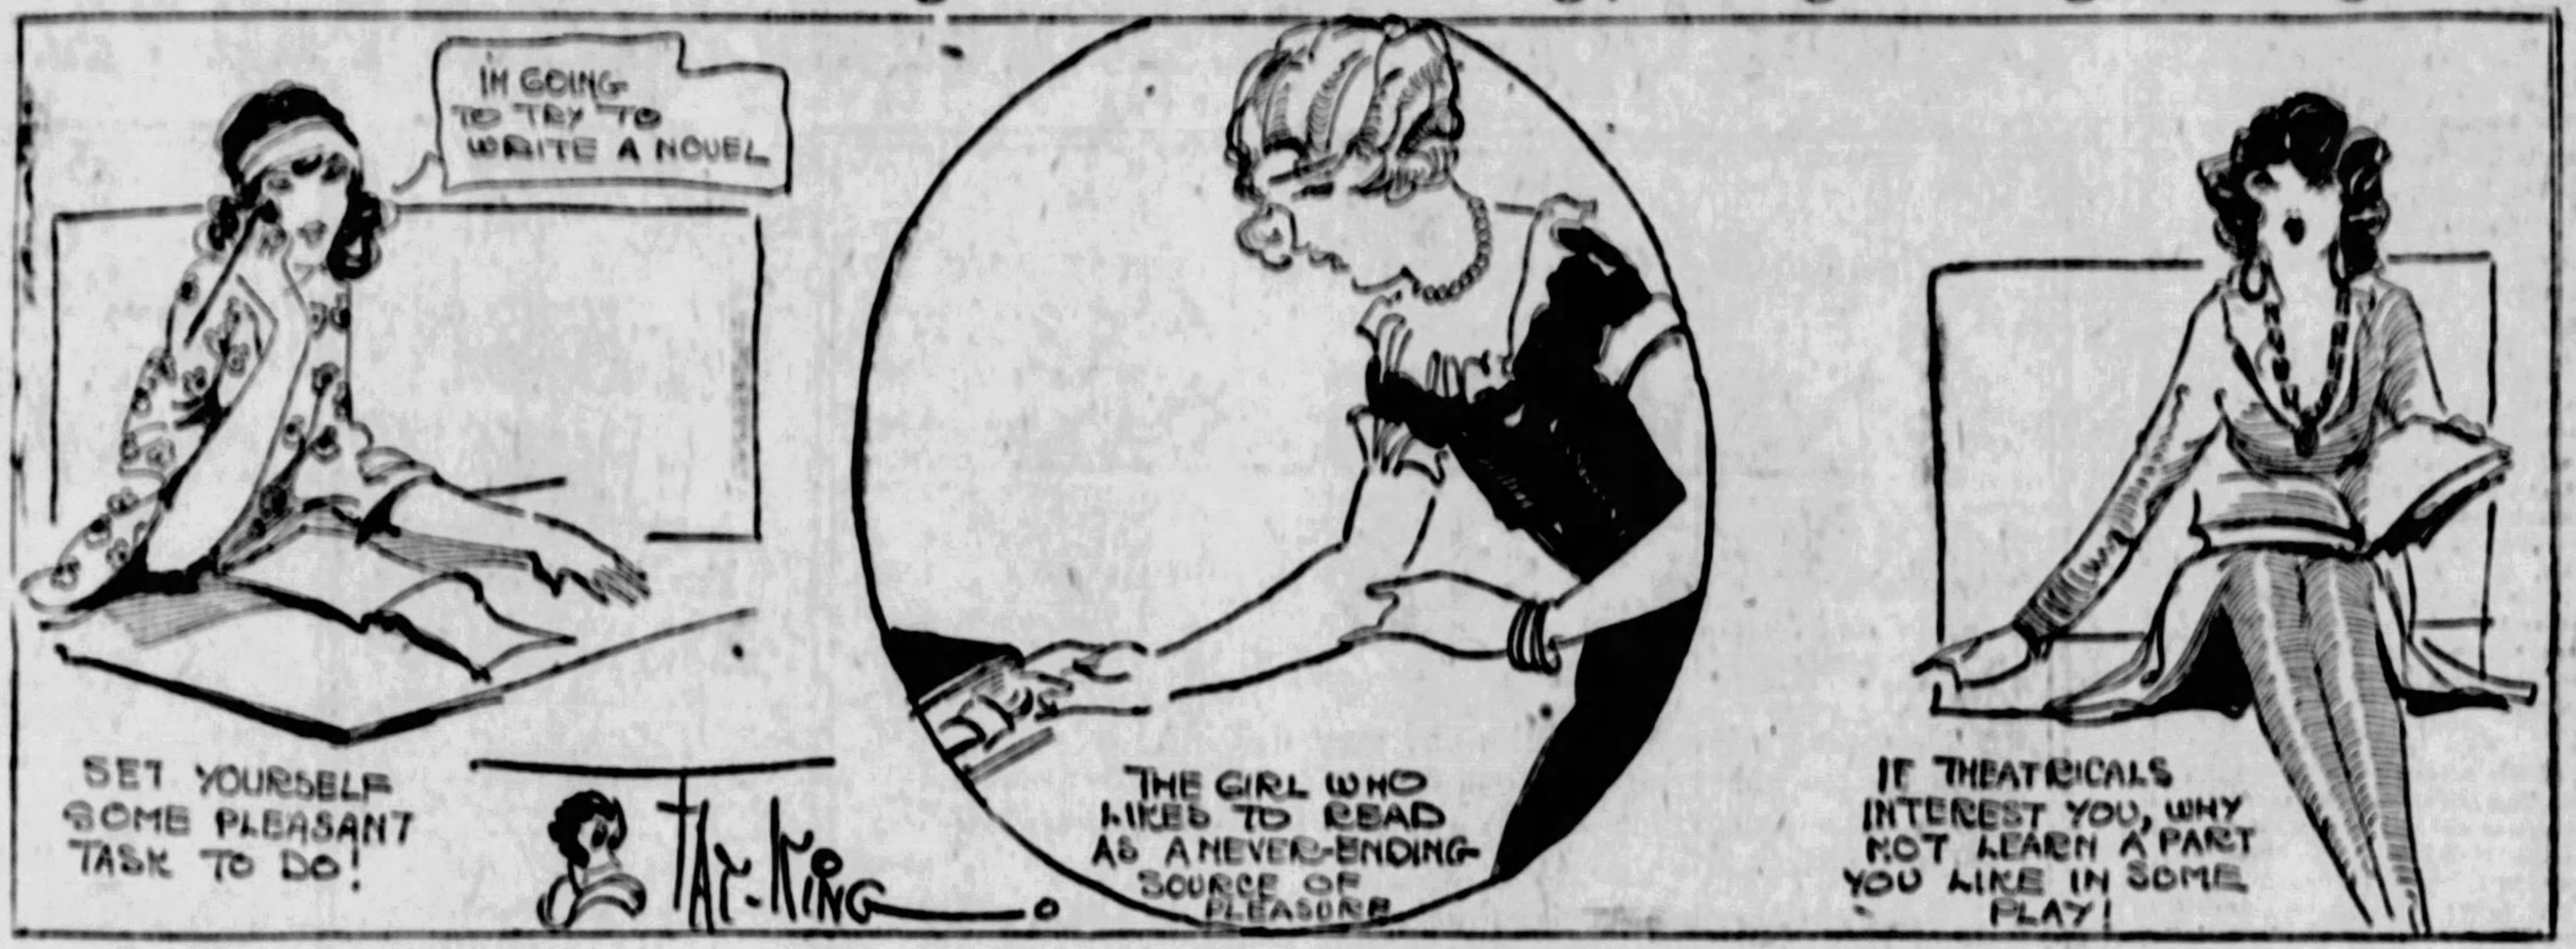
Get a Real Hobby for Relaxing, Says Fay King



IM GOING TO TRY TO WRITE A NOVEL
SET YOURSELF SOME PLEASANT TASK TO DO!
FAY-KING
THE GIRL WHO LIKES TO READ AS A NEVER-ENDING SOURCE OF PLEASURE
IF THEATRICALS INTEREST YOU, WHY NOT LEARN A PART YOU LIKE IN SOME PLAY!

By FAY KING.

NOTHING is so necessary for one's peace of mind as to set for himself some task he really enjoys doing!

Idleness is not nearly the relaxation or mental stimulant that working at something one enjoys accomplishing can be.

Everyone should have some hobby, some study, some work that he looks forward to continuing when his own day's duties are done!

Of course, for he who loves to read there is always the pleasant prospect of re-entering into the plot of a book he has left unfinished. In following the lives of the characters he reads about he lives in them a new and different life from his own, which is always a pleasant relaxation.

But not everyone likes to read.

Those who do not should find something they can do different from their daily tasks.

If one would like to be able to do something, that is cue enough to make a try at it. If you would like to sing or act or write or paint—make a stab at it! You'll pass many happy hours!

Learn the part in some play and act it out if only in the privacy of your own room. If you like painting, buy a box of paints and you'll have lots of fun "just daubing," as you'll call it! If you can't sing grand opera and play a costly violin, get a "uke" and sing the popular ditties.

If you think you'd like to write, set yourself the merry task of novelizing your own life as you have lived it—or as you would like to have lived it.

You may never sell it, but you'll never regret the fun you had writing it!

Or if you prefer lectures and so forth, make yourself an itinerary and live up to it as rigidly as if you were a personage who dares not break a public engagement.

You'll be surprised how you will look forward to carrying out your schedule.

Noise a Big Factor Against Efficiency

WE LIVE in an age when everybody talks about "nerves." If there isn't something else to complain about, our friends say they are "nervous."

There can be no doubt that modern life has many factors of disturbance that our forefathers escaped. One of these is noise. The din and turmoil of our streets and homes are not conducive to quiet nerves and calmness of mind.

DR COPELAND

Only recently an engineer decided to investigate the effect of noise on health. He experimented with all sorts of noise producing machinery. Bells, buzzers, pistols and other noisy things were used in these tests.

If you have spent hours in a room where several typewriters are working, you know what a racket is produced. It is interesting to see what effect this continued noise has upon the physique of the typists.

[illegible]ding to the report I read [illegible] a two-hour test with [illegible]sts, "It was found that th[illegible]orking in a noisy room lost [illegible] average of five and a half ounces, while those in a quiet room lost only three ounces."

[illegible] experiment would seem to [illegible] exposure to noise [illegible] demands upon the [illegible]are.

[illegible] health expert has said that the elimination of nerve-racking noises would add seven years to the average life.

I cannot agree to this conclusion, but I am convinced that the effectiveness and efficiency of the average person are materially reduced by living in an everlasting din. The effort of making out what is said and the effort of making oneself heard are exhausting and irritating.

To be exposed to the glare of terrifically bright lights is another debilitating experience. Over brilliance in house lighting is a mistake.

Nature has a way of building up resistance to unusual sensations. Our bodies adapt themselves to the surroundings. But it is a mistake to be exposed to friction-producing conditions.

Apparently we get used to street cars, railroads and all the other noises of modern times. When we do actually get used to them we go along pretty well. But if they keep us awake or disturb the sleep, they are wearing out the nervous system.

Loss of sleep and refreshing rest may cause excessive nervousness, what the doctors call neurasthenia." To overcome this state it is necessary to have quiet, coolness and absence of glare. All the things which woo sleep are the things which will restore health.

To me the telephone bell is an abomination. Its ringing comes like a crash and clash of cymbals. It causes a complex of symptoms which produces irritation and mental distress.

By all means, for the sake of health, happiness and efficiency, let us do away with noise and other modern annoyances.

Answers to Health Queries

M. E. Q.—What would cause a boy of 16 to be short of breath? He is strong and healthy looking, but cannot walk up stairs without experiencing trouble.

2. What would cause gray hair in a girl of 17 and boy of 16?

A.—May be due to poor circulation, although it would be wise to make sure there is nothing wrong with his heart. See your doctor.

2. The cause is unknown; some persons turn gray prematurely without apparent cause. Shock, illness or heredity may be at the root of the trouble.

L. W. Q.—What is the cause of unsightly white spots on my finger-nails?

A.—This is probably due to improper manicuring or bruises.

hung above and around them. Impossible to see anything. Now and then they would hear the brawling of a mountain stream that came nearer, then faded away. Now and then the sounds of small animals scampering across the dry leaves of the undergrowth.

Margie sat silent. There was not anything to say, there was nothing to do but wait, try to be patient. In another hour they would be at Brenda Lodge, and put their hopes and fears to the test. Carlotta had succeeded with Shevlin, why shouldn't she now succeed with Adrian Martin? Margie dared to hope.

They came through the dark and endless woods to a cleared space.

"It's over the hill there and round a bend," said Joe Griggs. And presently: "Hello, there's a light now. That'll be Pete Ladue, most likely. He takes care of things up here."

Margie followed the direction of his finger. She saw a vague form, a man with a lantern. He was lowering a cross bar against the doors of some outbuilding. Around the bend now she could make out the shape of [illegible]

IDOLS

"HAVE you a little idol all safely perched upon a pedestal somewhere before which you bend a faithful knee?"

Yes, of course you have. Who hasn't?

An idol you've made yourself, or one you've accepted at the hands of someone else, standing firmly and all-dominating, though perhaps not acknowledged consciously.

Something which causes you to feel the atavistic urge to propitiation. That fear, possibly, expressed in "What will they say?" Jealousy. Quick and easy discouragement. Self doubt. Regret for things past. Doubt of the future.

All idols these, dominant and terrible. And senseless.

Emerson wrote: "We boast our emancipation from many superstitions; but if we have broken any idols it is through a transfer of the idolatry. What have I gained that I no longer immolate a bull to Jove or to Neptune, or a mouse to Hecate . . . if I quake at opinion, the public opinion, as we call it, or at the threat of assault, or contumely, or bad neighbors, or poverty or mutilation, or of murder?"

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WHY MEN LOVE A GRAFTER

IF YOU want a man to love you, ask him to DO something for you.

You may be perfectly capable of doing it for yourself—but don't! Give him the thrill of doing it FOR you.

A man will do and do and DO for a woman, and adore her more with every sacrifice he makes for her.

* * *

And by that same token, a woman may do and do and DO for a man, and he will merely accept it as his divine right and all in the day's work.

HELEN ROWLAND

The loneliest women on earth are the capable, efficient, self-reliant women who insist on earning their own living, running their own cars, carrying their own suit-cases and paying their own cab-fares.

Why do men love a grafter? Why does a man adore and cherish the pretty mollusk who keeps his nose to the grindstone and looks on every day as Christmas day?

Because every man delights to play Lord Bountiful, Santa Claus and Fairy Godfather! He loves to shine in his own eyes as the bestower of favors and bearer of gifts. It thrills him to be told how kind and wonderful and generous he is even while he is conscious that a woman is figuratively easing his pocketbook away from him.

It's the woman with the "gimmes" and the "help-mes," who creeps into his heart by a side door and gets a stranglehold on his affections and his protective instinct and his vanity.

While the woman who CAN take care of herself and WILL take care of herself will always be allowed to do it without protest.

This is awfully hard on a square, fair-minded woman who wants to do her share and to "play cricket" in the matrimonial firm. It is harder still on a woman with her mother-instinct who yearns to coddle her man and sacrifice herself in order to make his life one long sweet dream.

But it is man's primitive instinct, his ruling passion—and he just can't help it!

The old-fashioned notion that a man should marry the woman whose life he had saved, was not based on chivalry, but on plain masculine psychology. Having made the supreme sacrifice and risked his life for her, he felt so noble and magnificent and thrilled with himself that he just naturally wanted to go right on playing hero and divinity to her for the rest of his days.

The "dangerous woman" around a business office is not the conscientious, efficient one who takes all the burdens off a man's shoulders, relieves him of all the harrowing petty details and is as necessary to him as his right hand.

It is the cute, helpless baby eyed little thing who comes in and asks him to help her, to show her how to do her work, to give her a chance or lend her money or "buy her a bow-wow"—the Gentle Grafter!

Cheese and Prune Salad

This recipe makes a salad for four people. Take a half pound of large prunes and soak them overnight in cold water. Drain, add fresh water to cover and boil gently until puffed well. Then drain again and cool. Make an incision in each one and remove the stone. Take half a cream cheese and mix it with a heaping tablespoonful of Rochefort cheese, add red pepper, a little salt, a teaspoonful of sugar, a tablespoonful of heavy cream and a heaping teaspoonful of white mayonnaise. Mix to a paste and fill the prunes with it. Then dip each into the prune water and roll in finely chopped nuts. Allow four prunes to a portion placed on white lettuce leaves that have been dipped in French dressing and shaken.

E. F. F.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a young fellow, 18 years of age, and am considered nice looking by [illegible] people. I have written to you once before but I did it the wrong way. Here is my problem, Miss Gale, which I cannot solve, so I'm leaving it all entirely to you. So please do what you can for me. There is a very, very pretty girl on our avenue, with whom I have gone through school. We have liked each other since our childhood days. She is now 17 or 18 years old, and has blonde hair. Miss Gale, I haven't the right to admit this but I love her dearly, and as to my imagination I believe she cares for me, or likes me a little. She goes with my sister, and from the things she has told my sister, I say again, I believe she likes me. I tried going out with another girl for at least a year, to make her pay more attention to me, but I guess it didn't work. Now I have quit going with this girl, because I did not succeed with my plan. And if I do succeed in winning this blonde girl, Miss Gale, do you think this other one would make trouble for me? E. F. F.

I cannot see how this other girl can make any trouble, since you are not engaged to her. Ask the girl you really like to go out with you and I am sure she will.

Lorraine

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a high school girl of 18, and I go with a young man just a little older than I. Now my trouble is jealousy, Miss Gale. I'm very sure that it is real love, because I have never felt so keenly about any other boy I've gone with. What do you think of one of my girl friends asking for one of his graduation pictures? I'm afraid jealousy has distorted my view, so please tell me, Miss Gale. Should a boy give a girl a Christmas present after going with her seven months? Should she reciprocate? Should the young man step back when boarding a street car when there are other girls waiting? It seems to me unfair to her to wait with him, yet if she gets on first they are often separated for the whole ride. Advise me, please. Now a word of encouragement to decent girls who feel they are getting passed by: Just wait, girls, the decent, only ones will come along and he'll appreciate you. So you see, you'll not be sorry. LORRAINE.

This girl probably meant no harm in asking for the picture. Perhaps she is keeping a memory book. It is all right for you and this boy to exchange remembrances at Christmas, such as a book. The young man should certainly step back and let all the women precede him on the car. Why not wait with him while the other women get aboard?

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

IT IS only in University of Pittsburgh circles that a feeling of gratification is in evidence as the result of the selection of the Pitt football team to represent the East in the big Tournament of Roses game against the Stanford team at Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's Day.

The selection of the local team for a game of such prominence, and one that will attract nation-wide attention, is an honor and a distinction to all Pittsburgh, and the entire city shares the pride of the university officials, alumni and students in the awarding of the date to the Panthers.

It is another big feather in Father Pitt's hat and gives the city more new prestige than any other development of the present football season.

BEING picked for the annual Tournament of Roses football feature is also a high tribute to the playing strength of the Blue and Gold eleven this year.

The honor is not a new one for Pitt, as the Blue and Gold warriors were chosen to go to California for a game with Stanford University following the season of 1922.

Moreover, the Pitt lads came through with a victory on that occasion, defeating Stanford, 16 to 17. Pop Warner was then coach of the Panthers and Andy Kerr, now at W. & J., was coach at Stanford.

That was the season in which Tommy Holleran, present coach at Thiel, was captain of the Pitt team. Other players on the squad that year were Hewitt, Flanagan, Seidelson, Johnson, Bowser, Jordan, Williams, Anderson, Bohren, Gwosden, Hangartner, Ashbaugh, Colonna, Evans, Carnahan, Fredette, Frank, Miller, Sauer, Clark, Simpson, Shirley, Breen, Harvey, Winterburn, Hartnett, Newbaker, Askin, Murdoch and Biddle.

THE injury suffered by C. J. McCarty of Germantown Academy, football official, in a fall down a flight of stairs in Allentown, Pa., may force a change in officials for the big game between Pitt and Penn State here Thursday afternoon, as McCarty is listed to referee that contest.

Pitt officials immediately got in touch with Walter Okeson at Bethlehem, Pa., for information as to McCarty's condition. Okeson sent word that the injuries are not serious and that McCarty expects to be able to officiate here Thursday.

If McCarty is unable to serve here Wilmer G. Crowell of Swarthmore, who refereed the Pitt-W. & J. game on November 5, will be appointed referee in his place.

The other officials in the Pitt-

SHOTS and PASSES

—by Julius Levin

THERE is a possibility that the name of the Allegheny County League, last year one of the strongest circuits operating hereabouts, will be changed at a meeting of the managers, scheduled tonight in Kaufmann's auditorium.

Eager to make the loop a compact circuit of eight clubs, sponsors of the league, assured of six strong quintets in the Greater Pittsburgh district, may admit two out-of-town members at tonight's meeting, thus necessitating a new name for the loop.

There is a dearth of first-class teams operating this winter and rather than accept two weak members to round out the circuit, the sponsors will likely agree to take in two members outside of Allegheny county.

PETEY SIEGEL, former star of the A. P. Moores, has formed a team in Sharon, known as the Protected Home Circle quintet, that would prove a valuable addition to the league's roster.

Sharon always has been a hotbed for the promotion of independent basketball and the popular winter indoor game should prove a paying proposition in that city this season.

While Sharon has not made an application for a berth, Siegel believes the sponsors of his club would welcome a chance to compete in fast company.

Should Sharon accept a berth in the league, the circuit could add another out-of-town club to complete its roster.

THE Sharonites this season will present such well-known basketball stars as Earl Davis, Ralph Douds, Francis Ryan, Joe Thompson, Harold Cox, Clarence Cox, Harold Dribble, George Bebic, Rudolph Kuhner and several other prominent floor satellites.

The jump to Sharon can be made in two hours and as all home games are played Saturday nights, Pittsburgh teams should have no difficulty in completing their league schedules. All games scheduled in Sharon this winter will be played on the Buhl Club floor.

DRIBBLES

The St. Richard's Clubs of the P. & O. League, strengthened by the addition of Rogers, Wassell and Peters, is hard at work for the opening game of the season. Next Friday is open for a game at home. Call the manager at Mayflower 1286.

Seven teams are assured of berths in the Senior Negro League, namely B. & O., Paramount, Vandal Knights, Holy Cross, Colored Y. M. C. A., Bidwell and Saratoga. Another club will be added to round out an eight-team circuit.

Liberty Baking is going to bear watching in the Commercial-Industrial League race this winter. This team will present a lineup this year that is much stronger than that of last winter.

Former Pals to Be Rivals in Roses Game

THE OLD FOX

Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, former University of Pittsburgh football coach, whose Leland Stanford University eleven will clash with Pitt in the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's Day.

JOCK AND "ALECK"

Aleck Stevenson and Pop Warner have been pals ever since Warner came to Pitt from Carlisle Indian School in 1915 and found Aleck on the job as one of his assistants. At that time, the present Dr. John Bain Sutherland was merely Jock Sutherland, one of the husky guards on the Pitt eleven. Now Jock is head coach of the Panthers and Aleck still manages to find time from his business worries to lend a hand as an assistant coach and scout. Jock and Warner have clashed before, when Jock was head coach at Lafayette, so that the meeting between teacher and pupil on the coast will not be exactly a novelty. Aleck and Warner will find it quite interesting to sit on opposing benches, however.

DECISIVE VICTORY ENDS LOCAL FISTIC FEUD

BY HARRY KECK.
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

TOMMY CROWLEY was "on" last night and Phil Goldstein wasn't, with the result that the little South Sider easily won the third match of the hectic series between the local rivals in the Motor Square ring before a fair-sized crowd of fans. Thus ends the best fistic feud in these parts since the days of the stirring battles between Patsy Brannigan and Young Zirringer. Crowley won the first bout, the second was a draw and Crowley also took the third meeting, which makes him 2 up.

The deciding battle was as fast and furious as the two that preceded it, but it was the only one-sided one of the trio. Goldstein didn't win a round. He rallied to hold his own in the tenth and also broke even in the fourth. Crowley set the pace in every session and Goldstein found it too fast. Tommy was on top of him all the time, never giving him a second's rest. These tactics proved just the proper thing to beat Goldstein at his own rushing game.

There were no knockdowns. Crowley slipped twice early in the bout and in the eighth round both fell to the floor in the midst of some furious swinging.

CROWLEY AT HIS BEST

Crowley just simply couldn't miss with straight left jabs, sweeping left hooks for the head and left and right swings to the body, and he kept pounding away with both fists to the body when he got in close. The constant body attack from both close quarters and at a distance weakened Goldstein and had much to do with his general lack of effectiveness. Goldie just simply couldn't get going in the face of the furious attack with which his opponent literally mobbed him; his judgment of distance was far off and much of his usual fighting spark was missing. There was no doubt about the winner at the finish and the crowd readily accepted the unanimous decision of the judges in favor of Crowley, who fought the best bout he has put up here in months.

Both scaled 130 pounds at 3 p. m. When they first fought, last Christmas afternoon, they were boxing for the local featherweight championship, as the survivors of an elimination series. Their second battle was staged a month ago. Last night's clash was their first over the 10-round route, the others having been eight-rounders.

The scheduled eight-round semi-

Gib, Bill On Star Team

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Yale wins three places, Army two, and Penn, Holy Cross, Dartmouth, New York University, Wash-Jeff and Pitt one each on an All-Eastern football eleven based upon a consensus of Eastern sports writers.

The seasonal sport of selecting these mythical teams has been complicated this fall by the fact that excellent football material was scattered far and wide, and a number of the smaller colleges had players entitled to recognition among the best of the year.

Nearly all of the Eastern sports writers who contributed their selections to the consensus chose to leave off the name of Bruce Caldwell of Yale, who, until his ineligibility, was considered the outstanding halfback of the East.

Princeton, with one of the strongest teams in the East, had no outstanding stars. Harvard did not land a man on either the first or second team.

Welch, Pitt's star halfback, and the veteran Bill Amos of Wash-Jeff were the only Western Pennsylvania players awarded positions. Both were placed on the first team, Welch at halfback and Amos at fullback.

Dempsey To Settle Suits

By ED FRAYNE.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—It was a triumphant, although somewhat flustered, Tex Rickard who met the reporters at Madison Square Garden yesterday. The fight promoter had hurried back from Jersey City, where he had won what he considers, a moral victory over his former friend and present enemy, Jack Kearns.

Dismissal of Kearns' suit against Jack Dempsey means the finish of the case, Rickard asserted. He offered to bet $10,000 that Kearns will withdraw other suits that are pending in New York and Pennsylvania. However, he admitted that Dempsey does not share his optimism as Dempsey has made up his mind to remain in the East for the present.

Failure to reach a definite conclusion has destroyed all hope of Dempsey participating in any matches this winter, Rickard said. Tex went on:

"Jack wants to clear the dockets of all actions standing against him. He has picked Kearns as the only opponent he will meet this winter, and he intends to make it a finish fight. He will not return to California until both the New York and Pennsylvania cases are settled.

"I'm mighty glad to have this much of it over. It's been a terrible siege for me. I've had to carry a witness with me every place I went. So had Dempsey.

"We wanted to protect ourselves against just such a ridiculous charge as Kearns' attorneys made yesterday. Both of us have been afraid to meet anyone while the trial was in progress, for fear we might be talking to someone who might know one of the jury."

Rickard was impressed with the tribute paid to Dempsey by the jury. He exclaimed:

"Every one of them shook hands with Dempsey before they left the court room. Think of that! How can anyone beat a man that's as popular as Dempsey?"

VOCATIONAL CROWN TO BE AT STAKE TODAY

The city vocational high school football championship will be decided on the Oliver High School field this afternoon between Allegheny Vocational and Ralston. The game originally was scheduled for Thursday of last week, but inclement weather caused its postponement.

Hulbert Is Re-Elected A. A. U. President

CINCINNATI, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States at its convention today unanimously re-elected Murray Hulbert of New Work as president for his fourth successive year, establishing a record for the holding of this office.

Hulbert was nominated by Robert S. Weaver of Los Angeles, former president of the A. A. U.

The convention refused to reconsider its action in awarding the Olympic marathon try-outs to Boston. In deference to Baltimore, it was agreed, however, that although the Boston race April 19 will be the official test, performances in all other established marathon events, such as those at Baltimore and Detroit, will be taken into consideration in selecting the American team.

Recognition as new American records of two relay performances by the University of Southern California teams made last May at Los Angeles, was granted after receipt today of telegraph advice that fifth-second watches were used. It was previously reported that tenth-second watches, which are outlawed, had been used.

RECORDS RECOGNIZED

The records are for the 880-yard and 800-meter relays and the time is

Waners Entertain Local Bankers at Fete

Back in Pittsburgh after completing their vaudeville tour, Paul and Lloyd Waner, Pirate stars, last night furnished pleasing features at the dinner of the Bankers' and Bank Clerks' Mutual Benefit Association, held in the William Penn Hotel. George R. Wallace was toastmaster.

Paul and Lloyd called on a few friends and then made arrangements to leave today for their Oklahoma home. They expect to do some hunting between now and the time for the spring training call.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 22.—A game with the Texas Aggies has tentatively been agreed upon for the University of Tennessee December 3, it was learned yesterday afternoon.

Thompson Quits Phils

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—(INS.)—Fresco Thompson, the scrappy second baseman of the Phillies, has retired from baseball, according to word reaching here today from the star's home at St. Louis. The reports have it that Thompson has purchased a big share in the J. C. Penny chain-store company and will go into the business with his father, who plays a prominent part in the organization.

Officials of the Pittsburgh club were not inclined to credit the report of Thompson's intended retirement from baseball when informed of the rumor today. They are of the opinion that his annual earnings in baseball are larger than they could be in any other line, and expressed the belief that Fresco will be found in diamond togs when the 1928 season opens.

Thompson, who was tried by the Pirates in 1925 and sent back to the minors, has been mentioned as one of the second basemen for whom the Pittsburgh club might dicker during

PITT-STATE STRUGGLE CLASSIC OF EAST

By JESS CARVER.

"THIS ball game we may or may not play on the Coast New Year's Day doesn't mean a thing to Pitt right now. If it were possible, I'd like to have the boys forget all about it—except as a spur because if they think too much about going to the Coast, the first thing they know, they'll take one on the button in this State game Thursday."

That is the way Dr. John Bain Sutherland looks at the proposed jaunt of his Golden Panthers out to the land of the setting sun, as novelists are coyly wont to put it, to play the Tournament of Roses game with Stanford. He is far more concerned with beating Penn State Thanksgiving, and saving his well nigh perfect and certainly undefeated record. After the State game, says Jock, is the time to start worrying about making the train for the West.

It might be stated here and now that the Rose Bowl invitation has yet to appear in Pittsburgh, and will not be sent out until Thursday—after the returns of the games are received in California. So it behooves the Panthers to beat State if they wish to trek coastward.

The game is easily the classic of the day in the East, and is probably the biggest of the country. It will be the final test for the Panthers who have taken the country by st[illegible] this season with their ravaging [illegible] tack and stone-wall defen[illegible] ern gridiron critics will b[illegible] look over Welch and Kern[illegible] ler, Pitt's all-America p[illegible] They will also cast critic[illegible] in the direction of Roepke [illegible] Mahoney, State's giant center.

All the hard work is over for [illegible] Panthers. They have probably h[illegible] their last scrimmage of the year, a[illegible] all they need to do now is to brush up on their plays and formations, tighten their defense and set tight with a football, a prayer and a darn good line and await the coming of the Lions.

This State game is going to be the toughest of the year for Pitt. Even Nebraska will be forgotten when Roepke and his Lions trot out on the stadium gridiron Turkey Day in the afternoon. Roepke, who finishes his college career on that day, with nine other Lions also out there eating their hearts out for dear old State and dear old Bez, will give Mr. Pitt's football team all the battle they want.

PITT IN TRIM.

By the same token, State will find a flock of embattled Panthers, led by the brilliant Welch, certain all-America halfback, who also closes his varsity career this week. Welch, the gentleman who socked over the punch that beat Nebraska by racing back the first kickoff 93 yards for a touchdown, and who later in the game broke away from the Cornhusker defense with a Hagan-propelled forward pass for a 60 or 70-

NOTES of the BOXERS

THE Joe Dundee-Young Saylor bout at Motor Square Garden, planned for next Monday night, has been indefinitely set back, following receipt of word last night from Max Waxman, manager of Dundee, that California litigation in connection with the recent Dundee-Ace Hudkins fiasco at Los Angeles might call him back to the coast before the end of this week, with the possibility that Dundee might have to accompany him. Waxman will bring the welterweight champion here at the earliest possible date to meet Saylor. Meanwhile the Motor Square Club is angling for another good main bout for next Monday.

Pete Zivic has been matched to box Johnny Sheppard at Worcester, Mass., next Friday night. On December 9 he meets Ward Sparks at Detroit.

Maxie Rosenbloom has been signed to box Mickey Walker, the middleweight champion, at Detroit, January 16.

Willie Davies, the state flyweight champion, will meet Luis Carpentero, the Filipino of Columbus, in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport Thursday night of next week, Promoter Jim McGirr announced this morning. Carpentero has lost only two bouts. Frankie Spiegel, a 122-pounder, got a newspaper win over him and Davies defeated him in a hard fight at Canton some months ago. The Filipino has knocked out Carl Cavelli, Joe Lopez, K. O. Johnson, Pee Wee Nolan, Joe Mendo and Young Gonzales and has boxed Joe Rychell, Tommy Hughes, Joe Lucas and other good ones. There will be no show at McKeesport this week.

Tug Phillips is matched for two 10-round bouts on successive days next week. He is to meet Young Piazza at Clarksburg Wednesday night and Jackie Murray at Carnegie the following night. The chances are he will not be permitted to box at Carnegie if he goes through with the Clarksburg date. Iagi also is booked for two bouts next week. He meets Young Cicerone of Wilkes-Barre at Williamsport Monday night.

Pete Latzo, former welterweight [illegible]ion, has removed his home from [illegible]on, where he rose to fame as a [illegible] boy, to Atlantic City.

[illegible]y Dudley, local Negro welter[illegible], has canceled his match with [illegible] Kelly at Akron next week be[illegible] of the proximity of the date to [illegible]h with Al Mello at Lawrence, [illegible] December 2. He will be han[illegible] the Mello battle by Solly Sny[illegible] Boston, manager of Homer [illegible]son.

[illegible] Conlon, Altoona lightweight, [illegible]as retired, is now tutoring a [illegible] of boxers in his home town [illegible]opes to turn out some good [illegible]es. His brother, Vic Conlon, [illegible]ing a show in the Mishler Theater, Altoona, next Monday night, to be featured by a 10-round battle between Marco Polo, McKees Rocks heavyweight, and Pietro Corri of New York.

TWO TITLE BATTLES CARDED SAME NIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The New York State Boxing Commission today sanctioned two championship bouts for December 16 at Madison [illegible]e Garden which will find Tod [illegible]an of Seattle defending his [illegible]-lightweight crown against Joe [illegible] of New York in the main 15-[illegible] clash. The added title affair [illegible] bring together Newsboy Brown of Sioux City, Ia., and Corporal Izzy Schwartz of New York, in a 15-round go for the flyweight championship.

Several days ago, the commission selected Brown and Schwartz as the logical contenders for the flyweight title vacated by Fidel La Barba in spite of protests from Joe Jacobs, manager of Frankie Genaro. Jacobs [illegible]ght recognition for Genaro, who [illegible]erly was the champion in the fly-[illegible] division.

KIPKE HEAD COACH AT MICHIGAN STATE

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 22.—Harry Kipke, all-America [illegible]ack on Walter Camp's 1922 team, [illegible] assistant to Coach Ted Wieman [illegible] the University of Michigan, has [illegible]en appointed head football coach at Michigan State College, Ralph Young, director of athletics, announced today. Kipke signed a three-year contract.

Kipke was captain of the University of Michigan team in his senior year. He won nine letters, starring in football, baseball and basketball.

West's Stars To Be Feted

By FRED VAN DEVENDER,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—One hundred and sixteen thousand roaring, partisan football fans will greet the teams of the University of Southern California and Notre Dame when they trot onto Soldier Field here Saturday afternoon in the great classical windup of a great football season.

It will be the largest crowd ever to watch a football game in the United States, or anywhere else. The crowd will be exceeded only by the two Tunney-Dempsey imbroglios at Philadelphia and Chicago.

Scalpers already have boosted the price of their tickets from $2 to $8 and $10 and it is expected that they will go higher before game time.

Already elaborate preparations have been made to receive the West Coast party when it arrives here. A representative committee composed of Vice President Charles G. Dawes, Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of Big Ten conference athletics and representatives of Gold Coast society will receive the team and Mayor George E. Cryer, of Los Angeles.

Official welcomes will be extended by Gov. Len Small and Mayor William Hale Thompson.

The California Trojans have a matter of a 13 to 12 defeat handed to them last year by the Irish, which they intend to even up. The Irish play to take out their spite, for their defeat at th hands of the Army, on these Pacific Coast collegians.

Christy Flanagan, the romper of Notre Dame will be playing his last game in an Irish uniform, and it is rather expected that Knute K. Rockne will let him romp about as he can.

Rockne announced today that he expects his full strength for the game. Some of the injured men, who have been out for the past couple of weeks will be back in the lineup.

Of course, it is expected that the Trojans will center their defense on Flanagan, just as Notre Dame will center her defense on Drury, the fleet back of California.

But even so, these two ar to be depended on to romp about as much as anyone else.

CHECKER TOURNAMENT SLATED FOR THURSDAY

The annual Pennsylvania state checker championship tournament will open at the Home Hotel, Duquesne way, on Thanksgiving Day and continue the two following days. There are 92 entries to date, and last year's champion, George Rudolph of Scranton, is again going to make a strong bid to retain the title. However, he will find stubborn opposition from Western Pennsylvania in Freeman, Reese, Riley and McCoy of Pittsburgh, Time of Ambridge and Laurence M. Lewis of West Alexander, Pa.

The tourney will be divided into two sections, the major class for experts, consisting of about 70 players and the minor class for amateurs in which the remaining 25 players will compete.

The Pennsylvania State Association officers, namely, Dr. Warren E. Swank of Hazelton, Pa., L. S. Hart, Jr., of Duncannon, Pa., and George B. Jones of Pittsburgh, Pa., will handle the tourney.

STATE HARRIERS WIN ALL TITLES

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—For the first time in the history of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, one college—Pennsylvania State—today held all four of the association's cross-country championships.

In the van of Penn State's triumph over the six-mile hill and dale course at Van Cortland Park yesterday was lanky Bill Cox, captain, who won the individual title in 30 minutes 36 4-5 seconds. His victory was the second in two years and raised to three the number of runners who have been able to win the crown successively during the 19 years of the competition.

John Paul Jones of Cornell won in 1910, '11 and '12, and Johnny Overton, Yale star, who later died in action in the World War, turned the trick in 1915 and '16. Cox, a junior in the college, set a record of 30 minutes 4 seconds for the course last year.

Team victory came to Penn State when teammates of Cox followed him in sixth, seventh, twelfth and twenty-fourth places for a point score of 50. Harvard was second with 60 and Maine third with 69.

the same for both, 1 minute, 25 4-5 seconds.

The record committee declined to reconsider the claim for a new world broad jump record of 26 feet 2¼ inches by De Hart Hubbard, holder of the present world record. Hubbard came to the convention today on crutches, due to an injured ankle, to appeal yesterday's action.

Hubbard was advised that the record could not be accepted because of the referee's report that his leap was made from a take-off one inch higher than the landing pit.

The 1928 national basketball tournament was awarded to the Western association and will be held in Kansas City, probably in March.

Daniel J. Ferris of New York was elected secretary and treasurer to succeed Frederick W. Rubien, who resigned after serving in office 13 years. The salary of Ferris, who has been serving as assistant secretary, was increased from $4,500 to $5,000.

Penn State game will be G. N. Bankart of Dartmouth, umpire; J. C. Holderness of Lehigh, linesman, and M. T. Thompson of Georgetown, field judge.

BY THE way, there is a little story in connection with the officials for the Turkey Day game at the Pitt Stadium that has never been printed. The meeting of Pitt and Penn State will mark the first time that a football game ever has been played here with neutrally-selected officials.

In previous years the officials for all Eastern games were chosen by the coaches of the competing teams at a meeting of the central board on officials.

BUT after the 1926 season someone evolved the idea of having the officials for the various games selected by a neutral man instead of by the coaches, and 12 Eastern colleges agreed to let the officials for their contests be chosen by Walter R. Okeson of Lehigh, former star and at present an official of high standing and also an expert on the rules.

AMONG these 12 colleges were Pitt and Penn State, so it happens that the officials for Thursday's game here were appointed by Okeson, a neutral man.

There has been no previous instance of the system being worked here, as Penn State is the only college met by Pitt in football this year that agreed to the neutral selection plan.

That's how it comes that Pitt wired Okeson for information as to McCarty's condition, and it also explains where Okeson got the authority to announce that Crowell will referee if McCarty is unable to serve.

McCarty will break a record of long standing if he cannot work here on Thursday, as he has officiated in every Pitt-Penn State Thanksgiving Day game for more than 15 years.

WEBSTER HALL DEFEATS TRINITY CHURCH, 39-25

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Knickerbockers	1	0	1000

final ended dramatically after 1 minute 15 seconds of the seventh round with Linn Jordan, Johnstown Negro, technically knocking out Jack Horowitz, Jim Buchanan's importation from Los Angeles. Horowitz, a rugged fighting veteran with a hard right hand body attack at close quarters almost stopped Jordan in the first round with his smashes to the stomach and was far ahead on points up to the time he disdainfully dropped his hands during a mixup in the seventh round and was clipped with left and right on the jaw. He fell heavily and was out as he staggered to his feet at nine. Jordan struck him again and the referee, Joe Keally, very properly stopped the bout. It was many minutes before Horowitz could leave his corner. Jordan weighed 159 pounds and Horowitz one pound less. Horowitz fought under the handicap of a badly cut right eye, received late in the second round.

Patsy Gallagher, South Side featherweight, making his first appearance after a long layoff, showed the effects in the eight-round second bout with U. S. Carpentier of New Kensington and had to weather a bad storm in the sixth round to last the limit. It was a good fight for four rounds, but in the fifth Carpentier floored Patsy for no count just before the bell and he had him in trouble throughout the sixth. Carpentier fought himself out trying to finish Patsy in this session and never had Gallagher in danger thereafter. Patsy got a big hand from the crowd for his gameness. Carpentier weighed 125½ pounds and Gallagher 127½.

Mickey Hart of New Kensington, 124½ pounds, defeated Monte Sirko of Oakland, 126, in the six-round opening bout. He floored Sirko for nine in the first round and Monte fought a safety-first battle until the finish. The judges disagreed and the referee voted for Hart.

Red Robinson and Joe Keally divided the refereeing and Frank (Bull) Brown and Jock Simco were the judges.

SHADY SIDE BANQUET SLATED FOR TONIGHT

The annual football banquet of Shady Side Academy will be held at the Aspinwall school tonight. The coaches, Capt. Palmer and Red Davis, and the team will be honored by the school for their fine showing this season. Several speakers will address the young athletes.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Duke McCurry, forward of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was severely injured during practice at the forum yesterday. The Corsairs are scheduled to play the Canadiens here tonight.

The workout had hardly started when Hib Milks, Pirate center, lifted his stick and the point accidentally clipped McCurry, causing a deep cut across the eyelid. Five stitches were required to close the wound.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Motor Square Garden—Tommy Crowley defeated Phil Goldstein, 10 rounds; Linn Jordan technically knocked out Jack Horowitz, 7 rounds; U. S. Carpentier defeated Patsy Gallagher, 8 rounds; Mickey Hart won referee's decision over Monte Sirko, 6 rounds.

At Chicago—Archie Bell defeated Vic Burrone, 10 rounds; Paul Allen defeated Battling Morris, 8 rounds; Jack Brennan defeated Joe Rychell, 8 rounds; Harry Dublinski defeated Cozy Dolan, 6 rounds.

At Dayton, O.—Mike Dundee knocked out Mike Ballerino, 10 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Maxie Rosenbloom defeated Pete Latzo, 10 rounds; King Solomon won by technical knockout over Ray Neuman, 5 rounds; Tony Ascencio knocked out Willie Joyce, 1 round; Buck Boyle and Freddie Welch drew, 6 rounds.

At Valdosta, Ga.—Young Stribling won by technical knockout over Andy (Kid) Palmer, 6 rounds.

At Omaha—Roscoe Hall defeated Edwin Bige, 10 rounds.

At Cedar Rapids, Ia.—Johnny Fulton defeated Eddie McFadden, 10 rounds.

At New York—Sammy Dorfman defeated Petey Mack, 10 rounds; Georgie Mack defeated Pete Passafume, 6 rounds; Murray Layton defeated Pinky Mays, 6 rounds; Pal Silvers defeated Tony Vacarelli, 10 rounds; Bobby Burns defeated Sammy Offerman, 10 rounds; Jimmy Cansoneri knocked out Clarence Stacy, 1 round; Izzy Grove defeated Eddie (Kid) Whalen, 4 rounds; Jimmy McNamara and Billy McMahon drew, 6 rounds.

At Atlantic City—George Godfrey knocked out Clem Johnston, 1 round; Dan O'Donnell knocked out Jack Butler, 1 round.

W. VA. GIVEN HARD DRILL FOR W.-J.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 22.—After a brisk dummy scrimmage which lasted until dark yesterday afternoon, the West Virginia University football squad was sent through a snappy signal drill which lasted until nearly 7 o'clock. The Mountaineers are working as never before this season for they realize that the Turkey Day clash will furnish a final opportunity to wind up a poor season in such a manner that some of the earlier reverses will be forgotten.

Slick Hair without Grease

New Liquid "Hair Groom" is not a sticky grease, but a clean, sparkling liquid which the hair absorbs! A few drops gives the hair a beautiful gloss and keeps it combed all day in any style you like—even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair. Large bottle costs only a few cents at druggists. You'll like it!

W. L. DOUGLAS
$5 $6 $7 & $8 Shoes for Men

In black kid at $7
In brown kid $8 also blucher oxford in black or brown kid at $7.

Yes! High Shoes Are Correct This Winter

For the conservative man who is tastefully dressed on all occasions there could be no better choice than this trim, glove-fitting, soft, black kid blucher with stout oak soles.

One of the largest buyers of shoes in this country recently said,—"When it comes to kid shoes Douglas gives more for the money and beats them all".

Only a manufacturer of long experience in building fine kid shoes, with skilled workmen who for almost a generation have worked on fine kid leathers, can make high quality kid shoes to sell at such reasonable prices. We make and sell more men's fine kid shoes than any other manufacturer.

If Douglas shoes are not sold in your vicinity, write for catalog.

America's Best Known Shoes
Men's Shoes $5, $6, $7 and $8
Women's Shoes $5 and $6
Boys' Shoes $3.50 and $4

The Douglas name and retail price stamped on the sole of every shoe is your guarantee of quality and value.

I've just got to tell somebody

NO, I'M not going to be married. Neither have I fallen heir to a lot of money. But I have discovered the one tobacco that makes a pipe come through a thousand per cent—Prince Albert!

Yes, Sir, Prince Albert—the world's largest-selling brand. I was sitting with a fellow-commuter the other morning, when he was filling his pipe from a bright-red tin. I got a whiff of that tobacco and said: "Do you mind if I borrow a load?" He passed the tin over, and I filled up and lighted up.

I never tasted anything so good in my life. It was wonderfully cool and sweet, with a mildness I had never met before in a pipe-tobacco. Mild, as I say, yet it had that rich, rare body that put satisfaction into every pull. What a taste!

I could hardly wait till the train pulled in to get me a supply. I've smoked enough of this cool, mild, long-burning tobacco to know that it gives you deep-down contentment in every load. Try Prince Albert. You'll say so!

PRINCE ALBERT
—no other tobacco is like it!

You get quantity, too, with P. A.—TWO full ounces in every tin.

TARTANS THRILL OVER COWBOYS AND PIKE'S PEAK

It Will Seem Funny for Old Pop to be Scouting Pitt This Week

NO MORE CAPTAINS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Hereafter no captains will be elected in any sport at Ohio State University, the university athletic board announced yesterday. Before each game the coach of the particular sport will appoint a field leader for that game. At the end of the season, letter men in the sport will elect some one of their number as honorary captain.

Irish '28 Grid Foe Of Lions

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 22.—The Penn State College football schedule for 1928, announced today by the graduate manager, Neil M. Fleming, includes four away-from-home games, two of which will be played on Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

The schedule was approved by the college board of athletic control.

Notre Dame returns to the Lion card for the third of a three-game agreement, the game to be played in Philadelphia. Six of the nine games are regarded as major contests and three preliminary opponents.

The complete card is as follows:

September 29—Lebanon Valley at State College.
October 6—Gettysburg at State College.
October 13—Bucknell at State College.
October 20—Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.
October 27—Syracuse at State College.
November 3—Notre Dame at Philadelphia.
November 10—George Washington at State College.
November 17—Lafayette at Easton.
November 29—Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

Tech Nears West Coast

By Special Correspondent with the Tech Team.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Nov. 22.—Carnegie Tech's football squad entered the third lap of the continental trip for its game with Orgeon State College in the Multnomah Civic Stadium, Portland. The Tartans arrived here early tonight and immediately put up quarters at the Acacia Hotel.

After seeing the sights of Denver yesterday and being greeted by officials the Tartans reached the resort, which is only 75 miles from Denver. For the first time since leaving Pittsburgh the Skibos were turned loose. Some went to shows, while others merely explored the big town of the west.

On the ride across the country, cowboys were spotted driving and hope ran that real Indians might appear, but so far they have been missing from the vast spaces, much to the squad's disappointment. The snow on Pike's Peak can be seen from the town and some of the men took the electric railways to the top just to see hows it feels to be on top of the world.

Red Allen's injury seems improved. It now begins to look as though Lovewell will fill the shoes of the dependable Cowan. The latter injured his knee in the Detroit tilt. Wertenberger is still crippled and should his injury not heal by Saturday, he will be replaced by Harmon, the scrappy little reserve halfback.

PITT

yard trot for another score. Welch, who, thanks to a great line and to his own dazzling speed, has been making football history at Pitt this fall and for two years back, will like nothing better than to surpass his fine record of 251 yards gained against State last year by turning in that much and more this time.

Defeat for either team will be a bitter dose. In the first place, Pitt will have its undefeated record spoiled and will lose its chance to claim the Eastern title. Penn State, beaten by Bucknell and held even by New York U., needs a victory like a blind man needs eyes. A win will set the Lions on even terms with Pitt, and will break the long string of fruitless years that have been the Lions' portion against Pitt. Seven years have elapsed since State walked off the field with the Panther pelt under their arms.

PITT FAVORITE.

Having such a fine record, and such a fine team, Pitt naturally figures to beat State again this year. The Panther defense against the forward pass, State's best weapon, has been excellent, only a half-dozen heaves having been completed against the Panther varsity all year. At least, this is the way the gamblers will dope the game, and they will probably quote odds of 10 to 7 and even 10 to 6 on the locals. It is getting so lately that no matter what the opposition, the odds are always on Pitt and Tech. They were giving 100 to 50 and 100 to 70 on Tech against Detroit last week—for no good reason. Pitt was favored over Nebraska, Wash-Jeff, West Virginia and even Tech.

The Lions will get into town today and will be taken to the Chartiers Heights Country Club at 8 o'clock tonight, where they will remain hidden until a couple hours before the game Thursday. Pitt will remain in town, will drill in the stadium daily and will likely be quartered at the Faculty Club until game time.

Wash-Jeff is far from happy over the prospect that confronts them at Morgantown Thursday. Despite the fact Wash-Jeff has yet to be beaten, and that West Virginia has been beaten by Pitt, Tech, Missouri and Georgetown, and held to a close score by Davis-Elkins, the Mountaineers are dangerous, doubly so to Wash-Jeff. Last year the Presidents had a tough time beating them and the year before West Virginia entered the ball game on the short end and beat the Presidents, 7-2.

They will be on the wrong end of the betting this year, but they have shown a vast improvement in their play, beginning with the Missouri game. If Wash-Jeff is the least bit overconfident Thursday, an upset may come out of Morgantown that day.

SOCCER
by TOM BIRKS

IT is hardly possible that the writer will attend any more meetings of the West Penn Football Association following that "in camera" star chamber seance of the local governing body last Friday evening, when the "works" were applied to the Pittsburgh Celtics in the matter of their appeal against the decision of the appeals committee. In fact, had the writer been aware that it was the avowed intention of the committee to hear an appeal against its own decision instead of by the West Penn council as a whole, that time would not have been wasted.

Tom Edwards states that the matter will be carried to the national body, but with this in mind the genial Celtic manager will be forced to heed the decision of the local soccer men and replay the game. But the powers that are governing soccer in these United States probably will embarrass the West Penn cup committee by awarding the game to the Celtics, and then there is going to be some fun, because that may be six months hence.

The writer was accused of "knocking" that august body, but the challenge goes out for anyone to prove that. This column is for soccer and the betterment of the game. Just decisions will be applauded, and the work of the officials will be lauded when the occasion demands. But we also reserve the right to pass out an opinion when something seems wrong, and this will be done without casting any aspersions upon those conducting the game, but with one object in mind, that of giving 20 years of soccer knowledge toward lighting a gloomy outlook.

If you kept your car in cold storage (at zero temperature) it would still start easily with this remarkable new winter medium oil

EVERY motorist wants easier starting in winter. But to get it he should not sacrifice efficient lubrication by using light, thin oil. It isn't necessary. Now, for the first time in history, a medium-bodied oil is offered which enables your motor to start with unbelievable ease in coldest weather.

You have never used another oil which approaches Atlantic Winter Medium for starting and lubricating qualities combined!

Atlantic Winter Medium is a paraffine base oil—highest heat-resisting motor oil known—but without the congealing tendencies at low temperature to which paraffine base oils are heir. Atlantic has found a way to overcome this tendency to thicken, and so actually to increase the starting qualities of the oil.

If you want to escape the worries of hard motor starting this winter—and still be assured of thoroughly dependable motor lubrication—put this remarkable new Atlantic Winter Medium in your crankcase now!

RADIO IS BETTER WITH BATTERY POWER

Count the cost

Buy "B" power with the same demand for service you expect of other commodities and you'll buy batteries every time. Radio engineers declare battery power is the most economical and the most satisfactory source of "B" power yet developed. It operates smoothly, silently—and when the "B" battery is an Eveready Layerbilt the replacements are few and far between.

Eveready Layerbilt "B" Battery No. 486 is made for modern radio sets. It will operate any receiver at normal voltages and will do it better and more economically than any other source of "B" power. Built by a special, patented process that piles layer on layer of active material, the Layerbilt is, without any "ifs" or "buts," the longest-lasting "B" battery available. It is the product of the National Carbon Company's research laboratory—the largest electro-chemical battery laboratory in the world.

DETONOX GASOLINE

THE discriminating woman—a real judge of quality—naturally prefers DETONOX.

She finds this modern motor fuel combines all wanted qualities—does each thing better. She buys it for the common-sense reason of proved superiority—as do most of her friends. DETONOX is unrivaled as . . .

the choice of women drivers

They like the readiness with which it starts, with a touch of the starter. They say, too, that its bounding pick-up helps them to master traffic . . . less gear-shifting . . . better seven ways.

A perfected gasoline that responds to every motoring wish.

Better 7 Ways
1. Non-detonating
2. Instant starting
3. Lightning pick-up
4. Giant power
5. Better mileage
6. Clean, less carbon
7. Safe for you and your motor

Rich Man, Ex-Laborer, Tells Clerk How to Get Ahead

By B. C. FORBES

AN ex-laborer, now a millionaire, writes offering suggestions to the department store clerk whose budget, showing that he does not make ends meet, was published in this column. A few days ago other replies were printed here; most of the advice was that he take up side lines to increase his weekly pay of $27.50.

Robert Dollar, the veteran head of the Dollar Steamship Line, who started as an unskilled laborer in his early teens, after stating that the letter interested him very much, writes:

"I see a great deal of complaint from young men because they apply to be promoted and then are not promoted. In all my experience I never have once asked anyone to promote me. I did it in another way—that was to work harder and do more than anyone else that I was in competition with, and my promotion came right along, faster than I thought it should come.

"If those men that you write about would only quit complaining about not being promoted and go to work in an earnest way from early morning to late at night and produce more than their competitors they would have no complaint coming at all.

"As in all big business, we can not produce fast enough to take the vacancies at the top. There is any amount of room at the top. Why? Because the men below are not working and producing to get there.

"So I think if you would tell those fellows to quit whining and get to work and produce—do more than the other fellow—they will soon get along."

FROM a man who was once confronted with a similar program, but who succeeded in bettering his position, comes these straight-from-the-shoulder suggestions:

Seeing he is 35 years of age, he should by this time know something of higher-type selling.

"With the department store, chain store and mail order organization giving the smaller retail independent merchants 'fits' nowadays, the independent retailer recognizes today that his chief asset in combating this competition is by a sales force in his store composed of not clerks, but real, honest-to-goodness salesmen. Therefore, my advice is to do what I did several years ago.

"Quit his present job—and then go to some high-class smaller retailer, preferably a high-class clothing store or exclusive haberdashery, and sell himself to the head of that store. Tell him to seek employment on the following basis, and I will guarantee that he will not only get the position (not a job), but will also make more money than he has ever made:

"1. Tell the prospective boss that you are not interested in a salaried position, but want 6 per cent on your sales.

"2. Tell the boss that the first thing you will do to every customer you serve will be to extend your hand to him and say, 'Brown (or whatever your name is) is my name, sir, and I will be mighty pleased to serve you.' In 99 cases out of 100 he will react with his name and shake hands with you. All during the sale use his name a fair number of times and he will be calling you Brown a time or two. If you are serving him to his best advantage, his subconscious mind will be indented with that 'Nice salesman, Brown, at so-and-so's store,' and the next time he needs something it is a good bet that he will come to your store and call for Brown. All customers usually tell their friends about you and the store you are with.

"3. Tell the boss that you will never sell a customer a shirt without first taking his sleeve length with a tape; that you will never sell a customer a union suit without first taking his measurements; that, in fact, you will never make any kind of sale where fit is concerned without taking the proper measurements, and that you will miss the sale rather than sell the customer a wrong size.

"4. Tell the boss that, as you will be working on a commission basis, you would like to take off at least an hour every morning during the usual dull period to 'circulate' amongst your friends, acquaintances, customers and possible prospective customers.

"You will find that a live merchant is ever on the lookout for a live salesman, as he has probably had his fill of 'clerks.'"

ONE thing certain is that by never doing anything out of the ordinary nobody is likely ever to get more than very ordinary pay. There is a difference between merely an order-filler and an order-getter.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES TO RISE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Speculators for the advance retained control of the price movement in today's stock market which was largely a specialty affair. Standard industrials and rails again failed to make much headway. Gains of 2 to nearly 8 points were scattered throughout the list with about a score issues including such favorites as Packard, Hupp, Radio, International Paper and Anaconda again touching new high records. Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans during the morning, but call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 3½ per cent. The day's trade news was rather colorless in character.

A brisk demand was apparent for several of the independent steel shares. Midland Steel products preferred continued its sensational advance by soaring 7¼ points to a new high. Otis Steel prior preferred jumped 5¼ points and Transue and Williams, 3.

Revival of rumors that stockholders of the Norfolk and Western would be guaranteed a liberal dividend under an offer of the Pennsylvania Railroad which already owns about half the stock, to lease the road, sent that issue up to a new high record at 201½. Both the Lackawanna and Norfolk and Western, which published their October earnings statements today, showed substantial decreases in net railway operating income.

The closing was irregular. Renewed professional selling drove some of the leaders below yesterday's final prices. Du Pont fell back more than 5 points. Brisk bidding continued for various stocks which ordinarily are neglected, notably Peoria and Eastern, American Republic and Advance Rumely preferred, advances running to 3 points or more. Total sales approximated 2,300,000 shares.

Pittsburgh Brewing Company.

Consolidated income account of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, including the Tech Food Products Company, for the year ended December 31, 1927, shows gross sales of $2,347,509 as compared with $2,202,628 the previous year. Gross earnings for the year were $380,965 as against $387,122 last year. Net loss after interest, depreciation, taxes, loss on property sales and closed plant expenses was $64,600, comparing with net loss the previous year of $69,158. Total deficit as of October 31, 1927, was $485,023. Current assets as of October 31 were $1,106,686 and current liabilities $108,200, according to the consolidated balance sheet.

Seminole Output Again Rising.

For 24 hours ended 7 a. m. Monday, the Seminole area produced 430,930 barrels crude oil from 1,000 wells, as against 424,505 barrels on Sunday and a peak of 527,400 barrels made July 30.

Coast Crude Stocks Decline.

Total production of crude oil in California for October amounted to 19,448,930 barrels, while total stocks on hand at the end of the month in Pacific Coast territory amounted to 140,040,248 barrels, a decline during the month of 932,927 barrels, according to the American Petroleum Institute. During the month 61 wells were completed, with an initial daily production of 20,101 barrels.

Sheet and Tube Refunding.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are offering $75,000,000 Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company first mortgage sinking fund 5 per cent gold bonds, series A, due January 1, 1978. The bonds are priced at 101 and accrued interest to yield about 4.95 per cent to maturity. Proceeds will be used to refund at lower rate of interest, the company's funded debt and reimburse the treasury for additions. Youngstown advices say absorption of Trumbull Steel may be the next step in the expansion program of Youngstown Sheet and Tube. Such a step would give Sheet and Tube the strip steel capacity it lacks, especially in high-speed rolling processes.

Texas Sulphur Production.

Report of sulphur production for the quarter ended September 30 rendered to the state of Texas for taxation shows Freeport Texas Co. mined 320,859 tons and Texas Gulf Sulphur mined 280,479 tons during the period. This compares with 302,979 tons mined by Freeport in the second quarter and 391,428 tons mined by Texas Gulf in second quarter; and with 173,370 tons mined by Freeport and 392,290 tons mined by Texas Gulf in first quarter of 1927.

Congress Cigar.

This compares with $290,858, or $2.47 a share, on 235,422 shares outstanding in preceding quarter, and $403,299, or $1.72 a share, on 231,000 shares, in the third quarter of 1926. Profit for the 12 months ended September 30, 1927, was $2,221,983, equal to $9.41 a share on 237,017 shares of stock now outstanding.

Carnegie Shares Big Rail Order.

Carnegie Steel Company received 24,000 tons of an order totaling 46,474 tons of steel rails placed by Erie Railroad Company. Illinois Steel received 13,774 tons; Inland Steel, 2,000 tons, and Bethlehem Steel, 7,000.

Magnolia Follows Cut.

Magnolia Petroleum Company has followed the 5 to 11-cent cut in Smackover grade oil made by Standard Oil of Louisiana yesterday.

Trumbull Head Denies Report.

J. T. Harrington, president of the Trumbull Steel Company, denied reports that Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company will absorb Trumbull. "There is nothing to the report," said Mr. Harrington. It is understood, however, that the plan for merging the C. S. Eaton group, including Republic Iron and Steel, Trumbull Steel and Central Alloy Steel, is being pushed aggressively.

Damaged Cars Increase.

Freight cars in need of repair November 1 totaled 139,411, or 6.1 per cent of the number on line, according to American Railway Association. This was an increase of 3,790 cars over the number October 15. It was, however, a decrease of 42 from the same date last year.

Record Car Movement.

Average daily movement per freight car for the first nine months in 1927 was 30.9 miles, the highest mark ever attained in any corresponding period, Bureau of Railway Economics announced. This was an increase of three-tenths of one mile above the best previous average, established in 1926. The dail yaverage movement per car in September was 32.6 miles compared with 32.7 miles in September last year.

The average load per car for the first nine months in 1927 was 27.3 tons, an increase of two-tenths of one ton above the average for the first nine months in 1926. The average load per car for the month of September this year was 27.2 tons compared with 27.5 tons in September last year.

Coal Production.

Soft coal output in week ended November 12 was 9,440,000 tons against 9,027,000 tons in preceding week. Hard coal output totaled 1,530,000 compared with 1,568,000 tons.

Lake Erie Coal Loadings.

With Lake Erie coal loadings totaling 21,555,175 tons on November 6 the total is expected to easily pass the 25,000,000 ton mark before the close of navigation December 15, when marine insurance ceases to be in force. The 1926 high record is expected to be surpassed by some 6,000,000 tons. Last year 20,806,511 tons had been loaded on November 6, compared with 24,865,540 tons in 1925 and 21,147,222 tons in 1924.

Oppenheim, Collins Sales.

Sales of Oppenheim, Collins & Co., Inc., for quarter ended October 31, 1927, were $4,372,296, comparing with $4,841,170 in corresponding quarter in 1926.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 13 to 19 points, active months showing net losses of 16 to 22 points in early trading under liquidation by some of yesterday's buyers and local and southern selling.

January sold off to 19.79c and May to 20.16c, but there was some price fixing by the trade as well as covering at these figures, and a good part of the loss was recovered by the end of the first hour. The early selling was promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables which were probably regarded as indicating that the bullish view of the ginning figures had been discounted by the advances yesterday.

Private cables said yesterday's advance had attracted realizing or liquidation in the Liverpool market, but reported a larger cloth business than recently, although at poor prices.

Local Stocks Quiet, Prices Steady

There was no definite trend to the price movement on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange during the early part of today's session. Previously active stocks washed back and forth in narrow price limits, and most of the business handled was at the quotations prevailing on the close Monday.

Lone Star Gas dropped back a fraction as the stock was called upon to absorb a little selling brought out by its rise to new high record levels yesterday. Arkansas Gas continued quiet with quotations nominally the same as those of yesterday. Small lot trading took place in a few other fuel issues, but there were no changes in prices.

Standard Sanitary was firm at 106, unchanged from the previous session's average figure. Fireproofing common was steady at yesterday's high.

Near the close a block of American Window Glass Machine preferred came into the market at 42, a drop of nine points from the last previous price and a new low for several years. Witherow Steel was strong at 13⅝, a new high on the shares, but scarcity of the stock at these levels was reflected in very scant supply available. The company is operating at a high rate and is said to have enough orders on the books to keep the plants busy for the next several months.

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, Trustee.

For further information regarding the Company and this issue of Bonds, reference is made to a letter dated November 21, 1927, from J. A. Campbell, Esq., President of The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned and from which the following is quoted:

THE COMPANY: "The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, organized in 1900, ranks as the third largest steel company in the United States, with an annual ingot capacity of over 3,000,000 tons. It is engaged in the manufacture and sale of a diversified line of products, comprising pig iron, billets, sheet bar, plates, sheets, bars, rods, nails, wire, tin plate, etc., and specializes in the manufacture of steel pipe, of which it is the second largest producer in the world.

It has two steel plants located in the Youngstown district, approximately midway between the principal consuming centers of the country. At Chicago it has a large steel plant, with finishing mills, a large merchant pig iron production and two of the finest harbors in that district. Its iron ore properties are situated in the Lake Superior region and its coal properties in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky. The Company also owns profitable zinc mines in Wisconsin, Kansas and Oklahoma.

In the past three years the Company has spent large sums on new plant and equipment and in 1926 made an important addition to its output by placing in operation two seamless tube mills in the Youngstown district and a large tinplate mill in the Chicago district. The Company has recently appropriated $12,000,000 for the construction of a by-product coke-oven plant for its South Chicago blast furnaces and a boiler and power station at its Campbell plant, Youngstown, which will result in very material savings to the Company. The plants of the Company are modern and represent the latest development of the industry. The Company owns about 600 acres in the Youngstown district and about 300 acres in the Chicago district, still unused, which provide ample sites for future growth. The management is in the hands of executives and directors, many of whom have been associated with the business since its inception.

PURPOSE: The purpose of the issue of these bonds is to refund, at a lower rate of interest, the Company's entire outstanding bonded debt, amounting to $64,422,500, and to reimburse the treasury of the Company for part of its expenditures for additions and improvements. The annual interest on the $75,000,000 new 5% bonds, of $3,750,000, will be less than the present annual interest on the $64,422,500 bonds to be retired.

Of the outstanding $64,422,500 bonds, $47,000,000 The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company Debenture Gold 6% Bonds, $4,982,500 The Steel and Tube Company of America General Mortgage Gold 6% Bonds and $9,348,000 The Brier Hill Steel Company First Mortgage Gold 5½% Bonds, will be called for redemption on January 1, 1928, and $2,840,000 Mark Manufacturing Company First Mortgage Serial Gold 6% Bonds will be called for redemption on June 1, 1928. The remaining $252,000 mature as follows: $128,000 on December 1, 1928, and $124,000 on December 1, 1929. Pending payment of the above issues at or before maturity an equal amount of cash will be deposited as will be provided in the First Mortgage.

SECURITY: The First Mortgage Sinking Fund Gold Bonds will be the direct obligation of The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and will be secured by its First Mortgage to Bankers Trust Company, New York, Trustee. The Bonds will be secured by a direct first mortgage on all of the fixed assets of the Company owned on November 1, 1927, as well as upon all additions, improvements and betterments thereto, and by the pledge of stocks and certain obligations of subsidiary companies (other than sales companies) then owned by the Company, as will be defined in the mortgage, none of which subsidiary companies are subject to any mortgage. The combined book value of the assets to be mortgaged and pledged, as of September 30, 1927, was over $121,000,000, of which over $97,000,000 represented fixed assets and over $24,000,000 represented stocks and obligations of said subsidiary companies. The First Mortgage will cover all the Company's present real estate, plants and mineral properties, except certain mineral leases which, by their terms, cannot be assigned or pledged. The book value of the fixed assets is much below the intrinsic value as is shown by the fact that such assets of the companies now comprising The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and its subsidiary companies, were appraised in 1921 by independent experts at more than $73,000,000 in excess of the values at which such assets were carried upon the books. Any properties that may be acquired by the Company hereafter, with the proceeds of the reserved $75,000,000 Bonds as hereinafter specified, are also to become subject to the First Mortgage, and the Company will agree not to mortgage any property otherwise acquired without first subjecting the same to the prior lien of the First Mortgage. In case of the purchase of properties subject to a lien, an amount of First Mortgage Bonds equal to the amount of such lien shall be reserved for the eventual payment of such lien insofar as bonds are available.

The net tangible assets of the Company as shown by its books, as of September 30, 1927, adjusted to show the sale of the present issue of bonds and the application of the proceeds thereof, will be $200,957,944, of which $72,502,309 will be net current assets. The Company is not presently borrowing from its banks nor has it done so for a number of years.

EARNINGS: The annual earnings of the companies now comprising The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and its subsidiary companies, applicable to the payment of interest, after charges for depreciation and depletion for the five years ending December 31, 1926, have averaged $15,929,371, or more than 4.2 times the interest charges on the $75,000,000 First Mortgage Bonds now being issued. The Company's sales, depreciation charges, and the profits applicable to all interest, for each of said years, were as follows:

Year Ended Dec. 31	Net Sales	Net Earnings Before Depreciation, Interest and Federal Taxes	Depreciation and Depletion	Available for All Interest Before Federal Taxes
1922	$124,331,551.73	$11,270,974.35	$6,180,419.42	$ 5,090,554.93
1923	165,649,369.42	28,525,538.25	7,555,260.58	20,970,277.67
1924	121,456,369.83	21,461,893.86	8,715,638.31	12,746,255.55
1925	136,513,585.03	28,253,968.21	9,023,877.58	19,230,090.63
1926	152,508,502.78	30,776,312.79	9,166,632.19	21,609,680.60

Despite the decreased demand and lower prices for iron and steel products during the current year as compared with 1926, the statement of the Company for the first nine months of this year, after charging $7,844,091 for depreciation and depletion, shows net earnings of $9,735,000, available for bond interest, being at the rate of more than 3.4 times interest charges for nine months on the $75,000,000 First Mortgage Sinking Fund 5% Bonds.

Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co. have audited the books of the Company since 1909.

In the twenty-seven years during which the Company has been in existence, it has never failed to earn a substantial profit in every year with the single exception of the year 1921, in which abnormal conditions prevailed and there was a lack of demand for iron and steel products. The Company has outstanding $14,241,100 preferred stock paying 7% dividends, and 987,696 shares of no par value common stock, on which dividends at the rate of $5 per share per annum are now being paid. Dividends have been paid on the common stock of the Company uninterruptedly since 1906. The present market value of the shares of the Company is over $100,000,000.

THE BONDS: The First Mortgage will provide for the issuance of bonds in series to a total authorized amount not exceeding $175,000,000. Of this total authorized amount, $75,000,000 principal amount of bonds, Series "A", constitute the bonds presently sold to you; $25,000,000 additional bonds may be issued for any corporate purpose, and the remaining $75,000,000 of bonds are reserved to be issued to reimburse the Company for 75% of the amount of capital expenditures made after November 1, 1927, for the acquisition of new property or for betterments, improvements and additions to the mortgaged property or for advances to subsidiary companies to the extent of 75% of like expenditures made by subsidiary companies (provided in such cases that mortgage bonds of such companies for the full amount of such expenditures are subjected to the First Mortgage) or for 75% of the cost of stocks or obligations of other companies, but not more than 10% of the total amount of bonds outstanding under the First Mortgage may be issued for acquisition of stocks or obligations of other companies. None of the $75,000,000 reserved bonds shall be issued except for refunding purposes unless the net earnings (after payment of interest on current indebtedness other than indebtedness to be repaid out of the proceeds of bonds then to be issued) applicable to interest on funded debt of the Company (including subsidiary companies) and of any new properties to be acquired, for either the year preceding such issue, or the average of the last three years preceding such issue, have been at least one and one-half times the interest on the funded indebtedness of the Company and its subsidiary companies, including the new bonds to be issued.

The First Mortgage will provide that the Company will not pay dividends on its common stock (other than in stock) in excess of $5,000,000 in the aggregate, except out of earnings of the Company after January 1, 1927.

Bonds may be issued under the mortgage, par for par, upon or to provide for payment or retirement of any bonds theretofore issued, except for bonds retired by the sinking fund.

GENERAL: The bonds of each series other than Series "A" shall bear such rate of interest, shall mature at such time and be redeemable upon such terms and have such other provisions, subject to the limitations expressed in the mortgage, as may be determined by the Board of Directors at the time of the creation of each subsequent series and expressed in the bonds thereof.

Application will be made in due course to list the $75,000,000 Series "A" bonds on the New York Stock Exchange."

THE UNDERSIGNED WILL RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR THE ABOVE BONDS, SUBJECT TO ALLOTMENT, AT 101% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD ABOUT 4.95% TO MATURITY.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company Debenture Gold 6% Bonds, The Steel and Tube Company of America General Mortgage Gold 6% Bonds, and The Brier Hill Steel Company First Mortgage Gold 5½% Bonds, all of which are to be called for redemption on January 1, 1928, at 105% and accrued interest, and Mark Manufacturing Company First Mortgage Serial Gold 6% Bonds, which are to be called for redemption on June 1, 1928, at 102½% and accrued interest, will be accepted in payment for the new bonds on a 3½% interest basis computed on the redemption prices to the redemption dates, provided notice of the amount of such bonds to be tendered in payment is given not less than five days prior to the date fixed for delivery of and payment for the new bonds.

The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice, to reject any application, to allot a smaller amount than applied for and to make allotments in their uncontrolled discretion.

The above bonds are offered if, when and as issued and received by the undersigned and subject to the approval of counsel. Temporary bonds or interim receipts will be delivered against payment in New York funds for bonds allotted, which temporary bonds or interim receipts will be exchangeable for definitive bonds when prepared.

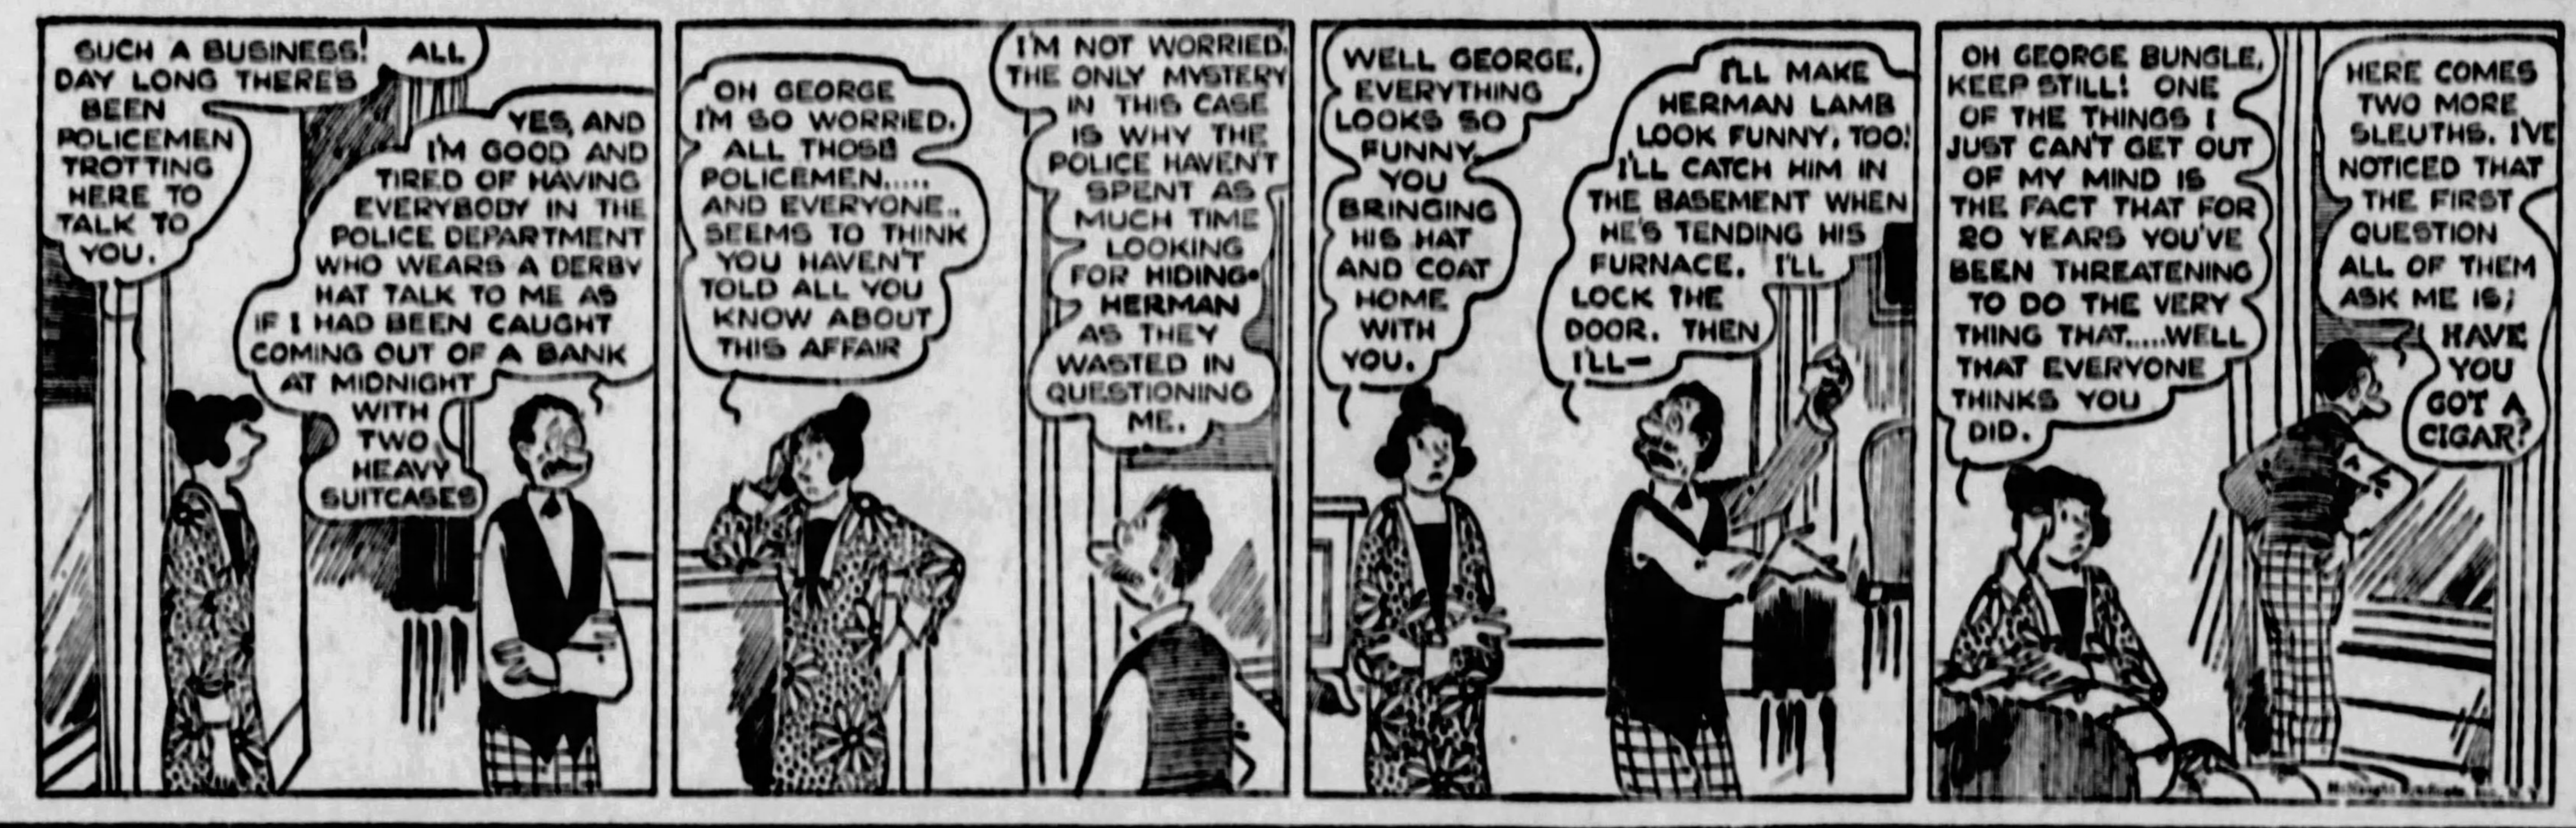
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

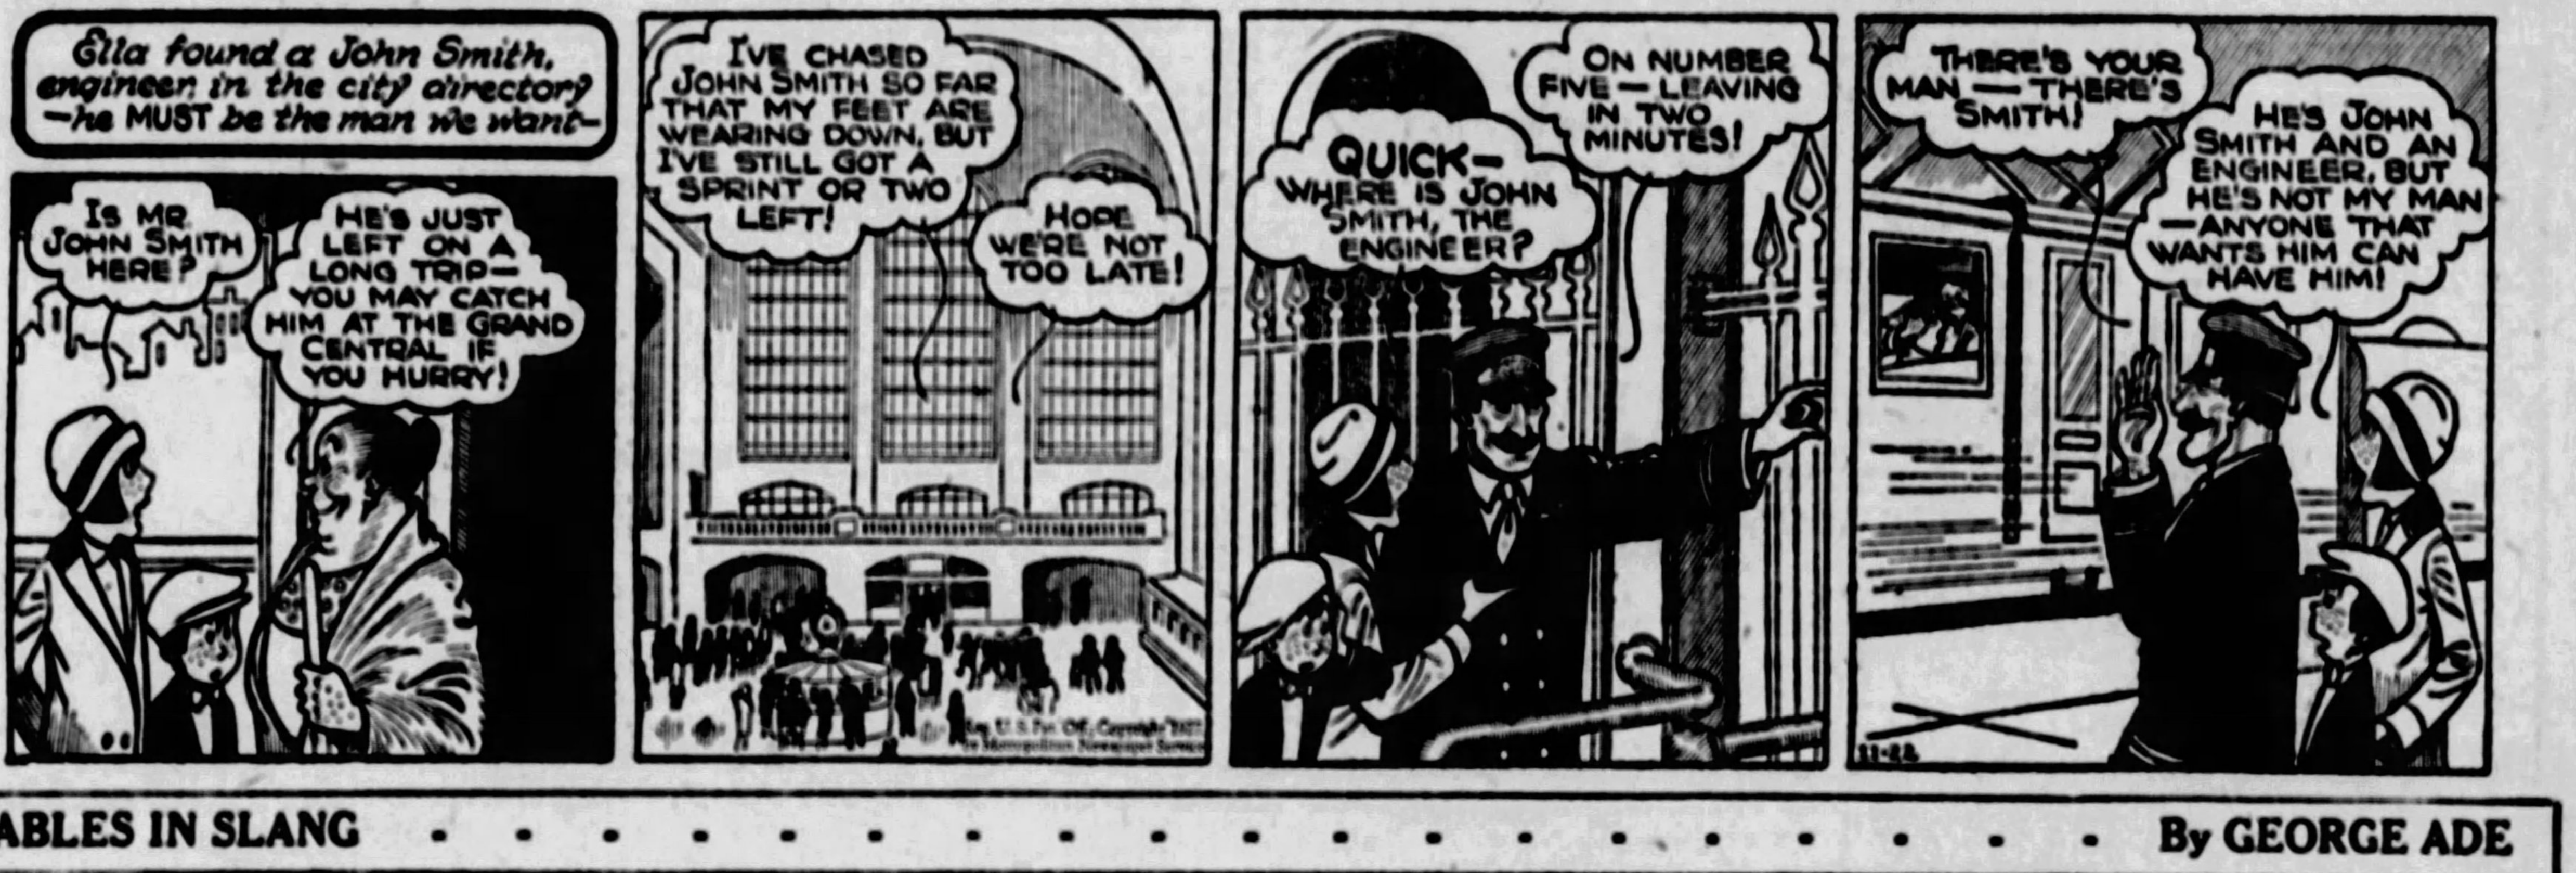
Herman, Where Are You?



SUCH A BUSINESS! ALL DAY LONG THERE'S BEEN POLICEMEN TROTTING HERE TO TALK TO YOU.
YES, AND I'M GOOD AND TIRED OF HAVING EVERYBODY IN THE POLICE DEPARTMENT WHO WEARS A DERBY HAT TALK TO ME AS IF I HAD BEEN CAUGHT COMING OUT OF A BANK AT MIDNIGHT WITH TWO HEAVY SUITCASES
OH GEORGE I'M SO WORRIED. ALL THOSE POLICEMEN..... AND EVERYONE.. SEEMS TO THINK YOU HAVEN'T TOLD ALL YOU KNOW ABOUT THIS AFFAIR
I'M NOT WORRIED. THE ONLY MYSTERY IN THIS CASE IS WHY THE POLICE HAVEN'T SPENT AS MUCH TIME LOOKING FOR HIDING-HERMAN AS THEY WASTED IN QUESTIONING ME.
WELL GEORGE, EVERYTHING LOOKS SO FUNNY. YOU BRINGING HIS HAT AND COAT HOME WITH YOU.
I'LL MAKE HERMAN LAMB LOOK FUNNY, TOO! I'LL CATCH HIM IN THE BASEMENT WHEN HE'S TENDING HIS FURNACE. I'LL LOCK THE DOOR. THEN I'LL—
OH GEORGE BUNGLE, KEEP STILL! ONE OF THE THINGS I JUST CAN'T GET OUT OF MY MIND IS THE FACT THAT FOR 20 YEARS YOU'VE BEEN THREATENING TO DO THE VERY THING THAT.....WELL THAT EVERYONE THINKS YOU DID.
HERE COMES TWO MORE SLEUTHS. I'VE NOTICED THAT THE FIRST QUESTION ALL OF THEM ASK ME IS; HAVE YOU GOT A CIGAR?

ELLA CINDERS

John Smith, Engineer



Ella found a John Smith, engineer, in the city directory —he MUST be the man we want—
IS MR. JOHN SMITH HERE?
HE'S JUST LEFT ON A LONG TRIP—YOU MAY CATCH HIM AT THE GRAND CENTRAL IF YOU HURRY!
I'VE CHASED JOHN SMITH SO FAR THAT MY FEET ARE WEARING DOWN, BUT I'VE STILL GOT A SPRINT OR TWO LEFT!
HOPE WE'RE NOT TOO LATE!
QUICK—WHERE IS JOHN SMITH, THE ENGINEER?
ON NUMBER FIVE—LEAVING IN TWO MINUTES!
THERE'S YOUR MAN—THERE'S SMITH!
HE'S JOHN SMITH AND AN ENGINEER, BUT HE'S NOT MY MAN—ANYONE THAT WANTS HIM CAN HAVE HIM!

BUGS BAER Says

THE presidential straw vote for 1928 puts Hoover right in the middle of the haystack.

This alfalfa caucus was scattered among 5,800 editors in the United States.

Only one-third of the 5,800 editors replied to the political question, which indicates that even life, liberty and happiness is a 66 per cent loss unless you enclose a stamped envelope for the reply.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

Gov. Smith also got into the feed and grain electoral college by polling 737 editorial votes.

Hoover scooped 577; Lowden, 518; Hughes, 218; Dawes, 88. Borah got only 23. Maybe we shouldn't have mentioned it.

Nick Longworth's standing among the editorial delegates was a well skimmed 11. Nick must be losing his circulation.

The fact that Hoover was picked for the Republican nomination and Smith got the Democratic honors does not mean these two adult prodigies were overwhelmingly elected.

They might be overwhelmed. But that's all. The real pay-off elevation does not occur for another 12 months.

And while we don't like to throw cold water on a hot choice you must remember that November, 1928, is a long way off. And a watched calendar never boils.

We must bend the respectful vertebrae to the accumulated 5,800 H. P. purring away in the same number of editorial skulls.

But what the editors thinken November 21, 1927, is not nearly so official as what the newsboys yell on November 5, 1928.

The editors gave Senator Reed 163 votes and McAdoo got 102. The charge of the gallant 5,800 resulted in a selection of 16 possible candidates.

When 5,800 editors pick only 16 favorites it indicates that some of the editors must have agreed with one another, which proceeding makes any editorial conference a failure.

Prohibition Is Undermining Nation's Moral Character

Twenty-five hundred Episcopal ministers, answering a questionnaire sent out by the National Episcopal Church Temperance Society, signified their dissatisfaction with the working of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The majority of them voted that prohibition was not a success in their locality, that the law had had a fair trial, that the prohibition law does not offer the best solution of the problem of intemperance, that the Volstead act should be modified, that the Eighteenth Amendment should be repealed, and that they are willing to co-operate with the National Episcopal Church Temperance Society in a campaign for true temperance.

Of course, this is gall and wormwood to the paid employes of the Anti-Saloon League. Orville S. Poland, head of the legal department of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, issued a statement that the temperance society had only a "parasitic connection" with the Episcopal Church. He sneeringly asked the identity of an anonymous donor of $50,000 to the temperance society. It turns out that the donation to the temperance society was from the estate of Letitia Willett Garrison, who was the widow of Cornelius Garrison, and died on February 5, 1925, in London.

As a matter of fact, millions of intelligent people in the country are recognizing that prohibition is working in such a way as to imperil the foundations of the republic. The moral character of the people is being undermined.

Anyone whose mind is open can see this undermining process. He can see nation-wide disregard of the fundamental law of the land, imbedded in the Constitution, because the majority of the people have come to believe that the government has no right thus to dictate their personal habits.

He can see the younger generation learning a lesson in lawbreaking from their elders, and going them one better. He can see police and judges conniving with lawbreakers in communities where public sentiment is heavily against this law.

He can see widespread official corruption by bootlegging rings. He can see hypocrisy in high places, senators and congressmen drinking wet and voting dry. He can read the daily toll of victims of poison liquor.

The twenty-five hundred Episcopal ministers in their condemnation of the working of the prohibition law faithfully reflect a large intelligent sentiment in the country. Eighteen months ago the Hearst papers conducted a nation-wide prohibition poll, in which two and a quarter million people voted. The results were as follows:

For prohibition, 320,283.
Against prohibition, 1,713,248.
For light wines and beer, 1,933,689.
Against light wines and beer, 285,094.

School in the Papers

The children of Lexington, Ky., are going to school in the newspapers while they are barred from their classrooms by an infantile paralysis epidemic.

Lists of lessons are printed daily; the pupils keep a record of the time they study; proper credit will be allowed them when they return to school.

It is a scheme that does credit to the ingenuity of the educational authorities and the public spirit of the publishers.

But there's nothing unusual about children going to school in the newspapers. Most modern youngsters do that all the time. Their familiarity with newspapers dates from the age when they began to read, and if for awhile they only follow the fortunes of their comic-strip friends and look at the pictures, their attention extends gradually to the news of what is going on.

Children have an eager curiosity about everything, and the newspaper, surveying daily all the interesting happenings near by and far away, furnishes entertainment and information they appreciate.

No longer do we maintain walls of ignorance around growing minds. The up-to-date method of training children deals in the truth—gives boys and girls a clear view of things as they are, so they may build upon a solid foundation of facts.

Even though children learn from their newspapers that this is a not-all-smiling world, but that there is crime in it, and death, and wickedness, they also learn how much it holds of beauty and kindliness and romance and achievement. They will face what they must later on with open eyes, which is surely better than stumbling blindly into discoveries likely to shock.

Encourage your children to read newspapers, intelligently. Guide them in understanding the lessons in right conduct which the newspapers point with stories out of life. Show them how they may profit from and enjoy their attendance in this fascinating school.

Cleaner Books Demanded

Profiteers in printed filth are unhappy because they have been unable to make Massachusetts a dumping ground. Its anti-obscenity law has teeth which bite.

So they are preparing to ask the Massachusetts Legislature to file down the teeth. Notice has just been given by a member-elect that he will propose the appointment of a commission of inquiry.

Representative Ronald D. Sawyer, giver of this notice, is an honest and conscientious public servant, but he is mistaken in his believe that the Massachusetts anti-obscenity law is "ridiculous."

No law which keeps down the tide of printed depravity is ridiculous.

The ridicule aimed at its enforcers by baffled exploiters of indecency is in fact a compliment, and is so understood by discerning persons.

Wholesome opinion in this nation, which fortunately is also majority opinion, is definitely against debased books, debased plays and debased sports.

It demands cleaner print, cleaner plays, cleaner films, cleaner athletics.

The ancient empire of Rome fell because along with the degeneracy of its public spirit went a collapse in morals.

The American Republic has enough intelligence to profit by Rome's example.

More Whittling

According to a story abroad in Washington, President Coolidge, asked what he was going to do when his term ended and he got back to Vermont, said:

"Well, for a year or two I'm going to whittle."

There's a moral in that remark, whether Mr. Coolidge ever made it or not. Americans would be better off to do some whittling frequently. Whittling is an occupation that's a friend to contemplation. More jackknives and more piles of shavings would mean fewer nerves wrecked and bodies burned out by the rush-and-tear of a hurry-up age. We need to stop and just sit now and then.

Time for a Clean-Up!

The Red Cross

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

FROM Armistice Day to Thanksgiving the Red Cross asks for five million.

This is not too much.

It is manifestly the duty of us all as human beings to help those less fortunate.

It is commonly believed and it is undeniably true that the possession of great means or of great talent, or, as far as that is concerned, of any means or any talent, is a responsibility put upon us to help our fellows.

Charity is a thing that should not be left to hit and miss methods. It should not be left to the sympathies of the moment nor to the turn of events.

It is something to be planned for and to be managed as intelligently as any other part of our business.

Mr. Rockefeller in putting his millions at the disposal of a wise and competent board has done vastly more good than if he had distributed them promiscuously. To give a quarter to a beggar upon the street is merely a sop to our conscience when we do not contribute intelligently of our means to such charities as the Community Chest.

The Red Cross is the one charity that has the support of the government and the undeniable right of way in the whole world. It is successfully and carefully managed and one knows that whatever money he may give to it will be judiciously expended.

It is headed in its executive department by John Barton Payne, the former Secretary of the Interior under the Democratic regime. He was appointed by the Republican President Harding and has retained office ever since. All, irrespective of their political affiliation, know his devotion and his genius.

When he was appointed by President Harding he said he would take the job under one condition and that was that he was to work without salary and to pay his own expenses. Naturally this condition was complied with and he now lives in his own house and devotes all of his time to this herculean task, entirely without compensation.

Such an example is a call to all good citizens to rally to the support of the Red Cross.

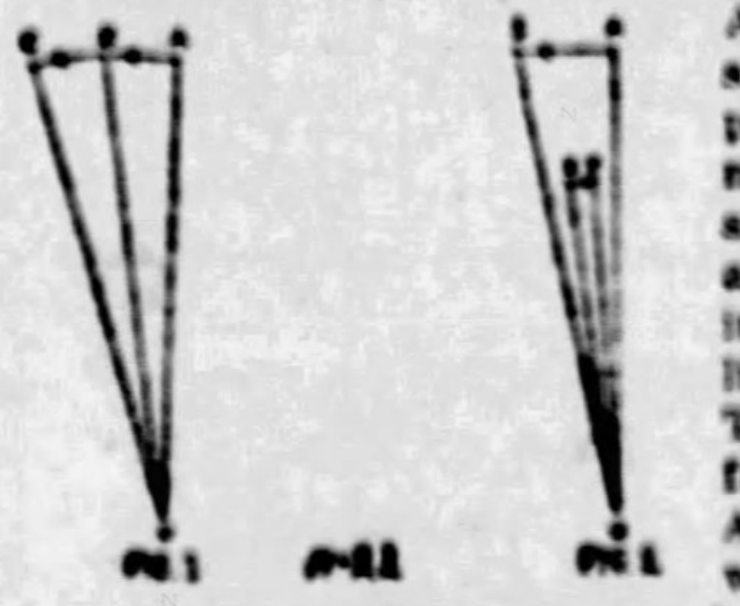
Garrett P Serviss Says:

The Moving Stars

A READER in Columbus, O., says he would enjoy a discussion to the effect on the actual as compared with the apparent positions of stars resulting from the relativity of the velocity of light to the motions of the stars themselves. In consequence of this relation stars are seen by us not where they are at the moment, but where they were when the light left them. Does it follow that stars which appear to us close together may be really at widely separated points in space?

A couple of little pictures may tell the story. First, take Fig. 1, where O is in the position of the observer on the earth, supposed, for simplicity, to be stationary. Assume that a star is suddenly created at the point A, and that it moves toward B with such a velocity that it arrives at B at the same instant that its first light-wave arrives at O. Then, it will be first seen from O as if it were at A, although in reality it will then be at B.



But, after the first wave reaches O an unbroken beam of waves will follow, and the star will remain constantly in view, appearing to move toward B. But at the same time the real star will be moving, with identical speed, from B toward C. In other words, the real position of the star will always be ahead of its apparent position by an angular distance proportionate to the ratio of the star's motion to the velocity of light.

Because of the time taken by its first light to reach the earth, and because all stars are in more or less rapid motion, a new star can never be seen exactly in the place where it is, but always it will appear behind that place. But after once having been seen, if there is no interruption of its light, it will continue in view, slowly advancing in the direction in which it is actually moving.

Now let us look at Fig. 2. Suppose two stars, A and C to be seen quite close together in the direction of the lines O—A and O—C. Suppose the star A to be moving with such speed that it arrives at B, while its light is traveling to the earth at O, while the star C is moving in the same direction with such speed that it arrives at D in the same time that its light takes to reach O. Then, if the two stars were first apparently visible in the directions O—A and O—C, the star A would be seen gradually to overtake the Star C and pass it; and when they appeared to be at B and D they would have changed positions so that A, which was originally behind, would now be ahead.

These are simplified illustrations of the complexity of the movements going on among the apparently fixed stars that surround us by millions. If we were not bound in such narrow limits of time—if a year were but as a second to us—the seemingly immovable heavens would be transformed into an appalling spectacle of continuous, complicated and unimaginably mighty motions.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

So Many Books

SO MANY books, and written here life's every aspect, true and clear; but wearily I turn sometimes from fact and fiction, prose and rhymes. The book-filled walls seem close and dim, they hem me 'round with silence grim, and I would seek some shining shore where whitecaps flash and breakers roar. Oh, I would learn the truths of life amid its tumult and its strife, and not from wisdom dead and cold like that these volumes can unfold! The truths of joy, of pain, of love; through wealth of living I would prove; nor leave one vital page unturned, but glean the all for which I yearned!. So many books, such splendid store of all earth's fancies, all earth's lore; but I would rove far, far away; so many books make life too gray!

Isn't It So?

The nearest approach to perpetual motion is the meter on a taxicab.

Craze for Antiques

ANTIQUES hold the center of the stage, with old ruins running a close second. Antiques are bringing higher prices in this country than ever before and the spirit of acquisition is unquenched.

Old ruins, especially in Europe, also attract Americans. They are buying them and making them over. An extreme case comes to the attention of the public.

One American heiress to millions is so fond of old European ruins that she has just recently married one.

Tales that are Told

A Gloomy Outlook

A SOMEWHAT depressed party was returning home from a football match, when one man broke the gloomy silence with the remark:

"Poor game, poor game! Never saw a more uninteresting one in all my life."

A puzzled-looking member of the party, who was sitting in a corner of the compartment, looked up, yawned, and began fumbling in his waistcoat pockets. Then suddenly he sprang to his feet, exclaiming, "Great Scot!"

"What's up?" somebody asked. "Lost your watch?"

"Watch be hanged!" cried the exasperated passenger. "I've left my wife asleep in the grandstand, and she's got my return half."—London Tit-Bits.

Postcard Peeps

FARMER JENKINS made his way into the village postoffice that was also the general store.

"Anything for me?" he inquired of the postmaster. The other raked over a few parcels and letters, but found nothing.

"Don't see nothing," he said. "Did you expect something?"

"Yes," answered the farmer. "I was expecting a card from Aunt Jenny, tellin' me when she's comin'."

"Hannah!" called the postmaster to his wife. "Seen a card from Mr. Jenkins' Aunt Jenny?"

"Yes," came the prompt answer. "She's coming down Tuesday!"

Absorption

THE professor's absorption in the problem engaging his attention was apt to be exasperating.

A stranger approached him in the street one day and asked to be directed to the nearest railway station. The professer gazed at the stranger with unseeing eyes and—without a murmur—passed on.

Three days later the stranger happened to pass the professor in the same street, when the old chap caught sight of him and, without a word of introduction, stopped and said:

"Well, you take the first turning on the right and continue down the roadway for about 60 yards—the station can be entered through a narrow lane at that point."

Discouraging

OLD MARKUS (walking with his future son-in-law): "There goes Schmidt—I owe him a thousand—there is Soloman—I owe him ten thousand—there is Levy—I owe him five thousand—"

Son-in-Law: "You say what you owe, but the question is 'What have you got?'"

Markus: "Well, haven't I got what I owe them?"—Faun, Vienna.

Hot Dog for Defense

MANY sad things have been said of the torrid towser, or hot dog, during the recent campaign against this roadside confection. Now James Huff, a Brooklyn delicatessen impresario, defends the sausage with a practical demonstration.

Held up in his store, he grabbed a bologna and used it as a club. The invaders fled.

Which shows that it is not always well to condemn any great institution like the fetid fido until all the returns are in.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The most coveted job in woman's realm is a secretary-ship to a high-powered New York executive. These jobs are usually achieved through the ordinary stenographic route and often require the diplomatic ability of a general managership.

The salaries of secretaries range from $50 a week to as high as $30,000 a year. While many such posts are held by men, the majority are in hands of women, chiefly because they have been able to show a greater finesse in handling the intricacies of the job.

The secretary is a buffer between the big man and the world. She, in most instances, knows his innermost secrets—just who he wants admitted and those who are to be politely told he is "in conference." She saves him the wear and tear of incessant trivialities.

She smooths out the ruffles, takes in the slack and gives the gloss of a glass-topped desk to his job. She has access to his private bank account, pays his personal debts, sends him off to this engagement and that and frequently selects his haberdashery.

Of course, there are innumerable instances of a sentimental attachment springing up, but as a general thing the relationship is impersonal. And a few calls at the outer gate explodes the theory that secretaries are prim old maidish types with the vivacity of a fried egg.

They are, on the contrary, in most instances strikingly good-looking and vibrant with girlish freshness. They have sufficient income to dress well and they do, yet somehow there is a distinct impression the job means more to them than anything else.

They seem conscious that few married women can gain the economic independence that goes with a salary, of say $20,000 a year, or the personal freedom either. Most of them do not call themselves "secretary." They give the job a little more glamour. They are "confidential secretaries."

In a play this season, the curtain rises on a faithless wife pumping bullets into the body of her lover prostrate at her feet. Five minutes afterward the curtain lowers to indicate passing of time and he passes out of the play and also the theater. It is the softest snap in acting that has come to the New York theater. Last season a man was wheeled to center stage in an invalid chair and after a few words, dies in the middle of the first act. But his job lasted about 15 minutes.

* * *

Those highly varnished girls who come out of their finishing schools for Saturday matinee and tea, call their adventure "bumming." And sometimes it is, according to whispers. It is said some are frequent visitors to speakeasies where high-play dice games are a feature. A few years ago none of these girls appeared on afternoons off without chaperones. But this espionage is resented in these days of feminine emancipation. If they cannot go as they please, where they please, it is no fun.

The aging Romeo along Broadway is known as "a wolf"—probably because he follows the little Red Riding Hoods.

A psycho-analyst tells me fears that obsess people all their lives rarely happen. And that this is in accord with an old Persian proverb reading something like this: "Man's greatest fear is never realized." This, of course, conflicts with Job's prophecy in the Bible. I prefer to string along with the Bible, chiefly because I have noticed great fears are more often realized than not. Only two days ago a friend who has been perpetually worried for 10 years about his business went into bankruptcy. A lady I know who lived in actual horror of water was drowned on one of the Great Lakes this summer. There are a score or more of like instances which most of us can recall.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Give and Take

SOON discussions will arise as to how the different members of the family are going to spend the long winter evenings.

Father is not keen for mixed bridge parties and Mother is opposed to the stag affairs that keep father out so late.

Again, Father objects to Mother spending so much time at afternoon bridge parties, her favorite pastime, because his dinner is late if she has failed to prepare it or supervise its preparation.

Perhaps Mother is a poor player and makes frequent requests for money which he knows she is losing in her game.

Of course he loses too but that is different.

If both play in hard luck, the family pocketbook gets a hard jolt.

Mother is fond of dancing—Dad is not, or vice versa.

One wants to be a homebody, the other wants to gad about.

Turbulent times are ahead in many a household.

A little more give and take spirit, a more reasonable middle ground would bring more happiness in many homes.
